Go and hear Dr. Vincent's lecture this evening.

Mr. Eli Knorr is selling boots and shoes for the Orwig's company.

Knipfords have sold their grocery store to S. A. Wilson.

The Winona Reception this Friday evening promises to be a success.

Buy the Model sweeping brush when exposed to sale and save your carpets.

Friendship Fire company will hold their 17th Annual ball on the evening of Feb. 22.

M. C. Woodward is a candidate for reelection as Constable, and will succeed by his usual large majority.

C. C. Galligan offers his large stock of heating stoves at cost, from now until March 15th.

Two offices to rent in the COLUMBIAN building, heated by steam, gas, water on same floor. Apply to Geo. E. Elwell.

THURSDAY MORNING, 11 O'CLOCK.—The river is rising rapidly, and the creek is up to the road below the Barton bridge. A high flood is looked for.

Secure a bargain by going to C. C. Galligan at once, and buying one of his heating stoves at cost.

Tickets for township elections printed at this office for 50 cents a hundred. Orders by mail accompanied by the cash will be promptly filled. All names should be plainly written.

Lilley & Slippy, the Orangeville merchants, have reduced their stock of winter goods one-fourth in price. Now is your time to get cheap goods. Take advantage of this opportunity.

The persons convicted of the larceny of coal from the Bloomsburg Iron Company were sentenced by the court on Monday, each being fined five dollars, and sentenced to imprisonment for five days in the county jail.

J. M. Clark Esq., is a candidate for Justice of the peace, an office which he has filled very acceptably the past year, by appointment of the governor. A town like this should have one justice who is a level headed lawyer, and Mr. Clark fills the bill.

E. R. Ickler has removed his law office to rooms over Rawlings' meat store, 34 building below the Exchange Hotel. 1-35 4d.

Weiss and Tilden J. Weiss. Hillay school, A. W. Musgrave, teacher, Alie Haggenbuch, Clara Haggenbuch, Sadie Haggenbuch, Clara Young, Eddie Hess and Elmer Haggenbuch. Campbell school, Sadie M. Haggenbuch, teacher, Lillian Bason, Eva Hicks, Willie Baker and George Baker.

The drama, "Roughing It," is a dramatization of Mark Twain's famous work, and is interpreted by Minnie Oscar Gray, W. T. Stephens and an excellent company. Mr. Stephens and Miss Gray are well known as the principals in several thrilling plays which have been periodically presented here. Their new play is said to be very thrilling, and gives those famous comic wanderers, Romeo, Zip, Hero, Leo and Mabel, a chance to display the wonderful intelligence that the dog is capable of.—Philadelphia American.

Opera House, Bloomsburg, Tuesday February 19th.

The recommendation of the grand jury concerning the hearing of the ventral case of the court room, is a timely and proper one. The atmosphere becomes thoroughly poisoned by being breathed over and over again by many persons, and it is actually dangerous for those who are compelled to sit there day after day. The bench, the bar, the jurors, the suitors and the whole public is equally interested in having a place to hold court that can be comfortably heated, and at the same time be supplied with plenty of fresh air. Whether it is essential to build an expensive addition to the court house in order to do this is a matter upon which we cannot speak at present, as we have no information on the subject.

A case of much interest occupied the attention of the Luzerne county court one day last week. The North & West Branch Railroad was charged with being a nuisance, and the hearing was held in the town of North Branch.

The executor of Elias L. Helwig will sell real estate in Locust township on February 23d at 10 o'clock p. m.

A level headed editor of an exchange thus expresses himself: "What shall we do with mother? You can't bury her alive; public prejudice would be against you. It is a problem, come to think of it. A worn out, superannuated mother; a useless, tottering, complaining, weary, querulous, tottering, old fashioned mother! Hum! We know what we should do with her; we should bury her. If there were only one room she should have that—the softest bed, the easiest chair. She should have respect, tenderness, patience, that would in some faint measure try to repay her boundless devotion to a crying, red-nosed, ill-tempered brat of years ago—a devotion that labored through all the wayward years of a disagreeable youth. Every furrow of her dear old face should be sacred to memory. Every cracked and wheezy tone of her dear old voice should have the force of music in it, and if ever our ugly, carnal nature got the upper hand of us, we would look into her faded eyes and think how short the time, even at its very longest when we could no more ask her forgiveness or hear it from lips that would then be silent forever. You may be old yourself some day, nobody will want to have you around. Of all the pensioners in the world, mother deserves the highest premium."

Dead in a Dentist's Chair.

Mrs. James Stevenson, of Providence died last Thursday in a dentist's chair at the office of W. H. Heist, of Scranton, after she had three doses of chloroform and ether administered during the pulling of fifteen teeth. The anesthetic was given by her family physician, Dr. A. Strang. After the first dose Heist pulled two teeth; then another dose was given and nine teeth were extracted; then a third dose was given, after which five teeth were taken out. The startled dentist then realized that he was pulling the teeth of a dead woman. Mrs. Stevenson died shortly after receiving the third dose. She leaves seven children, the youngest of whom is only four months old.

A Town sinking.

The town of Hazleton, Luzerne county, has been terribly excited over a cave-in that occurred there last Thursday in the second and third lifts of the Laurel Hill colliery of Arlo Parks & Co. The scene of the disaster was opposite the lower level of the Lehigh Valley railroad, and but a short distance from the large machine shops of the same company. Upwards of a square of ground was affected by the cave-in, most of it settling one to three feet, but that most disturbed settled from eight to fifteen feet. One person was slightly injured. The cause of the disaster was owing to the timbering in the chambers below rotting away, and never having been replaced with new posts. Great fear is entertained that other workings may cave in, as their condition is no better than that which went down.

Wages have taken a tumble of ten per cent, which is rather severe when the price of provisions, clothing, &c., is considered.

Last Saturday night Moses Myrtle, (who has for some time past kept a resort for young boys, where the accomplishments of smoking, swearing and older drinking were readily acquired), opened up a beer drinking saloon in the basement of his premises which bids fair to become a popular resort of rowdiness if last Saturday night's performances are a criterion. Business opened up brisk and one fight came off in regulation order, after which noisy demonstrations were kept up in and about the saloon till midnight.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lilley entertained their friends at their residence on Saturday evening, and a pleasant evening was spent by the large gathering present.

The partnership between Drs. Reagan and McCrea has been dissolved by mutual consent, each gentleman will continue to practice medicine independently. The drug store will be carried on by Dr. A. B. McCrea.

If there were a later train to accommodate Bloomsburg and Berwick people there would be some zealous citizens mutually patronizing each other when there is a good entertainment or lecture, such as Dr. Vincent's to-night (Friday).

A. G. Kimberly repeated his lecture "Hash" at Bellefonte on Tuesday evening last.

The Stillwater debaters felt elated over their victory with the Berwick society. We understand the return debate is likely to be held at Orangeville.

The Berwick Cornet Band intend giving a grand concert on or about the 25th, in Association Hall.

The Rev. A. Brittain will preach a special sermon on Sunday the 17th inst. of the Berwick Lodge P. O. S. of A. Chaplain McCabe will shortly visit here on behalf of the M. E. Church extension.

Henry W. Palmer, late Attorney General, delivered a lecture in Wilkesbarre recently, on "Courts, Clients, and Cases." In it he said this about lawyers:

"A necessary part of every court where rights are adjudicated and wrongs redressed, are the official persons known as lawyers. They are officers of the court, limited to practice by the court, after the production of a certificate of proficiency signed by the official examiners, and certificate of good moral character signed by some member of the bar in good standing. Upon admission they take an oath to behave themselves well, to use good fidelity, as well to the court as the client, and to delay no man's cause for lucre or malice. So the presumption is that a lawyer has learning, integrity and moral character. I am aware that in the estimation of the ignorant a lawyer is believed to be not merely related to the evil one; even some people, who would dislike to be classed among the unlettered, confess to a dread of falling into the hands of the lawyers."

"Whenever a lawyer appears in a play it is in the character of a disreputable villain, it would require a telegraph message to his office to bring some innocent person out of his cell, in order that he may be tried by the jury. It is the man who conspires together to crack jokes at lawyers' expense."

"Other professions are, however, not exempt from the same kind of treatment. How fond we are of berating the doctor as a quack, and the preacher as a stupid; but when the grip of disease fastens itself, the wisest messenger for the physician's aid is too slow; his word becomes law; his directions have the most binding force; his coming is awaited with eagerness, his departure witnessed with regret; even the changes of his face are studied for signs of comfort; and then hope begins to fade and the dark vistas of the unknown and unknowable hereafter open to the fading light of the man of God sought to intercept by the doctor's ministrations. They listen with patient waiting to the rattling of the strong knowing full well that the day will come when it will be changed to accents of entreaty for help and consolation."

"The lawyer also has his revenge. The time of trouble comes, and the defence of property, liberty and life are given to his care. No cherub secret he favors little better for his ear, nor confidence too great to be reposed in him. Deeds, notes, bonds, reputation, fortune, are committed to his keeping without security or receipt, and the trust is not misplaced. With the zeal of a fanatic and the energy of a giant the lawyer embarks in his client's strife, and seeks to win for him the victory, not so laudable to a gentleman, but so necessary to the sacrifice of health and strength too often to him to undergo. The fight becomes his own, and if victory crowns his efforts his client's joy is not greater than his; if defeat overtakes him, his sorrow is as real as that of the loser of the strife."

"To the learned and honorable profession of the law the world owes, in a great measure, its progress in the science of government, and its triumph over the tyrannies of despots. The wisest statesmen, the purest philanthropists, the most devoted patriots have been gathered from the lawyers' ranks. O'Connell, who thundered for the freedom of the press; Otis and Patrick Henry, who dared the vengeance of kings in their defense of the liberties of the people; the peerless triumvirate of Adams, Webster, and Clay; Calhoun and the statesmen were lawyers. Jefferson, Adams, John and John Quincy, who wrote their names so indelibly on their country's history that the wreck and drift of ages will not obscure them were lawyers."

"Through the midnight of the revolution and the catastrophe of the civil war, the men who stood steadfast, firm, unwavering and unconqu
