HENRY S. REAY, Rupert, Pa.

The spirit of mischief was abroad Tuesday. Well filled pocket books lay around promiscuously on the pavements and when anyone, forgetful of the day attempted to pick them up, the wallet were found to be well anchored, and a shout of laughter from jovial jokers was wafted to the ears of the victims, reminding them that it was April Fools' day and that they had been "sold."

McKinney Smith, the fugitive ex-com missioner of Lycoming county, has been captured in Kansas and returned to Williamsport, where he is lodged in jail. The other two members of the same board stayed at home and stood their trials for crookedness in office and were sent to the penitentiary. One of them was recently released. Smith has been gone about sixteen months. He was captured by Major Lucas who will receive a reward of $800 by the county.

The writer of Rhe that communication intimates that persons living from a public road having the use of a lane which runs through others' land and encumbered only by a gate or pair of bars, should not have a road at the public expense. Now, I think this is a selfish and unjust view of the case. There are other and greater reasons in many instances which might be urged for a free road. For instance, if the owners of the land through which the lane leads would shut out to the public the petitioner's hogs and cattle on purpose to annoy and cause him trouble, it would be a sufficient reason to apply for a road free of such encumbrance. Again a person so situated could not sell his land for near its value, because of the his land for near its value, because of the One of the ropes at Centralia colliery dependent and annoying circumstances under which it would place the purchaser.
