Notice to Correspondents.

in order to save many communications from the waste basket we make the following suggestions to local correspondents: Use only one side of the sheet, and write as plain as possible; give only the local news that is of some interest to the community, such as accidents, improvements, mar-riages, deaths, matter relating to schools and churches, business enterprises, changes of resi-dence, and the like. What appear to be jokes at the expense of others, and personal mention giv-ing only one name or initials or a nickname, will not be printed under any circumstances. Such items often give offense, though none may be in-tended. The full name of the writer must always e given, but will not be printed unless requested.

Bloomsburg is not noted as being a good town for shows, and hence on Tuesday last but few people were attracted from th country by the fact that Washburn & Hunting's circus exhibited here. The procession was a long one, by reason of its being ong drawn out, and the uniforms of those having been, at some time now lost in the dim and distant past, gaudy and gay. The show comprises a number of animals, and Great bargains at Theo. Heck's in dress portions of the performance were very good. Only medium sized audiences at tended the afternoon and evening enterainments. The miserable little elephant was lame and excited much sympathy.

The habit of carrying pistols as practiced by many boys and young men, is a most dangerous one. The papers contain laily accounts of accidental deaths resulting from the carcless use of fire arms, and we hear frequently of shooting in a moment of anger, where the handy revolver s whisked out, and before a second thought can be taken one man is dead and another is a candidate for the gallows. These remarks are called out by the fact that there is one young man in Bloomsburg to-day who can be thankful that he is Saturday night somewhere on the Espy road a colored boy threw gravel at a passthick, for not much damage was done, There may have been some provocation on his, unless the other party believed that his life was in danger, could justify the use of a deadly weapon. The case will get into court, and it is probable that such an example will be made of the offender as will future, unless the facts are different from what we have learned.

The following from an exchange should receive attention : "Editors could a tale unfold of the way some people get their advertising done for nothing, and lawyers could tell of tons of legal advice given by them without receiving the slightest acknowledgement, pecuniary or otherwise. Doctors, also are the victims of these quesioners. Men old in the tricks of these friendly sponges manage to evade them, but the young editor, lawyer and doctor, though aware he is being defrauded, has not courage sufficient to cut short the confidential chat, by saying that he hopes to make his living by receiving pay for what his friend expects to get by asking. No one expects a carpenter, a jeweler or blacksmith, or anyone who plies a trade to do the smallest job for nothing, and yet those who willingly pay for such labor seem to think they have done nothing of which to be ashamed, if they 'manage' to get legal or medical advice without having to pay for it. And among women the fault is as great Women who make their living by dressmaking, millinery, teaching fancy work, or painting, are daily imposed upon by friends and strangers who come to them for suggestions and advice about materials, shades, designs and patterns-defrauding the worker of hours of valuable time without a thought of paying for the advice given and often not thank the person for the suggestions, which she has spent time and money in acquiring. Strange to say, these sponges are often est found among those who could well afford to pay for what they want ; and stranger still is the fact that they would resent with the greatest indignation a refusal to oblige them or an imitation that they were taking advantage of another's politeness and thus getting for nothing that which the giver has a right to expect something aore substantial than mere thanks,

Trial of Harvesters. We take the following from the Philadel hin Record of last Wednesday :

The great competitive trial of harvesting nachines at the Moorestown, N. J., Fair, fuesday, June 10th, attracted a very large Tuesday, June 10th, attracted a very large attendance of practical farmers, and the test was watched with the closest interest. For the trials an acre of heavy green rye was selected. The shrewd farmer managers of the Fair Association had "peppered the grain," as they gleefully acknowledged when the combined reapers and binders would stick at a more than usually heavy sent where the grain ked hear sown dou spot, where the grain had been sown dou-ble thick and treated with an extra spread ble thick and treated with an extra spread of phosphate. Nine machines engaged in the trial, as follows: The Buckeye, Champion, Excelsior, Johnston, Estherly, Deering, Osborne and Walter A. The performance of each of the competitors was the subject of a great deal of critical comment, and each spectator was allowed to judge for himself, there being no prizes given nor any award of excelence made by official committees.
