Starting Plants from Slips.

Peter Henderson, in the Ladies' Floral Cabinet, gives the following directions for the domestic propaga-tion of plants from slips: Florists use Floral Cabinet, gives the following directions for the domestic propagation of plants from slips: Florists use what are called propagating benches for rooting cuttings when wanted on a large scale, as they usually are by them; but when an amateur, not having greenhouse facilities, wishes to root a few slips, there is no process that we can recommend better than what is known as the "saucer system," which, even at the risk of telling it to some of your readers who already understand it, I must again repeat, as there is no other plan that is so simple and so safe. Take any common saucer or plate, into which put sand to the depth of an inch or so. Then prepare the cuttings in the usual manner and place them in the sand close enough to touch each other. The sand is then to be watered so as to bring it into the condition of mud. The sancer thus filled with slips may be placed on the window-sill and exposed to the sun. The cuttings must be fully exposed to the sun. The cuttings must be fully exposed to the sun. The cuttings must be fully exposed to the sun. The cuttings must be fully exposed to the sun. The cuttings must be fully exposed to the sun, and never shaded. But one condition is absolutely essential to success: until the cuttings take root the sand must be kept continually saturated with water, and always in the condition of mud. To do this the slips must be watered at least once a day with a very fine rose watering pot, and the watering must be done very gently, else the must be done very gently, else the cuttings may be washed out. There is every certainty that ninety-nine per either abandoned the theistic oath or cent of the cuttings put in will take made its use optional; while in unim root, provided they were in the proper portant and backward countries, like Servia, Greec, Portugal and Spain, the condition when placed in the saucer, and that the temperature has not been outh is most stringently imposed. lower than sixty degrees for greenhouse plants, or less than eighty degrees for tropical plants.
