The attendance at the Opera House at the performance of the Wallace-Villa combination was small, no doubt owing to the rain. The play of "Miss Maltson" which is very similar to East Lynne, was well received. "Clotel" was the other piece which was very funny. They deserved a large audience and would have had it if the weather had been favorable.

"A child of the state" will be presented at the Opera House on Tuesday evening, September 12th, by an excellent company, embracing the Russian Countess, Zelma Valdimar, Miss Emma Stokes, and Mrs. A. A. Fitz Patrick. This is a new drama for this section, and as it is very highly spoken of by the press wherever it has been presented, there will no doubt be a full house to witness it. Seats secured at Dentler's. Prices, 50, 35 and 25 cents.

The concert to be given in the Opera House on Friday evening, the 15th inst., will be a grand affair. Tickets can be obtained at the Columbia office, Dentler's store, and of members of the Winona Fire Company.

The body of a man was found on the new railroad last Saturday. An inquest was held and the jury found a verdict of death from natural causes. The Game Season.

A Child of the State.

Notwithstanding the heat of last evening a fine audience assembled at the Park Theatre to witness the beautiful five act drama of "A Child of the State" by Messrs. J. Pilling's carefully selected dramatic company. The play abounds in striking situations and in many parts develops tender and beautiful sentiment.

The "Gertrude" of Miss Zelma Valdimar was a strong consistent effort which the audience was not slow to recognize, and applaud. Her style of acting is very pleasing and delicate, and she carries the house with her from her first appearance to the fall of the curtain. Miss Emma Stokes as the young Child of the State, was perfectly at home in her part, and did indeed manage to "keep things lively." She is a pretty, vivacious and very clever actress. The "Count Maurice de Lancy" of Mr. J. H. Fitzpatrick proved him to be a finished actor of the old school. The "Gros Renard" of Mr. J. H. Moroso was admirably rendered and drew forth frequent applause and laughter. Other parts were ably sustained by Miss M. E. Fitzpatrick, Miss Kate Burlingame and Messrs. J. E. Wilson and Edwin Browne. Each lady as she enters the theatre is presented with a beautiful souvenir palette upon which is depicted in colors, one of the most striking scenes of the play.—Newark Register, Sept. 2d.

One of the most complete surprises was given Mrs. Bodine of Catawissa on the 25th of August. It was her seventy-third birthday, and her children, William Bodine of Bloomsburg, Rev. John Bodine, of Millville and J. D. Bodine of Mainville, had organized gathering the friends together, to make a joyous occasion for the old lady. They met her at her home on Wednesday and on Friday morning the friends banded to assemble, until noon there were about eighty guests, and the aged mother was brought home to this company, completely surprised. The friends had prepared an excellent dinner, and all enjoyed themselves. After dinner a presentation address was given by Rev. Deane, and replied to by R. E. Wilson.

OF INTEREST TO LANDLORDS.—A case of great interest to those who keep boarders was decided before Judge Hagenman this week. William Boyer boarded with Peter High, but left without paying his board and taking his baggage with him. Mr. High prosecuted him criminally under the act of 1874, which makes it a misdemeanor to abscond from a boarding house or a hotel without paying the board due. The case turned upon the construction of the word "absconding" as used in the act of 1874. The court held that to abscond a man must either leave the jurisdiction of the court or secrete himself so as to avoid the service of process, and as the defendant had not left town nor secreted himself, the judge charged the jury that he could not be convicted under the act, but that they should return to their room and dispose of the costs.—Northampton Register.

A New Source of Delight.

One of the most delightful works issued in many a day is the "TREASURY OF SONG," Prof. D. H. Morrison, editor, Hubbard Brothers, Publishers, Phila. It would be difficult to detail all the merits and beauties of a book so full of creations that touch the heart and revive memories common to all. The old and familiar songs that have been dear to every home and the brightest, sweetest, new songs that are becoming immensely popular, are here found grouped together in a most beautiful and attractive volume. The work gives more joy than a hundred concertos or operas, for it comes daily into the family, where all can enjoy it, and where such a book has long been wanted.

This collection embodies the widest diversity in the character of its contents, including compositions which are practical, patriotic, martial, descriptive, didactic, sentimental, humorous, pathetic and devotional. It is believed that no phase of sentiment, and no set of circumstances, will fail to be appropriately met in the use of this book. Because of this splendid fullness, all the inmates of the home, from grandfather to baby pet, may feel that the music of the home circle is truly a feast of feelings. There is not a song in the entire collection that could be omitted without marring the completeness of the book. Indeed the world's greatest basso, M. W. Whitney, of Boston, gives it his "cordial endorsement" as "a most desirable book for the home circle." His opinion is corroborated by multitudes of equally eminent musicians.

Dr. J. H. Vincent, Superintendent of the great Chautauqua Assembly School, was so pleased with this book that he secured three copies as prizes at the competitive Normal examination of that institution.

Memorial.

Died in Greenwood on September 2, of typhoid fever, Miss Cora Beislme, aged 18 years, 9 months and 26 days. She deceased at the age of fourteen years made a public consecration of herself to God by uniting to the Reformed church at St. James. Though young in years her character was christian and womanly, she was an obedient and dutiful child, and her life was a ministry of peace and consolation. Since the coming of her family to this place, she has been a constant member of the Pine Grove Sabbath school, and all had learned to love, honor and respect her. And since it has pleased an all wise Providence to remove her from our midst, we bow submissively, saying: "Thy will be done." We all hope to meet her in the "Sweet Bye and Bye."

She leaves a loving father and mother and two brothers, besides many friends, to mourn her loss. Surely our hearts are comforted; may her death be sanctified to the good of the bereaved family circle, church and Sunday school.

"Thou wert not formed for living here, So linked thy soul was with the sky; Yet, ah, we bid thee all so dear, We thought thee never formed to die."

The funeral services were held in the Mt. Pleasant Church to which place her remains were followed by a large concourse of sympathizing friends. Her pastor, Rev. A. Houtz, preached the sermon from the text of her own selection: "Let your affections be on things above, and not on things on the earth." Col. 3: 2. The sermon was listened to with much interest. The pall bearers were six young ladies of her Sunday school class.

Engines.

The miasma which creeps along to a river bottom and low-lying valleys is too heavy to rise in the atmosphere to the mountain tops upon which hang the rain clouds. So far as I know it has not yet been determined at what altitude a Hay Fever victim is relieved from his sufferings. This point, which is said to be twenty-five hundred feet high, I presume above the water, is of a sufficient height to answer the purpose. I have just enough of the genuine symptoms of Hay Fever here to show me that I would be suffering at home. The objection to the place is its inaccessibility from Bloomsburg, across the country, forty miles, from Muncy twenty-two miles, from Hughesville seventeen miles. Of course, the certainty of ease from suffering, and rest from labor, enables a man to endure some inconveniences, but I can easily conceive what a crowd of visitors a railroad, reaching the lake, would bring to its delightful shores and walks.

Some of the conveniences of our late civilization are here already. A telephone to Laporte and Dushore, where you reach a telegraph line, brings you into contact with the wicked outside world; but owing to the peculiar way in which Uncle Sam's carrier his mails, it takes about three days to get a letter from Bloomsburg. We are therefore sent back to the times when a newspaper a week old was the best British army might be drowned in the Red Sea for a week before we could hear of it; or the news of the day might be belonging some other, with McClure holding the sponge; or the Kilkenny Kat fight of Knocking and Kornell might be ended for many days before the echoes of Eaglesmere could resound with shouts for the victors, or sighs for the vanquished.

As long as I have been among my friends, I have never seen a headache, constipation of the bowels, colic, sour stomach, heartburn, fever and ague, dropsy, jaundice, prepared for roots and herbs, at the Kilkenny Kat fight, Bloomsburg, Pa. Aug. 4th 3m.
