Notice to Correspondents.

In order to save many communications from the waste basket we make the following suggestions to local correspondents: Use only one side of the sheet, and write as piain as possible; "give only the local news that is of some interest to the community, such as accidents, improvements, marriages, deaths, matter relating to schools and churches, business enterprises, changes of resi-dence, and the like. What appear to be jokes at the expense of others, and personal mention giving only one name or initials or a nickname, will not be printed under any circumstances. Such items often give offense, though none may be intended. The full name of the writer must always be given, but will not be printed unless requested.

What are County Superintendents

The above question has been often put, and the following answers have been given : "I give it up," "I don't know," "They are no good," "Give me something easy," &c. What harm do county superintendents do? This question, unless by a few who feel aggrieved, is answered in about the same way as the first. That such questions should be asked at all and that press farmers. The hall was decorated they should be so answered would plainly argue that the good or bad so far done by casion was discoursed. In the evening J. the county superintendents has been so claim to be as good as "So-and-So," or to ic. I have no hesitancy whatever in saying that a great majority of superintento the advancement of popular education; that many have brought discredit upon our school system, while a very few were capable of performing and did perform the duties of the office as the law intended hold use, such as the Royal Baking Powthat they should. Many persons, with be abolished as useless. I could not agree with them in this. The office, I think, is a good and necessary one. The fault lies in the men heretofore elected to the office and in our directors for electing such men. County superintendents are, as a rule, practical politicians—such men as elect themselves to office. No one who is fit for the office can engage in anything of the kind. No one who can adorn the office can stoop so low. It is dragging our public school system, the most liberal in conception in the whole world, in the dust to have those who aspire and are elected to its head begging for votes. It is bad enough to have men do so where such a high standard of morality is not so absolutely necessary as in this office. The office pays enough and it was the intention on Tuesday, from consumption. Funeral to have for it men of the purest morality and ripest scholarship, and men who take a deep and disinterested interest in the cause of popular education. Such men will not electioneer and are therefore not elected. For this office, as for all others, the least worthy are most determined in their demands. There are many good things which superintendents can do if they be moral and competent; but if immoral and ncompetent they will bring dishonor not only upon themselves as they have done and upon the office as they have done, but upon the whole system of which they were elected to the head. The first and foremost duty of the county superintendent is like that of the watch log. If we were always sure of getting a supply of good teachers there would be no need of him at all. Those who are least worthy to teach are the most persevering in their efforts to obtain a license and a school. They leave no means, worthy or otherwise, untried. With the most careful a grand rush on the establishment every watching of honest and competent superintendents there will creep into our schools men who will disgrace them and will do at Continental colliery has suddenly turned very much harm in corrupting the pupils thereof. There is no place in which youth will learn wickedness so readily as where tewdness and wickedness are set in authority over them. What would you expect were the superintendent himself immoral? What could you expect where he employed improper and unbecoming means to secure his election? Is it too much to say that if he presumed to bribe others that he can himself be bribed? This matter of morality in our teachers is too much neglected. It should be the first qualification, and without it no superintendent should presume to grant a certificate. Then of all men the superintendent, whose duty it is to keep unworthy persons out of the schools, should be most moral and discerning. He should not only be incorrant but incorruptible. There is about as much sense in electing an impure man to this office as in making Satan the gate-keeper of heaven. Cannot our schools be kept ship. out of politics? If they cannot, then I say it would be better not to have any public schools. Can only those who will electioneer be elected superintendent? If so, then I would say abolish the office by all means. Such men can do no good in the office. Besides being a watch dog the superintendent has another important duty to perform. Our public schools are behind the age. In many places teaching is conducted in the slow and unnatural ways of 50 years ago. In everything else great improvements have been made. There is no one who can do half as much for the improvement of our schools as the superintendent, if he be the right man. There is no one who can keep the schools back as he can and has done. One who has taught for well nigh a half century, and who is an author of some renown, told me that of the many superintendents he had met-many of whom he taught-he found them as a rule more deficient than the teachers they were to examine. Such men cannot lead the public schools on, and
