An editor is a man who lives on what other people owe him until he starves to leath. A subscriber is one who takes a paper, and says he is well pleased with it and tells everybody else "he ought to subscribe." After he has subscribed for about seven years the editor writes to him and asks him to let him have two dollars, and then the subscriber writes back to the editor and tells him not to send his old paper any more, for there is nothing in it, and then the poor editor goes and starves to death again. - TEr.

World's Industrial and Cotton Cen-AT NEW ORLEANS, PROM DECEMBER 1st., 1884,

TO MAY 31, 1885.

Mr. A. E. Lewis, of Milford, Pa., has been appointed by Governor Pattison as Commissioner for Pennsylvania, to this "Industrial Exposition," and begs leave to call the attention of the people of the State to the urgent necessity of organizing promptly in the different districts in order to prepare for each county the "collections exhibit," it should be their aim to display beside those of sister states. A loan of a million of dollars by the Congress of the United States for the general purposes of the Exposition was secured by Director General Burke at the recent session. Of this sum $5,000 has been set apart. by a which Speer's Port Grape Wine is made. this sum $5,000 has been set apart, by a resolution of the Board of Directors, and the natural resources of such State or Territory for display at the World's Exposition, opening in New Orleans, December 1, 1884, payable upon vouchers signed by the Commissioner of each State and Territory, approved by the Governor thereof." This appropriation is now available, and should be supplemented by the efforts of all citizens who desire that their State should have a creditable exhibit, to the end that her advantages and attractions may be adequately presented and her resources illustrated. The collective State exhibit will b forwarded to New Orleans and returned free of charge. The Southern States are inspired by zeal to improve the opportunity which on a like occasion, in 1876, they were not in ondition to profit by, owing to the general dislocation of business and the poverty of the people, growing out of the civil war Now the greatest enthusiasm prevails in that section, and every Southern State down to its smallest sub-division, will be fully organized and effectively represented From the Northern States, applications for space are pouring in from every large city and town by individual exhibitors, and a ready the vast area of the "Main Building" (exceeding by eleven acres that of the similar structure of the "Centennial Exhibi tion" at Philadelphia in 1876) is fully cov ered by allotments of space made to in-cess is obtained by ocean and river steamers, as well as by lines of railroads. Besides these, numerous other smaller ouildings are in process of erection, and everything is intended to be ready and in its place on or before November 15th, and the Exposition formally opened on December 1, 1884. Reduced rates for fare and freight have been made on all lines of railway running into New Orleans, and the beneficient climate of that section is expected to attract millions of visitors eager to exchange their inhospitable Northern and Western winter for the balmy
