

Service in the Mormon Tabernacle.

Service in the Tabernacle is held on Sundays at two o'clock in the afternoon. The Saints assemble not only from the city, but from all the country round, and many villages of all sorts are left standing in the neighborhood.

ODD ITEMS.

Next to bathing, the principal attraction at the seashore is generally the boat. It has become so nowadays that every man well dressed is known as a dory.

The grocer isn't always a prudent fellow, but there is no denying that he is something of a provisioner.

"Old gold" is the prevailing color in undergarments, says a gentleman's fashion paper. It is not, unfortunately, the prevailing color in pockets.

When a girl refers her lover to her father, it is hard to question the pop than it is to pop the question.

The Mormon wife is never known as a better half. The nearest she comes to it is the title of bonnet bearer No. 1.

"The man who whistles need never be feared," said a philosopher, but the man who makes this assertion, sweet Violet, had not been written.

A Virginia girl married a tramp who turned out to be a duke. We've no pity for her. She should have known that he was before she married him.

The demand for napkin-rings, made of wood grown at Walter Scott's home, Abbotoford, is proving a great drain on the forests of Maine.

"We need more insane asylums in this country," exclaimed a philanthropist, who has evidently been crowded out in some mysterious manner.

Unhealthy Homes.

It is undoubtedly true that the most favorable conditions for healthfulness of mind and body are to be found on the side of a country life. Sunshine, pure air, and out door exercise are each one of the elements of health and length of days.

"No! No! No!" she cried, and she was so much affected, which she never was, that she fell into a swoon.

"I have never seen a man who has not been cured by this medicine."

The shaly side of the street is the most patronized these days, but the girls prefer the side where the most boys are.

About one ounce of meat three times a week is sufficient for one hen, or about two pounds weekly for a flock of ten.

When you save your peas for next year's seed pack them in perfectly dry dirt, and they will be less liable to attacks of insects.

For vegetables, fruit, try buckwheat, beans, etc. there is nothing like a bushy pea, especially if it is made rich and well cultivated.

When a woman puts on a handsome new bonnet she hates to be stared at, and yet she gets mad if she doesn't attract an extraordinary amount of attention.

It seems as if the chap that has nothing in his mouth but a few reeds of what were teeth at one time would make the best stump speaker, but it isn't always so.

It is said that one of the favorite diversions of the ladies of Staten Island is to get two spirited snapping turtles and to set them fighting. After the fight is over every one but the turtles fills up with local beer.

A Dakota lawyer was recently arrested for stealing wood, but such was his merit as the prosecutor that he made the jury believe that he was only walking in his sleep and thought he was placing flowers on the grave of his first wife.

A Californian says he cleared his poultry house of mites, with which it was overrun, by sprinkling the inside with a solution of carbolic acid.

In small gardens tomatoes should never be allowed to lie on the ground. Supports in the way of horizontal wires or slats fastened to upright posts pay for the trouble they cost.

The base ball mania in North Carolina is rapidly reaching fever heat. In the town of Henderson the stores close at night to catch the members of the days when a game is being played.

The American Cattle Journal says: Where trees or shrubs are set in habitually dry ground a pair or two of water, applied when the trees are wet and when the soil is moist, will be beneficial.

Never use manure from the stable on lawns, as the seeds of weeds are thus sown, which germinate, grow up and disfigure the lawn.

If the squash branches are vigorous and long stretch them over a level surface and bury every fourth or fifth joint as whenever the plants are buried their roots are forced for the better nutrition of the stem and fruit.

When a cow learns the trick of snaking herself she is rare indeed. The habit may be prevented by putting a girdle about the cow and a halter on her head, and fitting a wooden rod from a ring in the girdle to another in the halter, making it pass between the forelegs.
