MORE ANIMAL FOOD FOR YOUNG CHICK-

We do not think that we can be mistaken in the belief that we should be far more successful in the raising of young chickens by giving them a great deal more animal food than we are in the habit of doing. The feeding of corn meal mush, boiled potatoes, and similar substances generally compose, as we all know, the principal food of young chickens; but we can see no eason why these young birds should be exceptions to the ordinary rule of young birds in general, which feed very largely, indeed chiefly, on animal food; even those which, when they are mature, live mostly on fruits and and are followed in the rest of the hands, or into the cold water. and seeds, are fed when in their nest on polished with a flannel. worms, grubs and insects. We notice the old birds all day long busily engag-ed in supplying their young with food, but always with animal food. In fact, it is very rare that we have seen anything else. Why, then, should chicks by acid may be restored by the applition, almost without exception, in our expect them to give us more eggs, especially in winter, when they can help themselves to none. That is a great inducement to make them lay more generously, we have too many proofs to admit of any doubt. Besides, it is claimed that animal food has other advantages in the way of good health, scour with sand wet with water and etc. Why, then, let us ask again, the oil of vitriol mixed. Then rinse should the young chickens not be benefitted with at least a moderate supply of animal food ? All ebicken raisers know the great losses suffered in the growth of them, and may it not be owng to a large extent to withholding entirely of this strong bening food, which is of so much benefit to the mature bird? We, therefore, suggest to will restore rusty black crape. The manufacture of wood pulp for paper is destined to increase, and soon but little white poplar will be left in this locality unless the work of replenishing is considered. Already the demand is greater than the supply. The wood must not be less than four inches in dimensional and are employed by those happy housewives who can devote time to the poetry of home. One very pretty way is to have an alphabet made of tin, have each letter about three inches high, and have the little tin forms deep enough to hold a little sand or wet ameter, sound, and sawed at both ends. | moss. PREPARATIONS FOR RECEIVING THE BODIES OF DE LONG AND HIS COMBADES.

The remains of De Long and his comrades, of the Arctic steamer Jeannette, will be escorted from the wharf in New York to the receiving vault at the naval hospital, on Finshing avenue, Brooklyn, by the Twenty-third regiment of that city on their arrival here, which will be February 22. The use of the Brooklyn tabernacle has been tendered by the Rev. T. De Witt Talcause it was so cool."

Dr. Talmadge has also offered to secure a clergyman of any denomination to officiate on the occasion. The naval department has, however, made no arrangements for any such ceremony, and it is thought that none will take place until the bodies are deposited in their last resting place.

Dr. Talmage has been thanked by Commodore Upshur for his kindly offer. The bodies will remain in the receiving vault until their removal by the relatives of the unfortunate men.

Proper Division of Farms.

There is very little economy prac-ticed with regard to fencing, as a gen-eral rule, and this should be looked at more than it is by our farmers. If you look at the majority of farms you will find the same division of land into fields that was a quarter of a century ago, and even further back. As far as can be made convenient, the different fields should be composed of an uniform quality of soil. A field that is partly heavy and partly light soil, or some of which is on high and some on low ground is rarely the best for any erop, and the different parts, if not fenced off, should at least be cultivated and cropped by themselves. There is a great amount of money lost every year, in the shape of valuable land and productions, by not having proper and conveniently fenced fields. It is not unusual to see corn in shock, turnips, fall wheat and aftermath in the same field at the same time of year, and the pasture in this field is completely lost. -Farmer's Advocate.

The Philadelphia Times, 1884. The Philadelphia Times, 1884.

The Times will enter upon the new year stronger and more prosperous than ever before in its history—more widely read and quoted, more heartily commended, and more ferreity criticised, with a more complete organization, and an abier staff of contributors—and with the same independence and fearlessness that has made it successful and powerful in the past.

The Times has no party to follow, no candidates to advance, but will meet every Issue, as it has ever done, with consistent devotion to the right, to honest government, and the public werfare, And, while maintaining its position as the leading journal of Philadelphia, it will aim to be continually in the advance in all that can add value to a newspaper.

The value of a posympary to not be interested.

ily in the advance in all that can add value to a ewspaper.

The value of a newspaper is not in its size or isplay, but in the intelligence and care, the con-sences and freshness with which it is edited. The fones spends lavishly for news from all parts of ne world, but all its dispatches are carefully ed-ed and condensed, in order to give the complete ews of the day in the most concise and attract-re shape, and with it a large variety of entertain-ing and instructive reading. The best writers at time and abroad are employed to enrich its col-mns, and to make it a journal adapted both to be busy man and to the leisure of the home cir-ie, a welcome visitor to intelligent and honest tizens of every political, religious, and social ister.

citizens of every political, religious, and social taste.

The Weekly Times is altogetifer different from the weekly newspapers of twenty years ago. The day of those papers is gone by. The telegraph and better local newspapers everywhere, especially in the thriving centres for rural population, have made the old weekly metropolitan newspaper unsatisfying. Those that cling to their ancient usages have lost their hold on our forward-moving people; they are but shadows of their former greatness, and they have but a shadow of their former power. Those papers have had their usefulness, but it is gone; and, with it, they are going too. It was not the fault of the papers; it was the improvement of the country that brought about the change. Men and women, wherever they live, now require fresher news; and they require more than news.

The Weekly Times gathers off the types of every passing week whatever has lasting interest to people at large, and sets it before them in such senerosity of paper and print as would have astonished us all twenty years ago.
