The Opera house was fairly filled last Friday evening, to witness the entertainment given by the Lamont and Canfield pantomin company. The Lamonts are really good acrobats and their feats called forth deserved applause. Canfield is an amusing specialist and gave satisfaction. There is not much to be said of the other members of the troupe, On Monday last two little boys, each aged all of whom were possessed of the most feeble about eight years, followed a drove of cattle accomplishments. The singing was poor and the acting inferior. There was a deal too much of Hogan in the programme and he could be profitably eliminated from the bill. Harry James, Esq., of Ashland and J. A. Breckons, of Gilberton, Schuylkill county, Dr. Mitchell, followed by the bridesmaids, Miss Gertrude Simington, of Danville, dressed in plain and brocaded blue satin, trimmed with tea roses, and Miss Emma C Bell, of Massachusetts, who wore pink and brocaded satin, trimmed with Spanish lace and wild roses. Both wore veils and carried baskets of flowers. Then came the bridegroom with Mr. O. A. HELEN POTTER.

The Opera House was not so well filled or Wednesday evening as it was hoped it would be. Those who were present enjoyed themselves but were not demonstrative. Of Miss. Potter's readings and impersonations, es pecially that of John B. Gough, it is peraps only necessary to say that they were strong and true. She is undoubtedly the most successful reader and impersonator now upon the stage. Miss Hart, the soprano, has a strong and cultivated voice which is well encampment. The paper says: "It looks very most durable fence made, is not under control, but is lacking in sweetness and flexibility. Miss Greene is an excellent planiste and played her one solo with taste and skill. She is also one of those rare creatures a reliable accompanist. Miss though not brilliant performer, and her se lections were heartily applauded. Mr. Macthe buffo singer, has a full rich voice and gave his numbers with spirit and vigor. As in encore he sang "Simon the Cellarer" with such humor. The violinist, Leopold Lichtenberg, is undoubtedly an artist and perfecnaster of his instrument. He is quite a youn nan, and certainly has a great career befor im. He plays without effort and draws rom the violin the clearest and purest note he lowest being almost as broad, and full as those from a 'cello. He is a delightful performer and the brightest star in the Pleaides osition in the rank of artists. Taken as a whole the entertainment giver y Miss Potter and her company is eminent y satisfactory and they well deserve the rep utation they have carned. We trust the this is not the last time the Pleiades may illumine our theatrical sky.
