The recent warm weather has produced lisastrous results upon the roads, and driving is now attended with much discomfort. Ti ere is, however, no very great amount of frost in the ground and unless storms occur t will not be long before the roads are in fair order. Supervisors should go to work as soon as the weather permits and put the public thoroughfares in good condition.

So soon as the weather permits there should be a general cleaning up of all refuse n gardens and grounds immediately surrounding dwellings. There is no surer source of disease than decaying matter, vegetable or animal, and those who are wise will see to it that all such deleterious stuff is removed before the warm rays of the sun cause it to rot and give forth foul odors. A little care and attention may save a doctor's oill at least and perhaps save life.

There is a habit into which some of our scople have fallen, probably without thinkng that what they do is a great annovance to others. We refer to the custom of congre gating in stores in the evening, simply for ocial enjoyment. A call from friends is always a pleasant thing, but a crowd of men sitting around a stove in a store cannot but injure the trade of the proprietor. We know of instances where ladies have stopped at the our and postponed their business, because they did not like to enter a room full of men or boys. The practice is no doubt a houghtless one, and perhaps this will call attention to the matter and cause some to

A Very Grave Charge.

The community was startled on Thursday afternoon of last week, by the report that the wife of Charles Krug had died very sudden at the house of Jeremiah Gross in Scottown. The story proved to be true, and subsequent investigation brought to light ome terrible facts.

Certain circumstances connected with Mrs. Krag's death aroused suspicions in the minds of her relatives and at their request a post morten examination of the body was made, by Dr. Gardner and Dr. McKelvy. As a result of this examination Mrs. Gross was ar rested on Sunday afternoon charged on the oath of Wellington Yeager, Mrs Krug's brother, with having attempted to produce Mrs. Krug. The accused was committed to jail for a hearing on Monday morning. At that time a further postponément was had until Tuesday next, and Mrs. Gross was held faction, in $1000 ball in default of which sum she was committed to jail. As may well be imagined the case has caused great excitement. for such a crime as is charged against Mrs Gross is horrible in the extreme. We refrain from publishing the many floating rumor. clative to the affair, because no hearing has been had and of course no facts legally es tablished. The p-nalty for the crime is a heavy fine and a long term of imprisonment

This play was given at the Opera Hous ast Monday evening, to a fair-sized house It is called a comedy but is really a four-act arce. As in most pieces of the kind there is little or no plot-only a series of blanders and ludierous situations following each other in quick succession and serving to keep the nterest of the audience to the fall of the curtain. The title indicates the scene of the play-a house in which are rented rooms and these occupied by a queer lot of people with decided predilections for getting into trouble. The mistakes and misunderstandings cause many very amusing scenes and the audience are kept in a continual state of merriment. The company was better than we had expected and the play was presented n good shape. "Rooms to Rent" will not probably be a long-lived play-there is hardy material enough in it to warrant a continued existence. It is one of those ephemeral pieces put upon the stage to laugh over for season or two, but there is fun enough in it to fill two or three hours quite pleasurably. Without any particular merits the farce worth seeing and the company give it with plenty of spirit and no small amount of dramatic ability. There are many worse plays and worse troupes now upon the road, and some of the latter with much higher reputations than the "Rooms to Rent" com-

AFTER EIGHT LONG TEARS. C. C. Jacobs, 78 Folson Street, Buffalo writes that for eight long years he had tried every known remedy to cure him of piles, also had been treated by physicians withou success, when he was ultimately cared by Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

There is a shameful abuse that attention needs to be called to. It is that of laying the burden of funeral services upon minister with scarcely a thank you, and never a compensation. To do such service for a membe of his own church, or under certain circumstances for a member of another church-for a person who is interested in church work. and gives of their means for the advancement of the church's interest, there is no minister but would deem it nothing but simple right, without thought of compensation. But even then there would be nothing but a touch of righteousness in granting the minister compensation for service rendered. But the abuse comes in on the part of the people who never scarcely attend any church; who never give anything for the advancement of Election, J. J. Campbell: Inspectors, Peter | Christianity or, if anything, a stinted little. Fetterman, Isaac C. Johnson; Auditor, John When death comes to their families they want a minister. They send for him, and ver, J. W. Smith; Constable, D. N. Wil. he has to hire a conveyance; sometimes pay for the care of that conveyance and for his Poor Director, Conrad Kreamer; School Di- own entertainment. But for that service there is never a penny that in his pocket chinks gratitude against its fellows. undertaker is paid; the grave digger is paid; the liveryman is paid; the doctor is paid; everybody is paid, and in full value, but the minister. And yet he renders the most costvisors, J. F. Bowman, Joseph Hartzel: Poor by service. The thought that he serves them with has cost him years of time and hundreds of dollars. He has a greater capital in trade than the undertaker. He gives as much time to this special service as the undertaker. But then "he is only a minister; let him wait for his pay until he gets to heaven." But there is one great difficulty in that waiting. The man who is mean enough Sayder, J. H. Hetler; Constable, S. H. Wolf; to take such service from a minister without compensation, is too mean to ever reach heaven; and so even in that blissful land of gold, there is no compensation for doing a service for a family, too mean to pay the minister. We protest earnestly against any one not a member of a minister's church, or a supporter of it, taking the service of a minisier at funerals without giving him an adequate pay. The person who does take such service without paying for it, is simply mean, very mean indeed; mean enough to corrupt a graveyard. - Er
