A drunken loafer at the Opera House last Friday night greatly annoyed the audience by his constant, and was notified by the Chief of Police to keep quiet. We have the assurance of the managers that the next man who disturbs an entertainment will be removed from the hall forthwith.

Don't be deceived by so-called traveling opticians. There is no such thing as "traveling opticians;" they are a set of ignorant fellows that charge $4 for glasses not really worth 50 cents. You will only find opticians in cities. You had better go to a reliable dealer who warrants every pair and is always to be found at his store, whereas peddlers cheat you and they are gone.

The usefulness of the daily newspaper appears to be without limit. In New Haven, Connecticut, the other day, a druggist, by mistake, gave an unknown woman poison in putting up a prescription. He discovered his error after his customer had left the store, but he was unable to overtake her. If he swallowed the dose death was the inevitable result, and in desperation the druggist advertised the danger in the local paper. Fortunately the woman was a newspaper reader—she saw the advertisement and escaped an awful death.

An exchange says, "Man's average life is 33 years. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup will always live."

Many persons from towns, fold them, and place away before they are thoroughly dry. This is an error, and sometimes leads to results not expected. In this damp condition there is a mould which forms on them called "odum," one variety of which causes a skin disease known as ringworm.

We have just learned the particulars of an occurrence, last week, that reflects no credit upon a young man who has hitherto borne a good reputation. He resides in Briarcliff, and was engaged to be married to an estimable young lady and Thursday was named as the wedding day. At that time the guests assembled, the clergyman was present and the fair bride, arrayed in fitting garb, awaited the bridegroom. He did not appear, and after some time had passed, a messenger was sent to his residence. There it was learned that he had started for Tennessee that very morning, without a word to the girl who was to have been his wife, or to his friends along the line. Mr. Collins says that the Pennsylvania company desires the speedy completion of the road and are leaving nothing undone to secure this end.—Shiloh's Weekly Echo.

Nothing has yet been heard of Messrs Tuttle and Mondell, insurance agents who disappeared some time since, without finally saying "good-bye" to their creditors. Wm. Knorr is anxious to have an interview with them.

The publishers of the "MECHANICAL NEWS," an illustrated, practical mechanical journal, for eleven years published at Springfield, Ohio, have decided to remove their paper to their Eastern Office, No. 110 Liberty Street, New York, on or about the 1st of March. The "Mechanical News" is one of the best journals of its class published, and it is the intention of the Proprietors to still further improve it. In order to do this economically, and in the best possible manner, they find that it is essential to remove the same to the metropolis of the United States, where they can make the paper first-class in every respect. The "News" is a handsome sixteen page journal, printed on the paper, with engravings of the latest mechanical devices, and subjects that cannot fail to interest every reader. They propose not only to make it popular with the artisan, but a welcome visitor to every mechanic's household. The Publishers send a specimen copy and Premium List free on application. Their subscription price is very low, only One Dollar per year, and a useful premium included.

Almost a Panic.

On Thursday night the Milton Opera House was literally packed with people, to witness Baird's family farce, "The Millionaire," until the overture was about half over, when the Chief Burgess of Milton came in and announced in an exciting tone of voice, "The building is giving way!" The panic can be better imagined than described. Gentlemen turned pale, children screamed and ladies rushed frantically for the door. It was in vain that the stage manager tried to quiet the crowd, but they lost all presence of mind and until the overture was about half over, when the Chief Burgess of Milton came in and announced in an exciting tone of voice, "The building is giving way!" The panic can be better imagined than described. Gentlemen turned pale, children screamed and ladies rushed frantically for the door.
