Alexandria was bombarded by the British fleet last Thursday. The city has been abandoned, the Egyptian army is greatly demoralized and has retreated toward the interior. Large portions of the city have been burned.

It is expected that Secretary Freling-huysen will soon resign the portfolio of the State department, and General Grant will probably be appointed in his place. Grant's straightened pecuniary circumstances, not being worth over a couple of million dollars, render it necessary that the country should provide for him in one way or another. The prediction of a Western railroad from the Southwest to Cincinnati, and even the trunk lines to the senboard, will be choked with grain, so heavy is this year's crop of wheat, is a pleasant one. Since last year's exports of edi-bles fell off from those of 1880, good crops now will help to make up the Hubbell still sends out assessment circulars. Some of the employees at

Put the blackguard out!"

The Stalwarts Decline.

At a meeting of the Republican executive committee in Philadelphia on Tuesday, Chairman Cooper was authorized to make the following reply to the communication of the Independents:

GENTLEMEN :- Your three several letters have been received, and the executive com-mittee of the republican state committee have given them full consideration. We are also in receipt of an accompanying let-ter from our candidates which we forward ter from our candidates which we forward as part of the genera' proceedings. All of the communications which you have sent differ in their conclusions, and cannot be reconciled with each other. The difference between your candidates are so wide they practically bar any further attempt at negotiations on the basis proposed by them. Our action in submitting the four propositions which embodied all of the methods and principles asked by those whom you are called to represent, exhaust the powers entrusted by us by the convention of June 21, which authorized the republican state committee "to adopt all honorable means in the convention of June 21, which authorized the republican state committee "to adopt all honorable means in the convention of June 21, which authorized the republican state committee "to adopt all honorable means in the convention of June 21, which authorized the republican state committee "to adopt all honorable means the proposition of June 21, which authorized the republican state committee "to adopt all honorable means the proposition of June 21, which authorized the republican state committee "to adopt all honorable means the proposition of June 21, which authorized the republican state the proposition of June 21, which authorized the republican state the proposition of June 22, which authorized the republican state the proposition of June 22, which authorized the republican state the proposition of June 22, which authorized the republican state the proposition of June 22, which authorized the republican state the proposition of June 24, which authorized the republican state the proposition of June 24, which authorized the republican state the proposition of June 24, which authorized the republican state the proposition of June 24, which authorized the republican state the proposition of June 24, which authorized the republican state the proposition of June 24, which authorized the republican state the proposition of June 24, which authorized the republican state the proposition of June 24, whi committee "to adopt all honorable means to harmonize the republican party, so as to secure success in November."

PHILADELPHIA, July 15, 1882.—Hon. Thomas V. John Stewart, Colonel Levi Bird Duff, Maj. G. W. Merrick and George Junkin, Esqs. in response to certain propositions submitted by the republican state committee, representing the republican party of Pennsylvania, looking to an amicable and honorable adjustment of whatcable and honorable adjustment of whatever differences there may be among the various elements of the party without accepting any of the propositions submitted by your committee. This communication asks us as a condition precedent to any recommendation on the part of the writers thereof, to declare that, in the event of a new convention, we will severally forbid
the republicans of Pensylvania to call upon us for our services as candidates for various positions to be filled by the people at the coming election. To say that in the effort to determine whether or not our nomination was free and the unbiased choice of the republican party, we must not be candidates, is simply to beg the question placed ourselves unreservedly in the hands of the republicans of Pennsylvania. We

NO COMPROMISE.

The two factions of the Republican party, through their respective commit-tees, held meetings last week to effect a compromise, if possible, of their difficulties. The Stalwart committee, after some discussion, agreed to submit the following propositions to the Inde-

Carson and Francis B. Reeves, not in conflict, however, with the acts of Assembly regulating primary elections, and the candidates receiving the highest popular vote, or the votes of a majority of the menthers of the convention, to receive the united support of the party.

Fourth.—A State Convention to be held to be constituted as provided for by the new rules adopted by the late Republican State Convention, to select candidates to be voted for by the Republican party in November, provided if such convention can be agreed to, said convention to be held not later than the fourth Wednesday in August.

Four of the independent candidates in a letter addressd to all the stalwart candidates, agreed to accept the third proposition on condition that both tickets be withdrawn, the several candidates to pledge themselves not to accept any subsequent nomination by the proposed convention. Col. McMichael the independent nominee for congress-man-at-large, refused to withdraw. He President, Mr. Ingalls, that the lines says: "I will not withdraw or retire unless events hereafter shall give assur-ance that necessary reform in the civil service shall be adopted; assessments made upon office holders returned and not hereafter exacted; boss, machine and spoils methods forever abandoned; and all our public offices, from United States Senators to the most unimportant officials, shall be filled only by honest and capable men, who will represent the people and not attempt to dictate to or control them. I shall go on with this fight, asking the support of all my fellow citizens who believe in the prin-ciples of the Independent Republican convention of May 24."

Chairman Cooper says that the Beav er party will not agree to the Independ-The story which has been widely cir- ent proposition, and there can be no compromise on that ground. The fight will therefore go on.

The Use of Money in Elections. It is utterly vain to hope for improve ment in the character of legislation or n administration of government as ong as elections are controlled by money. The politicians who pay to get John B. Storm has been suggested for Congress in the Eleventh District. Mr. Storm was elected twice from this district, some years ago, but he should never be nominated again. He is one of the few men in Pennsylvania who are avowedly for free trade. While in Washington, he voted against protection and gloried in the act. Mr. Storm's district is strongly Democratic, and he might be elected notwithstanding his bad record, but it would be much wiser for his party to name Mr. Buckalew, or Harry E. Packer.—Phila. Press.

It is a common thing for members to make the Record bear false witness. They put into the congressional dump heap speeches never delivered; or, they withold their remarks "for revision" and print an essay very different from the speech made before the House. Witholding for revision thus frequently becomes a pretext for printing for home consumption remarks that would not be allowed before the House. When a member is assailed under cover of the printed pages no member takes the trouble to complain, and it is rare that anybody takes so bold a liberty as Mr. Robeson has taken. What he did certainly was neither manly nor honest, and no rebuke which the house could ad-

This unsavory episode ought to suggest to Congress that it is time to make the Record what it purports to be, an honest report of what is said and done in the two houses, no more and no less Official reporters are provided for that purpose, and while members might be llowed to do some revising for style wrong to which he had been unconsci-

The course which Mr. Robeon chose was unparliamentary and unmanly, and THE PENSION BILL.

The pension bill was passed by the senate last Friday. Messrs. Beek and Plumb each made speeches of such length on the bill that it was found impossible to go on with any other work. The only change made in the bill as reported from the committee was to strike out of the clause that requires First.-The ticket neaded by Jas. A. Beaver and five or thirty millions of dollars that would undoubtedly be required to meet a deficiency in the appropriations for pensions. Mr. Beck said that he was n constant receipt of letters complaining that men were on the pension list who had no business to be there, and he named General Len Harris, of Cincinatti, and several gentlemen who had given him this information. He said that no honest pensioner would complain of the posting of his name and the amount of his pension in a public place. Senator Plumb said the Senator from Kentucky had repeated the old, old story heard so often in the Sen ate reflecting upon the integrity of pen-sioners. He defended the pension roll and the administration of the Pension Bureau, declaring that the roll was as honest as it was possible for it to be, and that the management of the Bureau was first-class in every particular; he did not think it was at all extraordinary that there should be 50,000 fraudulent pensioners in a list of 250,000, and as for the payment of a hundred millions of dollars a year to the wound ed survivers of the war for the defense of the Union, that was a matter of no consequence. He said the soldiers of the Union army did good work, and he thanked God there was something now to show for it. He did not begrudge a penny that was paid them. Senator Logan also opposed the Back amend-ment, and it was ruled out of order on

There will be two decks, upper and lower. The lower deck will be divided off into innumerable compartments, which will contain all the different specimens of domestic and wild animals that the crank can procure, in pairs, between the time of the completion of the "ark" and the ad vent of the flood, which he has set down on his "log book" for October 18th of this year. What They Deserve.

A Washington dispatch of the 18th The reports that reach here that Robeson and Keifer may be retired to private life give more general gratification than it might be agreeable for those gentlemen to hear. If Keifer is beaten for the nomination the Republicans will be rescued from a very awkward dilemma. Scarcely any one wishes his re-election to the speaker-ship, and yet to change the candidate would be to confess that the party dundered in its original selection. Robeson the Republicans recognize a man of great ability as a party leader, but his record is so vulnerable that his presence is a source of constant annoyance, and latterly he has made two or three grievous mistakes as a manager which have seriously impaired his pres tige and influence. So far as reports can be trusted, Keifer will probably win the nomination, while Robeson's chances are less hopeful. Robeson is said to be working like a beaver, and n spite of his professed indifference to to newspaper criticism is reported to be carefully looking after newspaper sup-

ROMANTICALLY REPARATED AND AGAIN

A singular case is now in the muni-cipal court at St. Paul. Twenty-five years ago Angie Miller and Harrison Kent were married at Albany, N. Y., possible to go on with any other work. The only change made in the bill as reported from the committee was to strike out of the clause that requires the Secretary of the interior to trans mit a list of pensioners to Congress each year. Mr. Beck several days ago proposed to publish in the newspapers in each county in the United States the names of all the pensioners, and claims for pensious, and amounts paid or claimed by residents of the county, He also proposed to post a list containestablishing a boarding house. In urging the adoption of this amendment Senator Beck sharply criticised the pension system.
