GAGGING THE PRESS IN EGYPT.— CAIRO, Aug. 18.—The government intends to suppress the Egyptian Gazette on account of its having printed satirical articles on the ministers. Four native papers, which have also been printobjectionable articles, have warned that their publications will be suspended if they continue to print of fensive articles.

A Pointer as to Niles.

From the Norristown Register.

Niles is essentially a corporation man in the most obnoxious sense of that term. During all his gravitations from stalwartism to "independence" and back again he has never faltered in his devotion to capital as against labor.

CHAIRMAN HENSEL ADDRESSES THE PHIL ADELPHIA DEMOCRACY

haustive address to the members of the were full of hope and they frequently aroused applause. He spoke of the present year being an exceptionally active one, from the fact that politics were everywhere on the go. "People were talking polities and editors writing polities and editors writing polities and the interest in politics was concluded, must be regarded as the position of the Pacific coast, gotten up act of a madman whose courage, like Guiteau's, took direction only in the line of his insanity. Major Caskie reliavishly decorated along the line of his insanity. Major Caskie reliavishly decorated along the line of his insanity. Upon the lates the following facts: "Upon the many of the leading cases before the supreme court of the United States, of John Brown's raid, the Richmond, Virginiand of John Brown's raid, the Richmond of John Brown's raid of John Brown's raid of John Brown's raid of John Brown's raid of J was unusual in every county I bave visited," said Hensel. "It has been represented that there is a break in the presented that there is a break in the democratic ranks. There are people favorably and prominently mentioned in connection with the presidency. He has written much for the public press, and if they do go out then let them year, and if they do go out then let them stay out altogether. I believe that we read and greatly admired. Michell on the Richmond boards. should serve a notice on such people that if they intend to go out of politics this year or stay in that year let them go out for good. The importance of this campaign cannot be overestimated. The sentiment which actuates the democratic party this year must be supplemented by the work next year. There are 450,000 democratic voters in the state of Pennsylvania. Of this number not 350,000 votes are ever polled. If there are 300,000 democratic votes cast next duty. This matter can be looked after between now and the last of September. After that date our sole attention must to make the final charge and carry the they are intended. state by a round majority. This, as we can not get out the full vote this democratic lookout is not encouraging, owing to the united factions of the republican party, but that is a wrong impression. If you analyze the vote of last year you will find that not more than 25,000 votes were cast for the delicans. From the reports I have had from the democratic counties in the in- vice. will be diminished this year, and that portion of them that come to the polls at all will divide their patronage be tween the two regulartickets. the full democratic vote." Captain Taggart at Home.

Captain Taggart, the Democratic candidate for Auditor General, stands high at home with all classes of citizens, regardless of party affiliations The Tidioute Weekly News, a Republican paper printed at the Captain's place of residence, has this to say of his nomination :

"The Democratic State Convention did itself and the party an honor when they nominated Captain Robert Taggart as its candidate for Auditor Genmeet him every day, who do business with him, know how good a citizen, how prompt a business man, how entirely thoroughly reliable he is. For his sake, for the good of the State, we should like to see him elected to the position. If all the candidates of both parties are as clean handed and upright as Captain Taggart, this campaign will of necessity, be one devoid of mud-slinging. We don't subscribe to the Captain's politics, but we bear willing, unasked testimony to his worth and

And in another brief article, the News corrects a misstatement :

Death of Judge Black.

The eminent jurist died at his home at York, Pa. on Sunday morning last, after an illness of one week. From the beginning of his illness he believed that he would never recover and was perfectly resigned. Mrs. Judge Black, Lieutenant Governor Chauncey F. Black and wife, Mr. Henry Black, Mr. and Mrs. Hornsby, A. B. Farquhar and Dr. Misenhelter were present at the dissolution. Shortly before Judge Black died he said to his wife: "How can I fear to cross the dark river when can I fear to cross the dark river when my Father waits for me on the other shore?" and added: "Would I were as comfortable about all I leave behind unfinished in this world," and then breathed the following earnest prayer "Oh, Thou beloved and most merciful heavenly Father, from whom I had my being and in whom I have ever trusted if it be Thy will grant that my suffering may end and that I speedily be called home to Thee, and O! bless and comfort thee, my Mary.

Plain Truth About the State College.

If pupils cannot be obtained for the State Agricultural College without special effort it is pretty good evidence that such a school is not wanted and that the state had better close it and devote the money now expended upon it to some other use. The college is not in good repute, and this no doubt deters young men from entering it. The other objection, arising from the cost, inconvenience and dangers attending a residence away from home for four years, is a serious one for the people in the circumstances of those who pie in the circumstances of those who might be expected to avail themselves of such privileges. It is reasonably certain that much better educational work would be accomplished if the appropriation now made for the support of the state college were devoted to helping to establish technical training schools in the chief manufacturing cities of the state. It is not necessary that the state should pay all the expenses of such education. Private and corporate enterprise could easily be invoked to bear the brunt of the undertaking if the state should offer to assist, and the greater amount of useful work could be done in night classes, for the reason that those who are to be benefited. fited are generally employed during the day. A comprehensive system of state aid for such schools, which would be all the better if they were not entirely free, would doinfinitely more good than the maintainance of a third or fourth class college which pupils cannot be persuaded to attend.

The following episode in the life of John Wilkes Booth, related by our artist, Major Caskie, who served the Confederacy with distinction, derives interest from the light it sheds on the spirit of America's terrible tragedian. It exposes a ripple of the current on which Booth drifted helplessly into the commission of his instance act, by which commission of his insane act by which estimated that 10,000 Knights would the return of peace and good will was march in the street parade on Monday delayed and the South committed to temporary decay. The first religious services, under the police force was present, they were unable to control the crowd, the greater number of officers being employed in carrying off fainting women and chillren. The interior of the pavilion was so hot that before the services were half over people commenced streaming out. Expressions of thankfulness were repeatedly heard from those who managed to escape being crushed to death. This was the first evidence of mismanagement on the part of the committee who permitted twice too many tickets to be issued. The robbery of the Yosemite stage n the early part of the week, just as it was entering the valley, was an unfor-tunate event. The highwaymen selected, with poetic inspiration, that point as the scene of their operations, and cleared about $1,500 in money and ewelry from the seven passengers. They are thought to be Mono county horse thieves, and officers are on their track. On the day following the stage was upset near the valley and severa passengers were badly hurt. The singular feature of these occurrences is that this is the first robbery ever known on the stage line into the valley, and this is the first serious accident to coach.
