April 13-14.

A plate of solid gold 14-12 karats fine is soldered to a plate of hard nickel composition metal, and the three are then passed between polished rollers. From this plate the various parts of the cases—lugs, centers, bezels, etc. are cut and shaped by dies and formers.

The gold is thick enough to allow the hands and hour markers to be engraved, and engraving, turning. The composition metal gives it needed strength, stiffness and solidity, while the written guarantee of the manufacturer warrants each case to wear twenty years.

It is not until the case is made that the watch is given form. This is done by the use of a lathe, which is used to turn the case to the exact shape required. This is done by the use of a lathe, which is used to turn the case to the exact shape required.

I have used one of your famous Gold Watch Cases for seventeen years. I bought it second-hand and have had it for some time. It is a fine watch, and I have had it for some time. It is a fine watch, and I have had it for some time.
