Comical change in the temperature, isn't it? At least it would be if you were made of indiarubber, or cast iron. Who was it that designated the "temperate" zone, any way?

In the revised New Testament the Lord's Prayer is materially abbreviated, and all mention of the wonderful working of the Holy Spirit is omitted. Two or three generations will come and go before this New Bible becomes the accepted version.

W. B. Allen opened his new store on Monday evening. He has a large assortment of fine groceries, provisions, glass and crockery, etc. As he proposes to do a cash trade, his prices are correspondingly low. He has had several years' experience in the business, and will undoubtedly meet with success. His store is a model of neatness.

Upon being spoken to concerning St. Jacob's Oil, our fellow townsman, Mr. Theodore Wakelae, said: I had been suffering with rheumatism; and obtained the greatest relief from the use of St. Jacob's Oil. It has also been used in my family for some time, and has never been found to fail in giving prompt relief.

The editor of the Williamsport Banner claims that the support has the prettiest young lady in the State, but declines to publish her name. Just above the paragraph mentioning this fact, is another which may afford a clue to the young lady in question. In it the editor refers thanks to an unnamed donor for a "large and fragrant bouquet." Now she will know who is meant.

On the night of March 10th, W. W. Wilson, a merchant of Sunbury, disappeared suddenly and it was feared that he had been murdered. Last Friday his body was found in the river below the dam. His watch and $100 in money were found on the body and the coroner's jury in view of this fact rendered a verdict of accidental death.

The Danville Board calls upon the authorities of that burg to prevent collisions from rowdiness. The paper claims that the streets are thronged with idle blackguards whose vulgarities are shocking. A few earnest and zealous police officers could very soon abate that nuisance, and the authorities should give the matter prompt attention.

Mrs. John Herring of Mount Pleasant township who died on the 5th inst. was buried on Friday last at Orangeville. She was 75 years of age and was the mother of several children now living. GRANDES IN SESSION.

A meeting of delegates from the different Granges through the county was held in Correll's Hall last Tuesday, to discuss the erection of a store in this town. About fifty persons were present. Committees were appointed to draft plans and specifications, and to ascertain the difference in the cost of a brick and a frame building. The lot has already been purchased and the structures will be built by sixty feet. It will be exclusively a wholesale store, and will be carried on as a stock company, in shares of five dollars each, no person to be allowed to take more than five shares. It is probable that work will begin on the building this summer.

A LAMENTABLE AFFAIR.

On Tuesday morning last, a terrible accident occurred near Mainville, by which two men were killed, and two others seriously injured. The victims are Charles Ness, David Brodman, Conrad Brodman and Joseph Kretzschmar, all trackmen on the Sunbury and Hazleton railroad. They were on a hand car and had gone a short distance on the high trestle work near Mainville, when they were struck by an engine and thrown to the ground beneath. David Brodman was instantly killed; Ness had his leg broken and the other three were otherwise badly hurt that the died soon after the other men were alive at last reports, but are not expected to recover. All are married men and live in Scotch Valley at Millin X Roads.

SUICIDE.

On Friday last, the community was shocked by the rumor that the corpse of a young woman had been found floating in Little Fishing creek. Mount Pleasant township, and that all the circumstances pointed strongly to suicide. The story proved to be true. The body was discovered, at about two o'clock in the afternoon by a boy named William Welliver of Eyer's Grove, and he at once called George Harzel who was working in an adjoining field. The body was identified as that of Maggie Shannon, aged about 21 years, a daughter of Jackson Shannon of Jerseytown. She was a niece of Mrs. Zelousa Shultz of Mount Pleasant and a cousin of Mrs. Charlotte Eves of Millville. J. H. Maize, justice of the peace of this town, was promptly notified and repaired to the spot, where he examined a jury consisting of the following persons: John Wanick, Daniel Wanick, Nevin U. Frank, Henry W. Melick, George Harzel and John Giron. The body was examined and the jury adjourned to meet at Mr. Maize's office in Bloomsburg on the following morning to hear evidence in the case.

The jury met pursuant to adjournment and four witnesses testified, in the order following: Zelousa Shultz swore that Maggie Shannon was a niece of his wife came to his house from Marietta on Saturday night, May 7th; she arrived about five o'clock on the morning of the 13th and told Kate Pursel, another niece of Mr. Shultz, that she was going away when asked where she was going replied that she did not know but she was staying until after breakfast. She did not say that she intended to destroy herself; she was in distress about her situation, which seemed to be of pregnancy, but she refused to reveal it.

Kate Pursel testified as to Maggie's leaving the house; asked witness to accompany her to the house of Mrs. Pursel, the father of witness, near Millville could not do so as Mrs. Shultz's baby was sick; Maggie seemed to be in trouble, and said she knew she would not get well, said she would not make trouble for anybody else; made no remark about putting herself out of the way, and would not tell the cause of her trouble. Michael Hawk was waiting on her; he lived at the same place; could not say when he last saw Maggie; last called on her since she returned from Marietta. He told Mr. Joseph Eck at Millville, that if this had not happened to her, he thought she would be his wife; he had always liked her, but would not marry her now; he would go to jail first. Maggie lived at Chandler Eves' in the fall of 1880; Michael Hawk lived there afterwards; she came to Joseph Shultz in Bloomsburg, then at Jacob Diefenbach's, after which she returned to Chandler Eves'.

George Harzel testified as to the finding of the body by Welliver; Daniel Wanick was called and waded into the creek to pull the body to the shore; saw no marks of violence on the body.

John Giron testified that Maggie came to his house at about half past one o'clock in the morning and asked for a drink of water; inquired whether the Millville creek had passed; she carried a bundle and walked towards Millville; did not see her again alive.

The jury rendered a verdict that Maggie Shannon came to her death by drowning because in the water of Little Fishing creek. There is no doubt that the unfortunate girl had been led astray and preferred death rather than endure the shame that was soon to come upon her. One more victim to add to the list of those who have loved "too wisely, but too well"—one more young life sacrificed to passion—one more weary soul impatient of the world's sorrows, impulsively rushing into the presence of the great Judge. An old, old story, but none the less, painful because the sin and the shame have been told so many times.

It is sad enough at the best to note the ending of a life just when the world looks brightest and brightest, and when the future promises joys and merriment and a life full of promise and joy; and when an earthly career ends so suddenly and when the final crime of self destruction adds to the blackness of the sin that caused it.

The remains of the poor girl were laid in their final resting place by the poor carriers of Hazleton township—so ends the tragedy.

BASE BALL.

Quite an interesting game of base ball was played on the fair grounds, last Saturday afternoon, between a nine from the Wyoming Seminary, Kingston, and one from the Normal School of this town. There was some little delay in beginning, owing to the objections of the visitors to having Joyce act as pitcher for the Normal School boys. This was finally adjusted amicably and play began with the Kings on at the bat. The following are the names of the nine, respectively: Seminary—Acker, Colley, London, Lewis, Hadlog, Carpenter, Baucher, Brennan and Hamrick; Normal School—Boyer, Cheney, Fleischer, Lincoln, Jones, Martin, McCly, Plesch and Powell. Hardly pitched for his man during the first innings and was succeeded by Acker. Joyce took the ball for the home club during the entire game. The visitors secured two in the first innings and three in the fifth, getting "good eggs" in the other only the ninth. They seemed unable to "get the hang" of Joyce's pitching, but in the last inning they achieved that result and knocked the balls all over the field. They succeeded in adding seven runs to their score before they were retired with a total of twelve to their credit. The home nine were "whitewashed" in the seventh and eighth innings, but made enough runs to win the game, their score standing at thirteen. There were some very pretty plays throughout the game, both at the bat and in the field. The umpire, who was chosen by the visiting club, was fair in his judgments as a general thing, but made his decisions too deliberately. Especially was this the case in the sixth inning, in which two of the home club were put out owing to the fact that the umpire did not announce a ball to be "wild" and that men on bases had made runs and were unable to regain their places. There was a number of spectators present, among them many ladies. The best of humor prevailed and the game was so well contested that all present were pleased. The Normal club will be understood, play a game at Kingston at a date not yet made known.

The closing exercises of the public schools took place on Saturday afternoon last. They consisted of declamations, compositions, dialogues, singing, etc., and were all very creditable to teachers and pupils.
