The Model Farmer.

He should not buy more land than he can pay for easily, and till to advantage. The hardest thing to raise on a farm is a mortgage. Thirty or forty acres carefully cultivated will prove more profitable than two hundred on which the same care and labor are expended.

more profitable than two hundred on which the same care and labor are expended.

He should not have more stock than he can shelter well and keep in good order through all the season. It is poor economy to stint cattle through the winter and expect them to do as well in the coming spring as they would under generous treatment. A man should be merciful to his stock not only because of moral considerations but because it pays best in the end. Cattle that are stoned by the boys, kicked by the men and worried by dogs, are not likely to thrive in flesh or milk. Such treatment is silly, brutal and every way unprofitable. The occasions are very rare where beasts of casions are very rare where beasts of burden—horses or oxen—are benefitted by the application of the rod. People who wreak their insane fury on helpless dumb animals are at those moments something lower than beasts themselves. He should keep a careful account of his income outgoes. No business can prosper that is based on uncertainties. The habit of keeping a close account begets prudence, economy and wisdom in management. If a man can figure out a fair profit as the result of his year's labor it is a source of satisfacion and contentment; if the balance is on the other side he will ascertam the cause of his failures and follow new courses. "Book farming" is no longer despised by intelligent men. He should make his home and its large outbuildings. A proper regard for the happiness of those whose duties lie chiefly within doors would dictate this. The "matters of the house" are of primary importance, for what after all is the chief end of labor but to make the home-life happier and better.

Half the duliness and monotony of life on the farm, driving the boys and girls to the towns and cities, would be banished if the same pains were taken to make the home beautiful and attractive that are taken by most residents of towns and cities.

The successful farmer will do his work in season. There is no business where regularity is more essential than in farming. The merchant and the manufacturer can cover ground lost by neglect or inattention easier than the farmer. The farmer who is chasing his work all the year round, trying to catch up with it, is doomed to ultimate

Some twenty-five years ago the following letter was sent to us in manuscopied from the original which was in possession of a family residing in Chester county, Pa., and that it had never appeared in print. We are asked now to republish it, in order that while it did possess as much interest to-day as it ever did, it can be retained as a keepsake. It will be seen that the iews of the philoshopher and and the Situation of demonstrating in indubitably the feasibility of transplantation of flesh from one part of the body to another by using the hand as a medium. New difficulties then arose. The surface of the face was rehability of transplantation of flesh from one part of the south and the girl's mouth was drawn out of shape to such an extent that the corner was almost directly under the nose.

To restore the mouth Dr. Shrady decided to enlarge it on one side and while it did possess as much interest to-day as it ever did, it can be retained as a keepsake. It will be seen that the lews of the philoshopher and an are the satisfaction of demonstration of demonstrations and at the satisfaction of demonstration of demonstrations and the satisfaction of demonstration of demonstrations and the satisfaction of demonstrations and the sat men are the same that have been maintained in these columns. London, Aprill 22, 1771. Sin.—I duly received your Favours of the 4th of October and the 16th of November. It gave me Pleasure to hear, that tho' the Merchants had departed from their Agreement of Non Importation, the Spirit of Industry and Frugality was likely to continue among the People.—I am obliged to you for your Concern on my Account. The Letters you mention gave great Offence here; but that was not attended with the immediate ill Consequences to my

to purchase foreign Gewgaws, & in making their own Apparel, being apply'd to the Improvement of their Plantations, would render those more Plantations, would render those more profitable, as yielding a greater Produce, I should hope they would persist resolutely in their present commendable Industry and Frugality.—And there is still a farther Consideration. The Colonies that produce Provisions grow very fast: But of the Countries that take off those Provisions, some do take off those Provisions, some do not increase at all, as the European Nations; and others, as the West India Colonies, not in the same proportion. So that the' the Demand at present may be sufficient, it cannot long con-tinue so-Every Manufacturer encouraged in our Country, makes part of a long newly married couples will live Market for Provisions within ourselves, and saves so much Money to pay for the Manufactures he supplies. Here in England it is well-known and understood, that wherever a Manufacture is established which employ a Number of Hands, it raises the Value of Lands in the neighboring Country all around it; partly by the greater Demand near at hand for the Produce of the Land; and partly from the Plenty of Money drawn by the Manufactures to that part of the Country. It seems therefore the Interest of all our Farmers and Owners of Lands, to encourage the young Manufactures in preference to the country of the Country. THE NINE POINTS OF LAW. - NO many of our readers have often heard the expression, "Nine points of law," but it is very probable that few know of what they consist, and so to enlighten those with law and those about going to law, we give them as follows: First, a good deal of money; second, a good stock of patience; third, a good case; fourth, a good lawyer; fifth, a good counsel; sixth, good witnesses; seventh, a good jury; eight, a good judge; ninth, good luck.

GIVEN OF BY THE DOCTORS

"Is it possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters, and only ten days ago the doctors gave him up and said he must die, from Kidney and Liver trouble!"

Re-Constructing a Face EXTRAORDINARY SUCCESS IN THE TRANS PLANTATION OF FLESH -A

GIRL'S PATTENCE.

Bertha Kistler, who for eighteen her, but at last consented to undertake the task of building up virtually a new countenance. Soon after the first operation was performed, and in the course of a year it was followed by sixteen others. Most of the face was made over by transplantation of flesh from adjacent parts.

The most important step in the treatment of the case was the filling up of the hole in the face. For this purpose a large skin flap was wanted. It was obtained in the following manner: A rectangular section of skin was partially separated from the girl's left arm above the elbow. An incision was made in the side of the forefinger of immediate surroundings as pleasant as his means will permit. He should at least take as much pride in beautifying his home and supplying it with the left arm, and the detached edge of the comforts and conveniences, if not the skin flap was sewed into the incision in luxuries of life, as he does in having the finger with fine silver wire. The fine or blooded stock and next and hand and arm were kept immovable by prastic bandages. In about a week the skin flap became united to the hand, but the flap was principally nourished from the arm. To change the current of nutrition the flap was gradually from the arm. of nutrition the flap was gradually cut from the arm, and when it had been nearly severed the finger, and not the arm, kept the skin flap alive. When this became apparent the entite skin flap was amputated from the arm. The hand with the ingrown flap, was then brought to the face, the scarred skin on the left cheek was raised and the flap was inserted underneath. The hand was kept in position by plastic bandages and a plastic cap. In three weeks current of nourishment was changed by gradual amputation from the finger, and finally, when entirely separated from the hand, the skin flap taken from the arm became the foundation of a new cheek.

With natural anxiety the doctor watched the growth of the flesh, and at ed now to republish it, in order that while it did possess as much interest to-day as it ever did, it can be retained as a keepsake. It will be seen that the yiews of the philoshopher and statesmen are the same that have been maintained in these columns. The style in which the letter was written is the same as it came from the hands of the healing of the incisions. These writer, as regards the spelling, capitals have at last become satisfactory, and the girl's face is shapely once more, but, of course, slightly disfigured by scars. Most of these, however, are from straight clean cuts, and it is expected that even they will eventually become imperceptible.

From the first moment of her long martyrdom the girl has not faltered for an instant, but has even been impatient for the next step. Sometimes the doctor would try to persuade her to forego for a time the operation, but she persisted in her desire. A singular feature of the case is notwithstanding Interest that seem to have been hoped for by those that sent Copies of them hither.

In our Country People would well consider that all they save in refusing to purchase foreign Gewgaws, & in

THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS

A prominent physician of Pittsbury said to a lady patient who was complaining of her continued ill health, and of his inability to cure her, jokingly said: "Fry Hop Bitters;" The lady took it in earnest and used the Bitters from which she obtained permanent health. She now laughs at the doctor for ills joke, but he is not so well pleased with it, as it cost him a good patient.

The fee of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a dally visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.
