

THE COLUMBIAN.

J. E. Blaine, Editor. BLOOMSBURG, PA. FRIDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1884.

During the past week Mr. Vanderbit has had a judgment entered against General Grant for something more than one hundred and fifty-five thousand dollars.

There is a danger that the financial affairs of this old warrior. The hundred and fifty thousand dollars the General borrowed of Vanderbit the day before the failure of Grant & Ward is the basis of this claim: the five thousand is for interest.

Like the rest of us, Mr. Gripe is preparing for Christmas. He has settled all his little bills, even paid his workmen yesterday, in the middle of the month, instead of at the end.

He fulfilled his duty to wife and children in the same way. He keeps his account accurately clear with his Maker, subscribes to all charities, occupies his new regularly, and listens attentively to the recitor.

Probably he feels deeply. If so, only he and God know it. He heges himself complacently, it is likely, and who could imagine that at the end of a week's demonstration—that he is too strong to dribble out his emotions in words.

Woodman spare that tree. Touch not a single bough: Lay not its sheltering boughs, And I'll protect it now.

The Presidential Term.

In the Democratic Sentinel of Dec. 12th we read these startling and significant words from its clippings: "The present seems an eminently appropriate time to make some reference to the length of term of office of the President of this great nation."

Mr. Blaine forgets that the attack on him was made after the base slanders against Governor Cleveland were put in circulation with his knowledge and consent.

Confidence among capitalists and business men has increased steadily since the election of Gov. Cleveland to the Presidency, and there is at the present time a very general feeling that we are about turning the corner in the monetary and industrial affairs of the country.

Arrested for Murder. After seven years—the Callender mystery.

On Wednesday last week says the Wilkes-Barre Record, William Judson Garrison, 27 years of age, a well known character in Luzerne county, was taken to Wilkes-Barre and lodged in jail on suspicion of being one of the murderers of Philip Callender.

to find the matter at once taken up and the libel reproduced with all possible exaggeration in every democratic paper in Indiana. Except from three members of the democratic party of that state, I never heard that a word of dissent or disapproval was spoken, while the great mass of the democratic speakers repeated the libel from every canon in Indiana with unflinching rancor.

When I visited Indiana in October I was repeatedly advised that six Democrats could not be found in Indiana who, in a political suit, would give a verdict against their leading party organ.

by a fisherman.

After being secured he became more and more excited, and promised that he would take him to his father-in-law, whose house he would willingly accompany his captors. He was accordingly taken to Mr. Bogart's, where he spent the night quietly and appropriately with the family, his previous frenzy having temporarily subsided.
