

BATTLE OF WATERLOO.

It was the night of June 17th, 1815. The French army under Napoleon Bonaparte and the English and their allies under the Duke of Wellington lay encamped near Waterloo. It was dark and stormy—the rain fell in torrents, and the two armies lay down in the tall rye to await the morning that would decide the fate of Napoleon and Europe.

perfect torrent of bullets. The guard attempting to deploy were thrown into confusion and rushed in a crowd to La Haye Sainte. Then followed a scene of destruction and slaughter. The cry of "The Guard recedes" threw the entire French army into a panic. The Emperor tried to rally them, but they would scarcely recognize him who a short time before they were proud of as their King and General. Night came on and brought with it terror and despair. The Prussians following up the routed army gave no quarter but slaughtered every Frenchman that fell into their hands.

Living Witnesses. The hundreds of strong, hearty, rugged and very healthy-looking men, women and children that have been rescued from the jaws of death and the jaws of death by PERRY'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND, is the best evidence in the world of its sterling merit and worth. You will find such in almost every community. Lead of it in number.

The Oyster Beds of Florida. Oysters grow everywhere around Savannah, in Florida abundance, and are often found so prolific in one spot as to aggregate into bunches weighing 100 pounds or more.

Jerome Bonaparte ordered the march by leading a column of six thousand men against Hougoumont. In the face of the most destructive fire they forced their way up to the very doors of the chateau but were there repulsed by the Cold Guards, who were leaving 1,400 slain behind them. In a short time the engagement extended along the whole line. The cavalry of the French came thundering down on the steady English squares with almost superhuman effort to break them.
