Thirty five years ago, Mr. Gough first published his Autobiography. He had then just recovered from a life of un paralleled dissipation, and was just entering upon that career which has since made him so famous. In 1869 a new edition of that work, with additions and emendations, was given to the public. emendations, was given to the public. 'Sunlight and Shadow" is indeed a remarkable book by a remarkable man. Mr. Gough's recollections of his own experiences have made him ever ready to lend a helping hand to others, and the very nature of his life work has brought m into close contact with poverty, crime, destitution and vice, and he had listened to life-histories of the most thrilling nature, and witnessed scenes that testify anew to the truth of the adage, "Truth is Stranger than Fiction."
Some of the saddest and most pathetic incidents ever told are narrated in the present work, and the reader's eyes will till in spite of himself at the power of Mr. Gough's pathos in describing scenes that have come under his personal obser-

But "Sunlight and Shadow" is not altogether a record of dark experiences. It has a bright and sunny side. Mr. Gough's stories and descriptions of the humorous side of life, as he has seen and experienced it, portray many amusing scenes. His remarkable facility for see scenes. His remarkable facility for see ing the ludicrous side of everything, and his talent for humorous description, is well known. No one can tell more amusing things and in a more irresistibly humorous way than John B. Gough. The comedies from life, absurd blunders, laughable mistakes, comical incidents, embarcassing situations, mostly drawn embarrassing situations, mostly drawn from his own experience on the platform and among the people, will provoke the mirth of the most serious. The venerable Stockton Mansion, at Princeton, the ancestral home of Com-modore Stockton, is now owned by his kinsman, Mr. Samuel Stockton, who is married to a great niece of Benjamin Franklin, and worthily maintains the place. The beautiful old trees which line the road in front of it are one of the chief ornaments of the town. The Potter estate, with its very fine house, is now the residence of Dr. McCosh, hav-been bought as the official abode of the President of the college, but both within and without it is miserably changed in appearance from the elegant place which it was when maintained by a wealthy family who knew how to live.

OF A MINISTER. If you suffer from general debility, brought on by too close application to business and excessive brain work; or from increasing prostration and sinking spells, that even a rest or removal of the cause will not relieve, make haste as did a reverend friend of ours. He secured from his druggist a bottle of Brown's Iron Bitters, having heard of its merit from a physician, who told him not to take any other bitters or tonic, for with the exception of Brown's Iron Bitters they all contained alcohol, and had failed to give his patients lasting relief; nor should be take any other preparation of iron, for with the exception of Brown's Iron Bitters they all blackened the teeth and often gave headache, which Brown's Iron Bitters never did, but in fact cared headache. The effect was most satisfac-tory; he immediately realized wonderful results. His old energy returned, his natural force came back, and he felt himself altogether a new man; full of bealth, strength and vigor, and he has continued to remain so ever since. Now he recommends Brown's Iron Bitters to all his friends which we unhesitatingly do to all our readers. Globs. A Bolocaust in Russia
