A Singular Case. A singular and distressing misfortune has prostrated the 18-year old daughter of Wm. McNinch, of Cooper twp. On Monday of last week, she experienced what the physician in attendance, W. H. McReynolds, of Biocomsburg, pronounced catalepsy, and until the subsequent Wednesday her body remained rigid, losing all life-like expression, and only by the tests applied was the fact of her still living made apparent. On Wednesday the rigidity partly relaxed and she gained the power of sight and hearing, but speech has been denied her and she is as yet entirely helpless. Since then she has remained in this condition. She refuses food, and seems to feel that all endearments are contaminating, for when touched by any one she makes strenyous efforts to rub off the snot attinged Her affliction has naturally been a matter of much grief to her relatives and friends, who have, in addition to the physician named sought the assistance of several
