

THE COLUMBIAN.

G. B. Ely, Jr., Editor. J. E. Bittner, Jr., Editors.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, JULY 4, 1884.

B. F. Jones of Pittsburg has been elected chairman of the Republican National committee. He has plenty of "soap."

The Cleveland boom seems to be taking a rest, while the chances of Randall and Bayard are improving. It is impossible to guess what the result of the Chicago convention may be.

The Republican press is very busy nowadays endeavoring to show the Democracy that Governor Chamberlain ought not to be nominated for President. He may be named, however, in spite of John Kelly, Ben Butler and the Republican party.

J. Blake Walters, who was chief clerk of the Treasury Department under Treasurer Noyes, died at Harrisburg on Monday. He was a staunch Democrat, and his amiable qualities made him friends all over the State. His death resulted from blood poisoning.

While the large iron makers are contributing to the $20,000 subsidy for the Philadelphia Press, to pay for the circulation of that journal among the working classes, they are reducing the wages of operatives from 10 to 20 per cent. In other words, they contribute towards the support of a paper that advocates monopoly, and then reduce the wages of the men to make up the subscription, so that the free circulation of the Press is paid for out of the pockets of the laborer. This is free reading with a vengeance.

On Monday, Senator Cameron moved to discharge the committee from the further consideration of the bill providing for the redemption of trade dollars. The republican senate defeated the motion which means that the bill will die in the committee. Trade dollars will therefore continue to be worth 85 cents, and those who hold them must continue to hold them for an indefinite period, or lose the difference. Legislation on this subject is demanded by the whole country, and the republican party is responsible for its failure.

The continued depression in the steel industry has compelled the managers of the Pennsylvania Steel Works, near Harrisburg, to give notice of a reduction in wages. It is a reduction of 10 per cent. less wages or 10 per cent. less wages, whichever is less. It is hardly probable that the workers will resist the reduction, however desirable to them the step which the company is obliged to take.

Perhaps the Press can explain satisfactorily to the people why it is that there is such depression in the iron and steel works of this country. These industries are protected by a tariff law passed by a republican congress, and we are daily in the hands of the "old party" which is the only one that fosters the manufacturing interests of the nation, and that a high protective tariff means high wages, and general prosperity. For years the iron trade has been dull, and many of the great iron districts have suggested motions in the fostering care of the republican party, and still they plead to be kept in power in order that this condition of things may continue. We are in favor of a protective tariff as we believe the majority of the Democratic party is, but the claims of the republican organs that the prosperity of the country depends upon the election of a Republican President is a false pretense, and a sham that has played itself out. The stagnation in business is a simple case of too much supply for the demand, and can regulate only itself when the demand equals the supply. No political party can regulate it. The Democratic party does not favor free trade. In fact we know of no one who favors absolute free trade. What is demanded is a tariff reform that will reduce the cost of necessary articles, get rid of the surplus of one kind or another in the treasury, abolish the internal revenue tax, and at the same time protect American industries for the benefit of the laboring classes, and not simply for the protection of monopolies. To claim that the success of any party will start up the hundreds of furnaces and rolling mills that are now idle is as prophetic as it is false, and it is about time for the republican party to begin to talk sense on this subject.

Blaine Has Never Been a Dead Head. From the Springfield Republican. Considering that the public know only about the poor investment of Blaine's money, it remains to be seen whether his wealth came from, even conceding its moderate amount. The Spencer gun stock was a good thing, and in that, too, he never failed to "see channels" in which he could be "useful." For instance, in May, 1864, there was an internal revenue bill pending, and an amendment was put on providing that, in case of contracts with the Government, the Government, and not the contractor, should stand the loss occasioned by the new tax. That is, while the private contractor would have to pay his tax and stand it, the Government contractor would get exemption or a compensatory rebate. "I am very glad," writes Blaine to Fisher on this occasion, "all things considered, that the Government has accepted your proposition to take all your money out of the pockets of the contractors, and put it in the pockets of the Government. It is just and proper in every sense and will affect a good many interests, including your company. I am glad to hear such good accounts of your progress in the affairs of the company which I have always been proud to be a member of." From this we see that Blaine is not just and proper in every sense and will affect a good many interests, including your company. I am glad to hear such good accounts of your progress in the affairs of the company which I have always been proud to be a member of.

Country Roads. The dirt shoveled upon the country roads by the supervisors' directions has been washed away by recent rains. This happens with great regularity every Spring. While the present system of road-making is continued the bad roads are likely to continue. We go on year in and year out, like the spiders which spin webs within reach of the housekeeper's broom, throwing loose dirt on the roads, only to see it washed away inside a few weeks, and for the rest of the year the repairs are made to vehicles, harness and horse flesh. The Reading Times suggests a State superintendent of public roads and a State appropriation of $1,000,000 annually, distributed like the school fund, on condition that each township collects a road tax equal in amount to the sum it would receive from the State. Bad roads can only be made good by the expenditure of money.

Whether the money is raised by the State or by the neighborhoods, it will have to come out of the pockets of the people. If the people of the counties really think that good roads can only be obtained by a general road law and appropriation, they have the power to obtain the State's assistance through the Legislature. The counties need improved roads more than Philadelphia needs better streets, and it should be pretty well proved by this time that the townships are unable, separately, to maintain good highways.—Press.

Blaine's Relief Party. The two advance vessels of the Greely relief expedition have already reached Smith Sound. People who thought that William Baffin, who discovered the sound in 1616, was near Littleton Island in his fifty-ton ship "Arctic" before the expedition arrived, Arctic authorities at Clements Markham and Dr. Kane believed that explorers should reach the edge of the middle pack before the close of May. The Greenland whalers have often demonstrated that this great ice field in Melville Bay, the only serious obstacle on the way to Smith Sound, can be crossed in May or early in June by skirting along the shore. Nearly a month before Greely sailed from St. Johns in 1881 fourteen whalers had passed Melville Bay, and in 1873 Budington's Polar party were picked up in the bay by a whaler three weeks before the relief steamer sailed from New York. It is possible that Commander Schley has before this learned the fate of Greely and his men. If they reached Littleton Island. The chances, however, are rather against Greely's having left Discovery Harbor. Successful sledge journeys over long distances have never been made in the fall by Smith Sound explorers. Excellent authorities, like Dr. Bessels and Major Fielden, believe that Greely could not have made the journey last fall, owing to the formidable nature of Smith Sound ice and the advancing darkness. It does not seem probable, either, that a party of men who have lived three years where the arctic night is 140 days long were well prepared in April and May this year to battle with the obstacles that were on Hayes's sledges in the spring of 1861 and limited them to an advance of three miles per day. Greely will, in all probability, have to be sought at Lady Franklin Bay. The Thetis and the Bear have probably had no difficulty in communicating with the Esquimaux, who live along the Greenland coast, and who perhaps have valuable information. They can always be found in the spring at Cape York, and also seventy miles further north, in Whale Sound, a favorite resort of the seal, and hence popular with the natives, who have several little settlements there. These aborigines, who number, all told, less than 200 persons, have rendered valuable services to three American expeditions, and their good will and assistance may be useful this summer. It is not likely that the Alert can carry out the entire programme projected for her by Commander Schley and Mr. William E. Chandler. She was expected to convey the coal transport from Upernivik to Foulke Fiord, arriving there about July 1, and then to sail to the coast of the Esquimaux as far north as Humboldt Glacier. All Arctic travelers know the sledging season in Smith Sound is over before July. Rotten ice stopped Hayes's sledge at Lady Franklin Bay on May 18, and he returned to the ship with great difficulty. June sledging parties have always met with partial or total failure. By July the sledge is generally filled with the floating pack, which puts an end to sledging or boating expeditions. While Commander Schley is anxiously watching the coasts of Grinnell Land and waiting for the Esquimaux, he is likely to open leads westward along that coast, it is probably immaterial whether the Greenland coast Lifeboat Cove is examined or not. Greely could hardly get there in any event, and it is difficult to see why he should wish to do so. They are themselves never venture into that region except to hunt bears and then only in cases of dire extremity. We may reasonably expect to hear news from the expedition early in October, either by the return of the entire party or by the arrival of John Hagenbuch, Scott. Fourth of July Excursions. REDUCED RATES TO CHICAGO. In order that the public may have the opportunity of enjoying the National Holiday to the fullest extent, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, in accordance with a custom pursued for several years, will sell excursion tickets between all points on its system, east of Pittsburg and Erie, for the Fourth of July. These tickets will be sold at greatly reduced rates, and can be purchased on the 3d and 4th of July, good to return until the 7th, inclusive. For the benefit of parties desiring to visit Chicago on the occasion of the Democratic National Convention the Pennsylvania Railroad will send round-trip tickets from eastern cities to Chicago at a rate reduced to the cost of an unlimited ticket in one direction. These excursion tickets will be placed on sale on the 3d of July. They will be good going from the 3d to the 8th inclusive, and good to return until the 18th, inclusive. No stop-over privileges allowed. These reductions offer splendid opportunities for making a short trip in the East, or a more extended trip to the West, at very low rates.
