IN TROUBLE. At the criminal term sessions in March last, At the criminal term sessions in March last, a bill of indictment was found against O. B. Meilck, on a charge preferred by John F. Porter, for obtaining money under false pretenses. He had sold to Mr. Porter some territorial ights for the manufacture and sale of a certai sind of paint for roofing purposes, etc. Mel-ck claiming that he had a patent right, through ick claiming that he had a patent right, brough another party, on the paint. It was afterwards arcertained that no such patent had been issued from the patent office. Melick gave bail for his appearance at court at the October session, and shortly after left Williamsport. The rext heard of him was, that he was under arrest in Cattaraugus county, under the charge of forgery in the third degree, brought about as follows: A stranger came to town with a draft for $400; the bank officers were acquainted with Melick, and he (Melick) told the bank people that he was acquainted with the man, and that he was all right, and the money was and that he was all right, and the money was paid. The man disappeared directly after, and the draft proved to be a forgery. Meiick was arrested and locked up. About the same time a man had been locked up for drunkenness. The next morning an officer went to Melick in the jail, supposing him to be the man who had been placed there for drunkenness, and told him to get out and try and keep sober. Melick say t once the mistake, and was smart enough to take advantage of it. As soon as he recovered his liberty he left that section of country hur riedly. A reward was offered for his capture He went from there direct to Lock Haven, by a telegram arrived in time to secure his arrest The New York State authorities immediatel-made a requisition on Governor Hoyt for th body of the prisoner. At this juncture, J. R Reardon, Esq., district attorney of Lycoming county, put in his claim for the prisoner, and a conflict of authorities ensued. District Attor-ney Reardon went to Harrisburg and laid the matter before the department, and upon a hear ing Governor Hoyt refused to surrender the party to the New York State authorities, as there was a bill of indictment pending against there was a bill of indictment pending against him in Lycoming county, Ps. Upon application for a writ of habeas corpus from the Lycoming county authorities, Judge Mayer surrendered Melick, and, accompanied by the District Attorney and Deputy Sheriff Yeager, he came to Williamsport and was lodged in jail. It may be stated that Melick also escaped from Lock Haven, while he was under arrest these. He found a number of friends there there. He found a number of friends there and after telling them a very plausible story they agreed to be responsible for his appear ance. He was then given his liberty unde promise to not leave the place before the re turn of District Attorney Reardon from Har risburg.
