SELECT STORY.

LOVE AT SECOND SIGHT.

"How do you feel now, mother dear?" asked a tender young voice.

"I feel as if I were a new woman," said the old lady, looking at her reflection in the mirror.

"You are indeed," said the young man, looking at her with admiration.

"It is all due to your love," said the old lady, smiling at him.

"I love you," said the young man, looking into her eyes.

"I love you," said the old lady, looking at him with a smile.

"I love you," said the young man, looking at her with a smile.

"I love you," said the old lady, looking at him with a smile.

"I love you," said the young man, looking at her with a smile.

A Daily Defalcation. The Hon. John Kelly, the head and front of Tammany Hall, a man of strict integrity, an indefatigable worker, early at his office, late to leave, so burdened with business that regular meals were seldom known by him, with mind ever busy, and nerves that stand steady, finally broke down.

It is not work that kills men. It is irregularity of habits and mental worry. No man in good health frets at his work. By and by when the bank of vigor frays, those men will wonder how it all happened, and they will keep wondering until day unless, perchance, some candid physician or interested friend will point out to them how by irregularity, by excessive mental efforts, by constant worry and over-plunging in despair that they had a right to go, they have produced that loss of nervous energy which almost invariably expresses itself in a deranged condition of the kidneys and liver, for it is a well-known fact the poison which the kidneys and liver can't remove frays, those men will wonder how it all happened, and they will keep wondering until day unless, perchance, some candid physician or interested friend will point out to them how by irregularity, by excessive mental efforts, by constant worry and over-plunging in despair that they had a right to go, they have produced that loss of nervous energy which almost invariably expresses itself in a deranged condition of the kidneys and liver, for it is a well-known fact the poison which the kidneys and liver can't remove frays, those men will wonder how it all happened, and they will keep wondering until day unless, perchance, some candid physician or interested friend will point out to them how by irregularity, by excessive mental efforts, by constant worry and over-plunging in despair that they had a right to go, they have produced that loss of nervous energy which almost invariably expresses itself in a deranged condition of the kidneys and liver, for it is a well-known fact the poison which the kidneys and liver can't remove frays, those men will wonder how it all happened, and they will keep wondering until day unless, perchance, some candid physician or interested friend will point out to them how by irregularity, by excessive mental efforts, by constant worry and over-plunging in despair that they had a right to go, they have produced that loss of nervous energy which almost invariably expresses itself in a deranged condition of the kidneys and liver, for it is a well-known fact the poison which the kidneys and liver can't remove frays, those men will wonder how it all happened, and they will keep wondering until day unless, perchance, some candid physician or interested friend will point out to them how by irregularity, by excessive mental efforts, by constant worry and over-plunging in despair that they had a right to go, they have produced that loss of nervous energy which almost invariably expresses itself in a deranged condition of the kidneys and liver, for it is a well-known fact the poison which the kidneys and liver can't remove frays, those men will wonder how it all happened, and they will keep wondering until day unless, perchance, some candid physician or interested friend will point out to them how by irregularity, by excessive mental efforts, by constant worry and over-plunging in despair that they had a right to go, they have produced that loss of nervous energy which almost invariably expresses itself in a deranged condition of the kidneys and liver, for it is a well-known fact the poison which the kidneys and liver can't remove frays, those men will wonder how it all happened, and they will keep wondering until day unless, perchance, some candid physician or interested friend will point out to them how by irregularity, by excessive mental efforts, by constant worry and over-plunging in despair that they had a right to go, they have produced that loss of nervous energy which
