New York began on Tuesday, and may require several days yet before the actual forms and fine several days yet before the actual figures will be known. Democrats there have no fears for the result. On Tuesday the only errors found added a few votes to Cleveland. His plurality may reach 1500.

Amid the great triumphs of this election we are glad to chronicle that of Hon. S. P. Wolyerton. His majority in his own county was the highest h ever obtained, being 2013, and in the District 1496. His election to the Senate is a credit to the District and an advantage to the State.

Among the thousands of congratula tions received by Governor Cleveland was the following :

New York, Nov. 7 .- I congratulate you and the people of the whole country upon your election to the Presiden cy of the United States. You owe your election, in my judgment, to the fact that the people believed you to be an honest man, and not to any particular efforts' made by any faction of either the Democratic or Republican parties. Independent men, who care more for good government than for parties or individuals, have made you their choice because they were convinced that your administration would not be for the benefit of any political organization or favored persons, but for the interests of the whole people. This is just the result which is most desired. We have reached a time when party amounts to little. The country is above all, and it wants an honest government by honest men. The belief that we find it in you has led to your election. Yours, very truly, W. H. VANDERBILT.

When it became apparent that Cleveland had carried New York state, a game was set on foot to defeat the will of the people, if possible. The or-der went out from headquarters to Republican papers to "claim everything," and simultaneously Chairman Jones issued his address claiming every north to the advice they give to the colored ern state but two. The returns were delayed by the Associated Press which was under Republican control and Mr. Blaine proclaimed from his home in Maine that he was sure he had carried New York, and could only be counted out by fraud. At this time all the leading dailies of New York city except the Tribuue announced Cleveland's election, and the Albany Journal, the Republican organ of the state capital, conceded the same, and congratulated Cleveland.

Mr. Jay Gould was a party to the effort to excite public feeling, and to pave the way for the cry of fraud, with the hope that by some manipulation of the returns the Democratic plurality might be changed in Blaine's The scheme did not work. When it became known, the suspicion that the Republicans were making ready to try the stealing game of 1876 so excited the public mind that great crowds paraded the streets of New York singing "We'll hang Jay Gould to a sour apple tree." Becoming alarmed at the effect of his scheming Gould sent the following telegram to Governor Cleveland:

"I heartily congratulate you or your election. All concede that your administration as governor has been wise and conservative, and in the larger field as President I feel that you will do still better, and that the vast business interests of the country will be entirely safe in your hands.

(Signed.) JAY GOULD. This message, coming from the man who bought a seat on the Supreme Bench four years ago by a liberal sub-scription to Garfield's campaign fund, who subscribed largely to Blaine's of conscientious devotion to its princi-corruption fund, and attended the din-

The Republican press is just now filled with criticisms of what they call the "incendiary" language of the Democratic leaders and papers. This so-called "incendiary" talk is simply no-tice to the republican party that the man who is elected President will oc-cupy the White House. When the Re-publican National Committee issued the election of Blaine and Logan, and this after it was positively known to them and to the whole country that Cleveland had a plurality of the country that New York. Cleveland had a plurality of votes in New York, and enough other states were conceded to him to insure his election, is it to be wondered at that the Democratic party should give notice in unmistakable tones that the crime of 1876 could not be repeated? Mr. Blaine started the cry of fraud from his home in Maine, claiming that he had carried New York, thus giving notice to his managers that they must capture the state at all hazards. If there has been incendiary language, the Republican party and its defeated and disappointed candidate are respon-

A Colored Man's Appeal.

HE ASKS THAT UNSCRUPULOUS PEDERAL

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Nov. 10 .- Rev C. S. Smith, the distinguished colored orator of Illinois, and a prominent Republican until after the nomination of Blaine, this morning sent the following dispatch to President Arthur: BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Nov. 10 .- His Excellency, Chester A. Arthur, Washington, D. C.: From observations extending through nine years residence in the South it is my opinion that there s great danger of a general conflict between the two races in that section, growing out of the fears of many of the colored people that under Demo-cratic administration they will be gradually reduced to slavery. There-fore, as a loyal colored citizen, I beg leave to suggest that the Government issue instructions to the Federal officeholders in the South to be cautious as people. Slavery is dead forever, and the possibility of its resurrection ought not to be proclaimed for partisan effeet.

A Superstition Dispelled.

The defeat of the Republican party vill tend to pretty thoroughly break up a superstition which has long clouded the minds and perverted consciences of many very excellent citizens. Among these men there has grown up an almost religious devotion to that political organization, as if it were something of preternatural origin, and as if opposition to it were rank implety and abominable heresy. This feeling was a fruit of the period of moral and religious excitement on account of slavery in which the Republican party had its rise. The war, of course, intensified the ardor, and at last many Republicans came to think that their party monopolized everything in the republic worth preserving.

Such bigotry and fanaticism, o course, gave the political canters their Trade. opportunity and encouraged the great company of sanctimonious rascals, who sought power through the Republican party in order to feather their own nests, or desired to keep power that they might continue to feather them. By posing as Republican saints they succeeded in blinding the eyes of their credulous partisans to their obliquities: or because they were sound in the faith, the offences they had committed against the public welfare were overooked and pardoned.

No other party in our history has been so grossly victimized by humbings and scoundrels who were the mask

Who Did It?

The plurality for Cleveland in New York State is small but nest. Neverthe President-elect of the United the President of this close contion of Cleveland to say, "We Did It." It cannot be denied that the Independent Republicans did it. Every-body knows that the silent Stalwart vote, which went to the polls remem-bering Conkling and Folger, did it. The organized printers who boycotted Blaine and the Tribune certainly influenced enough votes to change the party, Blaine would have carried the State.

But all these explanations and claims met with a week of gloom and rain.

The big out-door parades which had been arranged for were comparative failures. Then came Burchard on that Black Wednesday, with his fateful "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion."

This was substitute will be done this before the power wiped from the statute books with the front any disturbing questions will be promptly headed off by the men who are justly the party leaders.

When the irrespressible Yankee isn't doing something he is generally getting ready to do something. The revised Directory of the Iron and Steel Works of the United States, just published by Secretary Swank, points out in a remarkably clear and explicit manner this tendency. Notwithstanding the general stagnation in the iron and steel trade of the country, the capacity of production is increasing in a very marked ratio. Since July, 1882, the number of rolling mills and steel works have increased from 400 to 434. The annual capacity of rodling mills in finished iron and steel has increased from creased from 4,030 to 5,395. The increased from 15 to 21, the open three new ones in course of erection at present. This was followed by the Belshazzar Banquet with Jay Gould and the millionaires at night. That finished Mr. Blaine. PHILADELPHIA, S... We have put too line and phasis on the cheapness of staple stuffs now. If ever there was a time to say cheap; now is that time. And yet our attention has to be so engrossed with things that can't be cheap, that we slight the most conspicuous fact of the season's trade.

Four months ago we said: "Just now we are justified in selling goods too low. * We can better afford to sell without profit than lose the prestige we have won. *  Our policy is to keep trade going. * * * Goods have got to be cheap"

We have kept to that policy. We have bought low. We have taken advantage of every disaster, every danger, every prudent downward move in the market. We have gone further; we have sold without profit ourselves. And yet we have tried to avoid increasing the danger of the time You don't know what we have kept back. We try to tell the harmless part of the truth. Our caution also has led us into slighting the part of the truth that you need to know and we ought to tell, the incentive to buy, the terrible lowness of prices.

Discriminate. Not everything is cheap; and we must advertise extravagances; for advertising is the news. But remember day after day. when we are busy with extravagant things, that staples are terribly down. A ladies' coat of good-looking "cork-screw" diagonal cloth, neatly cut and put together, sewed to stay, trimmed a little, faced and seams underneath bound with Farmer's satin not too fine, $4! The cloth belongs to that large class of ladies' coatings that is commonly supposed to be woolen, and is commonly sold for woolen. If you pick it to pieces you will find it a double fabric; an outside solidlooking "cork-screw" diagonal and a shaggy lining of hair-like wool within. The two are held together by another hidden cloth between, That hidden cloth is cotton; and the outside is shoddy held together by a mixture of wool-of course it is shoddy. The coat is guaranteed to wear reasonably well, and, to a reasonable extent, not to

If $4 buys so much of protection, comfort, neatness, grace and durability, what wil sto buy? $15? $20?

$25? $30? Stop there. it is making by thousands that does it. Readymade is dividing ladies' clothing sharply into two parts; cheap with certain degrees and kinds of excellence, and not cheap with nicer and higher perfections. There are already two arts of dressmaking. Both are here.

Thick cloths for ladies' over-garments. Are they cheap, too? Some of them are a little under current prices, some a good deal, some wofully down. And they are not the worst things that are down. Quality has nothing whatever to do with these tumbles. Let's walk through the cloths.

Beaver everybody knows about: $2.50 to $6. Next to beaver is a smooth cloth, with a double back, $2. Berlin Twill is worth knowing, $2. Frieze is rougher and tougher, $1.50; with cotton warp, $1.25. Diagonals with double backs, $2

By the way all these double cloths, a cloth for the face and a shaggy back, are really two cloths woven together by a third cloth between; and this third cloth between has a cotton warp for strength and a big wool filling for warmth. It isn't worth mentioning, except to make sure that nobody misunderstands what the cotton is for: to strengthen, not to adulterate. Almost nobody tells of the cotton; merchants don't dare to, because you w'n't believe what the cotton is there for." The wool that is used in these cloths isn't so long and strong as the wool of a beaver, You can see that in the price

Cloths for ulsters we must look at in quite another light. There are hundreds of styles and colors, not much of a sort; and the prices are absurd, out of all proportion to the market. It is hard to believe the fact. just as it is $1.50 to $4. A few last year's double cloths ought to be mentioned with these, because of the prices, $1.50 and $2.

Astrakhan and sealskincloths and sealskin with tufts of long irregular shaggy plush; $4.50 to $8 and $6 to $22. We do not suppose we are much below our neighbors in the prices of these; at least not to a like extent.
