YOUNG MEN IN POLITICS.

Many good solid chunks of common sense were presented by the lecturers at the County Institute last week, and most of the advice there given is worthy to be carefully stowed away in brilliant court regain; the impressive the store house of the mind for future entrance of the Justices of the Supreme use. There was one thing said, however, by one of the eminent gentlemen, with which we cannot agree literally He advised young men to keep out of politics, and pictured the unhappiness of the defeated candidate vividly and with force. If we understood the speaker correctly, he confounded the politician with the office-seeker. This is a natural error for any one to fall into, because it has come to be generally recognized that no man goes into politics except for his own personal gain. The ward workers and the wirepullers are for self first and party afterwards, but they must necessarily attach themselves to one or the other of ter that the Judgment. The hall in which the in this sense, every intelligent man in this great Republic should be a politician. If the speaker meant simply neeting, in which there will be ample to caution young men against office-seeking, against lobbying, against wire-pulling, and against all the wiles and trickery and treachery of modern polities, then can we most heartily en dorse every word he uttered. The pathway of life is strewn all along with care to join the dancing. These colthe land. But as a rule these men rate the walls. The whole will iticians in the high sense of the term. They used pol-ities as a bridge over which all must pass to gain preferment in office, and, alas, to many of them it proved a bridge of sighs.

The science of government is one of the most profound of all studies. It has to do with the happiness of all people. Upon it depends the preservation of all human rights, and the This letter and the reply received in stability of a nation depends upon the manner in which this science is understood and applied. One of the great-NATIONAL CIVIL-SERVICE REFORM) est weaknesses of the United States today is in the fact that the better class es of citizens take so little interest in politics. It has grown to be a profession of such a character that but little honor is connected with it, and it is looked upon as unclean, and a calling to be avoided as much as possible by all, except those who make a living out of it. If this view of it be cor rect, the fault is with those people who have abandoned the affairs of the government to men who are actuated by mercenary motives rather than patriotism. We must not be understood as saying that there are no patriotic statesmen. There are exceptions to all rules, and the men who give their lives up to the making of laws for the government of have produced so profound an impresthe people from love of country, are the exceptions in the case under dis- first effective steps towards reform

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.) Washington, Jan. 1, 1885. The first day of the New Year was ington by thousands who will never again take part in the ceremony. It was President Arthur's last reception, and the last reception by a president of the Republican party, for at least four years. On the first of January, 1886, there will be a new official and social

If each one shall devote his time and attention strictly to the performance of the duties of his own particular office, and leave to the people the privilege of saying who shall fill other places as fast as vacancies occur, they will find that such a coarse will be far more conducive to a re-election than the dictatorship system. There is no longer and have taken possess. There was less calling than on any previous first day of the year during the last decade. The Adonises of the Government offices have not yet been able to pay the money they bet and lost on Blaine. The once exquisite Prince Albert coat has now a dissipated and fatigued appearance, the fault-less pantaloons and perfect hat are sprang at the knees and rusty and battered as to the crown. The wearer has not the heart or the stomach to promised the people that this should be such a thing as the old court house has not the heart or the stomach to ring. letter must go by the next post.

I have a journalistic frien! who last vear was smart enough to write his New Year's letter on the day before New Year. He described the President's reception in what he thought was a very pretty piece of word paint-ing. He told how Mr. Arthur receiv-ed first the diplomatic corps in their

Court, Senators, Representatives, Generals, Admirals, Commodores, and the "Irish Legation" without stint. The letter was posted on the 31st of Decem ber and it would have answered admir-ably but for an accident. On New Years while my friend was making calls, oblivious to the drudgery of the pen, and much pleased with himself, he heard that the Dean of the Diplo matic corps had dropped dead in the vestibule of the White House, and that

But many now holding such posi tions have forfeited all just claim to retention, because they have used their places for party purposes in disregard of their duty to the people, and because nstead of being decent public servants, they have proved themselves offensive partisans and unscrupulous manipulators of local party management.

The lessons of the past should be un earned and such officials, as well as their successors, should be taught that efficiency, fitness and devotion to publie duty are the conditions of their continuance in public place, and that the quiet and unobtrusive exercise of individual political rights is the reasonable measure of their party service. If I were addressing none but party friends, . I should deem it entirely proper to remind them that though he coming Administration is to be Wlanamaker's.

PHILADELPHIA, JOHNSON S, 1985. We are going to sell a half-million of goods, more or less, for a good deal less than cost.

Several reasons prompt us besides the desire to keep things moving at a time when nothing but money will move them,

We have the goods, the room, the people; expenses are going on. We can afford some loss rather than let trade drop. The heavy trade of the past three months has broken some of the stocks severely. It isn't a loss to sell fragments of stocks at a loss; but we are talking about more than fragments; we are going to pick out somewhere near a quarter of the store, and sell it this month for what it will bring. At the end of the month, when another sort of trade begins, we shall have the money to buy the things that then begin to be wanted. the room to put them in. and time and attention for business. We shall pick out whatever we can best let go, of course; but things that belong to the weather and time of year: timeliest things movable things: January things; things of all the year and every year.

We do not know a fiftieth part of the news to begin with. It will have to develop from day to day. We shall give it as fast as we can, as full as we can. We shall need to give it the fuller, because of the slight we seem to put upon things by the very fact of letting them go at a loss.

We take a single subject to-day: ladies' over-garments, not including furs.

We shall go through the store, clear out every sort of goods; and our method all through will be about the same as our method to-day. You needn't wait for the news. We shall print as fast as we can; but the news'll be farter.

Ladies' over-garmen's of all sorts, except fors, including those trimmed with fur. The list includes, perhaps, half the stock. The other half remains as it was.

Plain cloth coats of various styles and colors to be sold for $3; not new or fine, substantial.

Beaver coats, black and colored, trimmed with plush, to be sold for $4; not new;

Stockinet coats, $5. Plain black and heavy.

Braided stockinet coats, black and colored, to be sold for $7.50 and $10; extraordinary for quality, ornate Black beaver dolmans trimmed with astrakhan, $6, $8 and $10. The same with elaborate braided trimming, $15 and $20. The cloth of the $6 dolman is fine enough to be decent. The others are finer and prettier and more substantial. The meanest of them is an excellent garment.

Tricot dolmans, black and colored, trimmed with fur, $20 and $25. The cloth is heavy and fine; the colored brown and blue and green, are put at the lower price. Newmarkets of many cloths, $5 and $7. Some are better than others; some are prettier than others; perhaps the prettier ones are not the best; and possibly some of the best may be at the lower price.

Newmarkets, brown beaver, $10; of Berlin twill, furtrimmed, $12; of black stockinet, $15. Seal-cloth coats, $20 to $55. Some of the finest and richest cloth, Ottoman-silk dolmans trimmed with fur, $35; braided, $35 and $50. Sicilian dolmans trimmed with fur, $25 and $30. Matelassé dolmans trimmed with fur, Russian circulars of sicilian trimmed with fur, $15.

$18 and $35. Foreign silk wraps of a hundred styles; long and short; velvet, brocade. beaded, plush; black and colored; trimmed with fur feathers, chenille, etc. The same as advertised a week or two ago; the same as fo: double the present prices ever since the season began

And thus the whole stock is going to be sifted. JOHN WANAMAKER. Section. Thirteenth and Market streets,
