THE COMPLETE HOME. A new and improved...

SELECT STORY.

A STORY SUGGESTED BY THE PICTURE GALLERY OF AN ANCIENT HOUSE.

I sat in the dull, still, lonely house, long for the early dawn hours...

My heart beat with many hopes and fears, but there was that could actually be told by lips—something, too, that was connected with a mystery...

She turned upon me with an inquiring glance. "How do you know?" she said quickly.

"Because grandfather always said to the picture, 'Good morning, Margaret, sometimes it is me, Margaret,' I answered.

"That momentary gleam! How it electrified me; not as usual, with fear and fright, but with a new perception of its effect upon myself.

"I laughed outright through my tears. 'Can you stop it, aunt?' said I.

I have seen it by this lightning, as I shall never see it again, and I want to know its history.

It was a shadow over her, and finding it impossible to forbear showing some, at least, of his real feelings at home...

One night at a masked ball, he happened to see Margaret, and he recognized her at the sight of a figure whose height reminded him of the Scotchman.

Hisself closely concealed by his mask, he availed himself of her momentary absence to address her in English.

"He will never come, Margaret, you will see him never more," said Walter; "but I would like to kill him upon the threshold."

Margaret shuddered, and then she arose from the bed, and falling on her knees before her brother she faltered out her long, sad confession.

"I had never seen you, Margaret, you will see him never more," said Walter; "but I would like to kill him upon the threshold."

It was a shadow over her, and finding it impossible to forbear showing some, at least, of his real feelings at home...

FOUNDING BLAINE. A TERRIBLE ABANDONMENT BY A PROMINENT REPUBLICAN OF WISCONSIN.

A letter from ex-Congressman Pound, of Chippewa Falls, in which the writer says he will oppose Mr. Blaine...

After much earnest and solicitous deliberation I deem it to be my duty, while abating naught of loyalty to the republican party...

No one will deny that the essential worth, if not the perpetuity of the republic, depends upon the maintenance of political and personal integrity...

While it is my fixed purpose to support Cleveland, it is no less my equally fixed purpose to support the Democratic party...

While it is my fixed purpose to support Cleveland, it is no less my equally fixed purpose to support the Democratic party...

While it is my fixed purpose to support Cleveland, it is no less my equally fixed purpose to support the Democratic party...

only the timely and stalwart efforts of Grant and Conkling could have redeemed the field and secured Garfield's election...

Reference to Blaine's congressional record relating to subsidies, class legislation, corporate exactions, &c., will readily satisfy the honest inquirer...

The distinguishedness of his letter of acceptance, which he betrayed by its significance touching the events of the past three years...

With no pronounced issues between the two great parties, we can safely afford to yield temporary executive control at least to an honest man...
