J. M. Long of Benton started for Michigan on Tuesday to purchase a car load of stock.

Mrs. E. Hollingshead and little son have been the guests of Mr. M. F. Eyerly previous to and since the marriage of his daughter Minnie. She was prominent spectator at the marriage ceremony, being an intimate friend of the bride, whose name however, was omitted when mentioning names from different places present.

Dr. James R. Lewis the oldest physician in Luzerne county, died last Saturday.

Paper bags, all sizes, square and astel bottom, at the Columbian store.

On Friday last week the North Mountain was covered with snow.

A large variety of Celloid Collars & Cuffs at David Lowenberg's.

The election was a very quiet one. There was no excitement or disturbance of any kind.

The Star, Danville's new daily, has come to us, and we find it a new and interesting sheet. We try it prosper.

Sheriff Mowrey has been suffering with neuralgia for some days past. M. F. Eyerly is acting as Deputy Sheriff.

The Millville Record has been removed to Nanticoke, and now appears as the Luzerne Venture.

Imported olive-wood pen holders and pencils, very pretty and very cheap, at the Columbian store.

C. C. Galligan has broken ground for a dwelling house on his corner lot next to St. Columba's church.

E. H. Little, Esq., and Geo. Hirsman brought 21 miles and 18 horses from the West last week. They are fine stock.

Fine visiting cards with name printed on, 25, 30 and 40 cents per pack of 25 cards, at the Columbian office.

Misses Emma Flicking, Annie and Jennie Quick and Harry Quick, of Rupert, were neither absent from, nor tardy at school during the month of Oct.

Four Eyerly correspondents who sign himself "Job" will give us his correct name we shall be pleased to hear from him again.

Prothonotary Krickbaum has made some further improvements in the office by the addition of shelving in the vault, for a more convenient arrangement of the official papers.

M. Levy & Co., of Berwick, successors to M. A. Loeb, offer a fine stock of clothing, hats and caps, trunk valises, ladies' coats, &c. See advertisement in another column.

Lost.—From a carriage a red striped lady's shawl, of little value except to the owner. The finder of same will confer a favor by leaving it at the Sanitarium opposite the depot at Bloomsburg.

Jasper Demott will sell valuable personal property on the premises near Jerseytown on Thursday November 15th, 1888, consisting of horses, cows, hogs and general farming implements.

DEPART.—Came to premises of Daniel Yeocum near Bloomsburg on or about Oct. 14th, a white goat. Owner can have it by proving property and paying for keeping and for this notice. 21

The failure of Peter Baldy, one of the leading business men of Danville, on Monday last, was the theme of conversation in every circle. His liabilities are over $100,000, and he has confessed judgments to the amount of about $70,000.

Mr. Russel Shultz of Benton township, near Cambria, is the proud father of the champion small baby in Columbia county. It weighed just two pounds at its birth, is enjoying excellent health and is now about three weeks old.

Tuesday evening was the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the wedding of Ellis Cox, at his residence. Many invited guests were present. Some handsome presents were given. A beautiful repast was served. The band entertained the occasion with good music. A very pleasant time was had and the wish of the many friends of Mr. Cox is that they may see many more such anniversaries.

On October 13th Forpang's circus and menagerie exhibited in Williamsport, and Miss Hattie Collins, daughter of Mr. Daniel Collins, who was then employed as a domestic with a family in Newberry, left for the purpose of attending the show. Since that date nothing has been seen or heard from her. Her parents are nearly distraught, and will thankfully receive any information of her whereabouts. The following personal description is given: Age 17 years; light hair; short and heavy set, weighing about 180 pounds. Direct any communication to Daniel Collins, Newberry, Lycoming county, Pa.

Danville is again excited over the appearance of the "clock man."

The "clock man" has been seen several times during the last week. He is described as a tall man wearing a large black clock, with which he screens his face. Whether he is a lunatic, a detective, or a ruffian no one has been able to find out.

We have in our window two ears of corn which were raised by Reuben Hess on his farm near Ripert. One is thirteen and a half inches long and contains 14 inches long with 18 rows. They are very fine specimens, and we doubt whether many of our farmers can beat them.

Notice is hereby given to the bondholders of the Bloomsburg State Normal School that upon presentation of the bonds all interest due up to September 1st, 1888, will be paid by H. J. Clark, Treasurer, at the office of H. J. Clark & Son, Bloomsburg, Pa. You will please presenting same before December 1st, 1888.

H. J. CLARK, Treasurer.

The Bloomsburg Lecture Association have relinquished the field this season, but the ladies of the Home Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church will treat us to a lecture in the Opera House on Friday evening Nov. 16th, by Rev. Sheldon Jackson D. D. of New York City. Dr. Jackson is very familiar with Alaska, his subject having been there several times, and gives an interestingly interesting lecture.

In Centuria there were only 10 democrats voted out of 170. In North Conynght only 42 out of 224. This is a very striking evidence of the indifference shown in this county everywhere. The result of Tuesday's election is not to be wondered at.

On the other hand Fishersburg comes in with a gain of 11 votes over last year, and Orange with a gain of 6. The lower end did not do its duty this year. If the right vote is worth having it is worth using.

FOR SALE.—A flouring mill, with latest improved machinery. Good locality and near market. For further information, address, Postmaster, Reuburn, Luzerne county, Pa., Nov. 9th.

Horace Walters, son of A. K. Walters of Ashland, died at his father's house last week Wednesday aged about thirty years. Some years ago he attended the Normal school here, and will be remembered by many of his old schoolmates as a young man of an unusually bright intellect and of fine social qualities. After leaving school he read law with W. A. Marr, Esq., and was admitted to the Bar of Schuylkill county, where he has been practicing for several years. His disease was consumption.

Some unfavorable comments were made on Tuesday evening it was found that quite a number of names were omitted from the registry list, and most of them republicans. The fact that the democratic committee looked after the matter and had about forty names put on the sixty day list, while the republicans paid no attention to it, explains how this happened. It was no doubt an exhibition of great carelessness on the part of the assessor to miss the names of some of the most prominent business men whose names have been registered for many years, but to charge that it was done intentionally is absurd, as nothing could have been gained by it, if so done.

Obituary.

Maria, wife of B. P. Hartman, died on Wednesday morning, of dropsy, after a long and suffering illness, aged 70 years, 7 mos. and 25 days.

Imported olive-wood pen holders and pencils, very pretty and very cheap, at the Columbian store.

C. C. Galligan has broken ground for a dwelling house on his corner lot next to St. Columba's church.

The Benton Meeting.

A great crowd of people gathered at Benton last Friday to see Gov. Pattison and hear his talk. But owing to some misunderstanding among our people so that the time the Governor would address the citizens of Benton they failed to be in time, but fortunately had the good pleasure of seeing him at Stillwater. It was quite a disappointment to many of our town people that the Governor did not give our little village a call.

Prof. Heck has returned home again, and is usual at his post looking after the interests of his school. Rest and an abundance of good victuals that the Prof. received while visiting has had its desired effect. He looks as fat as a guinea-pig.

The steam saw mill located near the Iron Bridge just above town has been running its best since started, and with about thirty cords of lumber and work its contract will be finished.

The mud on our streets is drying up making the roads more passable. We also noticed the supervisor on Monday last on work trying to place them in better condition for the winter travel.

It is lawful to dump saw dust into streams that the Fish Commissioners have stocked with bass and trout. I hear a great deal of complaint concerning the mill on the bridge running all their dust into the creek. If it destroys the fish then there should be a stop put to the business. There was a great many bass to be seen near the bridge this summer, but very few now. I suppose the dust has cleaned them out.

Business in Orangeville is still on the increase. I have been an observer and could not help but notice that the leading and enterprising merchants, Lilly and Leppley are doing a rushing business. Their stock is complete, and with their pluck they are sure to control a large trade.

Somebody was drunk or very sick Saturday night as Sunday morning revealed the contents of some very weak stomachs on the sidewalks. Boys, if whiskey won't settle your stomachs, then try water for a change.

W. A. Robbins and wife and A. W. Eweland and wife visited friends last week at Watonsburg.

Miss Susie Hayman has returned home from Reno, Clinton Co., this state.

Our townsman Geo. Herring is very pleasant since that he has become the father of a ten pound boy.

Mike is looking for the lad that trod out Perry Keller's coat giving it the locust out on the back. Such conduct should be rewarded with a good fine for damage, as such an act is surely malicious mischief.

The race between Bloomsburg and Orangeville was quite a lively affair on Friday last. The roads were had but nevertheless the race was a success. By all appearances the Orangeville teams were a little too fast for the Bloomsburg turnouts. Time, 8:40.

Wm. Bower, wife and daughter have just returned from Kansas where they have resided for the past five years. Mr. Bower is now making his home in Columbia Co. in the future.

I have heard that a new society is to be organized soon in this town. It is to be called "The Young Men's Balldance Society." I think the idea a good one as there is plenty of material here to start one. Unfortunately X. Y. Z. cannot be a member.

I have been informed that Henry Everett is spending very slowly, and my accounts will be a long while before he will be about.

The fine weather is making the farmers feel glad. Their winter grain is looking very nice, and with the fine stand it is getting the probabilities are it will winter well.

The railroad excitement has abated, but we think that after the election has quieted down it will revive again. It would certainly be a relief to us if Cap. would let us know when the first lot of hands will arrive. The crowd he sent to Stillwater some time ago has failed to go to work. I presume the Bear and other animals went on a strike. Cap. send the monkey and the hat around as the anti-railroad men want to give lavishly.

J. W. Lilly went in going to the North Mountain for deer next week. Jim never fails in bringing venison home with him.

X. Y. Z. remains unknown yet to the people of Orangeville. Niblo thinks he knows him but so far the poor boy is in the wrong track.

The Governor's Visit.

The past week has been one of excitement to everybody, as it became generally known that a real, live Governor had passed through on his way to the North Mountain for a few days' rest from the cares of office. His excellency, Gov. Pattison, and party, consisting of Mr. H. C. Postville, No. 1 appointments, has been made as yet to fill the vacancy.

John Langon, a starter at the Centuria colliery, had his hand severely hurt on Wednesday.

Proposals are being received for the driving of two tunnels at Continental colliery. One for the Primrose vein and one for the Skidmore. The company have started to sink a new slope on the Mammoth vein.

W. J. Sweeney gave a turkey supper to his numerous friends on Wednesday evening. It was a most enjoyable affair. They drank Will's health in the "see me hours" on Thursday morning and all departed for home wishing to spend their next holiday even in a like manner with their fellow friends. Quite a number from Mr. Carmel and Mauch's bank were in attendance.

Our young friend, John Lynch, has gone to boarding school; we wish him success.

A shooting match for $50 a side took place on Saturday afternoon between Daniel Curry and John Pitts. Both men shot nine birds out of twelve, and having no more birds on hand, the referee decided to draw. Another match will be tried shortly for a much larger sum.

A donation party was held on Wednesday evening for the benefit of Mrs. Smith, who buried her husband and three children in a little over a year. It was a success, financially and otherwise.

A party of young men styling themselves "Lynx" go around scaring people at night. Their latest victim was a farmer from Roaring Creek who had inhabited too freely and wanted to fight. They hung him to a hook in front of a butcher shop by a rope around his body and left him there for about three hours, when some one passing let him loose. The fellow will hardly undertake to get drunk in Centuria again.

The new school building is nearing completion and is quite an improvement to that part of town.

Mr. Hofter, the newly appointed superintendent, has not taken charge of the schools as yet.

A full line of pocket books and purses for ladies or gentlemen just opened at the Columbian store.

G. A. R. Supper at Benton.

Saturday evening the members of the Pennsylvania Post No. 288, G. A. R., held an open supper at Benton, which was well attended, and was, to take it all the way through, a decided success. Total receipts, $71.82. Mr. Hess and lady of the Exchange Hotel gave the use of the first story of their house with all the fixtures, free of charge, except the bar-room, and Mrs. Hess helped with will. She never does things by halves. Mr. Hess and lady have the thanks of the Post for their liberality and of the committee of arrangements in particular. The committee consisted of George Haber, S. C. Krickbaum, J. M. Long, and F. W. Wilson.

G. W. Bertsch the merchant tailor and hatter has just received a fine lot of silk alpaca umbrellas. If you want anything in the line don't fail to give him a call and be convinced yourselves. Prices very low.
