There are two large furniture factories, employing a number of workmen, and working on full time. A planing mill, busily engaged, although they have just met with an accident, depriving them of the use of part of their main shaft they have continued with their regular orders. It will take about a week to repair their damage; when they will again work with a full number of workmen. A number of Bloomsburg people are living in this place and all contented. Northfield.

Northfield is a place of which the world generally knew very little a few years ago, but it is beginning to be famous, and may soon rival Chautauqua in that respect. It lies in the valley of the Connecticut, on the northern edge of Massachusetts. As I went to look into New Hampshire and Vermont, over a scene as beautiful as the view from the Bloomsburg Normal School and more extended. The absence of fences gives a park-like or European aspect to the landscape. The two railroads, from New Haven and New London, across the river, do not mar the beauty or break the stillness. The village consists of one long street, wide enough to contain from two to four rows of large elm and maple and room for play grounds between. I can find only two general stores. These with a tailor, shoemaker, harness and tin shop, a barber and a hotel, monopolize the business without any difficulty.

What threatens to secure a place for Northfield on the maps is that D. L., as he is called by his townfolk, to distinguish him from the other Moody, came back to the home of his boyhood a few years ago to reside, but he established a sawmill for girls and in the adjoining township a school for boys and is gathering some kindred spirits around him. Sankay, the singer, and Pentecost, the Evangelist, have settled here; McGrasahan is coming and John Wanamaker has a cottage near the seminary.

The seminary was started on a small scale in a dwelling house. It was soon housed in a large barn building on a commanding site in the East Hill. Another large brick structure has been added by the Marquand estate, and a beautiful stone hall has been built for recitations. Moody's object is to help girls of moderate means to obtain an education that shall fit them for real usefulness in life by his thoroughly Christian character. Each pupil is to pay $100 a year and take a share in the Parker school of the household. There is, of course, a heavy deficiency for Mr. Moody and his friends to make up. I understand that part, if not all, of the royalty from the hymn books goes into this enterprise. It all goes to benevolent work of some sort. The boys' school at Mt. Hermon, on a large farm, is conducted on the same principle. There were 100 pupils last year and they are preparing for 300 next year. It contains representatives from China, Japan, our Indian tribes, and Europe. There are some 40 boys from Great Britain.

Approves of Great Britain, among the patrons of the house. If you wish to be treated well and fare in a first-class manner, give the Stillwater Temperance House a call.

Last week the threshing machines and separators were humming on every side. M. W. McHenry, Moses McHenry and J. S. Woods threshed portions of their crops right out of the fields.

The Stillwater drum corps is rapidly gaining a reputation for its older organization of the kind might well envy. Their playing last Saturday elicited for them the applause of all who were permitted to hear them. The manner in which they beat time is worthy of comment, and last but not least, the members of the corps are gentlemen.

Mr. Samuel Neyhard and wife, of Bloomsburg, and Mr. Benjamin Price and wife, of Shamokin, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Drescher on Friday and Saturday last.

On Saturday, August 15, the M. E. Sunday school of this place went on a picnic excursion to "Billy" Cole's, at the head of Fishing-creek, up in the North Mountains. Through the kindness of one of the lady managers of the party, we were invited to accompany the excursion, and gladly availed ourselves of the opportunity. It was truly an enjoyable occasion for all.

We left Stillwater and proceeded up the beautiful and ever historical Fishing-creek, amid scenes of natural and varied beauty, delighting the eye at every bend of the stream. When we reached Cole's Creek, awaiting us in the grove at St. Gabriel's church, was the Union Sunday school of Pine Grove. This suggested our way toward our point of destination, which reached, all proceeded to enjoy themselves in the most successful manner. We have not the space to describe all the scenery of this mountain retreat. It needs to be seen to be appreciated. Nothing occurred to mar the pleasure of the occasion. All passed off happily. The Stillwater drum corps accompanied the party and discoursed excellent music.

Mr. Miller and W. Engle, of New London, were the guests of Ed Brown on Sunday last.

Mr. Thompson, of Baltimore, general agent for drills and other farming implements, accompanied by Mr. A. B. Herring, were seen in this place on business a few days ago.

On Saturday last Mr. M. H. Hartzel, school director for the Smith school, reported the proceeds of that school with several of his neighbors.

Mr. Linn, of Berwick, was seen in this vicinity on Monday last.

Miss Gussie Andrea and sister, Hester Snyder, of Conyngham, were here visiting their parents and friends.

Mr. Shelp, of Moscow, has commenced a writing class in Snyder's school house. We wish him good success, for he is a fine teacher.

The oats are nearly all housed and the farmers are giving their attention to Fall seeding.

John Belles informed us that he threshed thirty-four sheaves of oats and had fifteen bushels. Only said, "them are good oats."

This is a free country and the tongue is a free loose thing and we are taught that it cannot be tamed. It is of the fitness of lightning and blasting as the frost, of every imaginable color and taste, and from the sweetness of honey to the poison of arsenic. And of gossipping conversation will make the best of it, notwithstanding some correspondent's efforts to curtail it, for "people will talk."

The buckwheat is looking very finely. If the yield will correspond to its present prospects, it will be an unusually heavy crop. There are no signs of a hard winter.

Every farmer has a large plum crop this year.

Dr. L. Swank met with an accident on Friday while mowing a threshing. A chaff hit and severely bruised his face.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Brands, of Hacketts-town, N. J., are visiting relatives in town. They are accompanied by their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Freeman.

J. H. Batuscheck's new house is nearly completed.

Geo. W. Hartzel is on his way home from the West with another lot of ponies.

Jonas Kehler moved from Kingston to this place on Friday last.

Geo. W. Hess is dangerously ill.

Bugs are damaging the potato crop very much.

Jerseytown.

M. E. Harris is at Williamsport, attending to the building of a house, which he is having erected there.

Messrs. Chas. Fenstermaker and Henry Hartline are at home for a short time.

Geo. Wagner recently returned from his visit to Kansas. Mr. Wagner gives a very unfavorable account of that far off land.

T. Baker, a former resident here, who has been away fifteen years, was in town on Sunday. His friends were glad to see him again.

Several of the boys took in the festival at Eyer's Grove last Saturday. They report a good time, as usual.

Jerseytown is to have its festival next Saturday afternoon and evening. Proceeds for the M. E. church.

Dr. and Mrs. Swisher spent the latter part of last week at Bloomsburg.

Prof. Lloyd Sheek and family, of Elizabeth City, N. C., are visiting his parents near here and friends in town.

Misses Amanda and Anna Kreamer, of Philadelphia, are visiting at Mr. C. Kreamer's.

Miss Anna Priser, of Tamques, is visiting at Mr. D. M. Sheep's.

Mr. A. K. Smith owns the fastest Hamilton horse in town, recently bought of Mr. Hop.

B. F. Dilline is at work on the Vandine school house.

Still another festival on hand, Eyer's, Saturday, the 29th. Extensive preparations are being made to have a big time.

C. Decker, of Bloomsburg, has been engaged to make the cream. A large attendance and a good time is anticipated.

Rev. M. Phillips, of Iowa, preached in the Methodist church here last Sunday morning to an unusually large audience. The church was filled to its utmost capacity and the congregation were obliged to keep their seats much longer than either prudence would sanction as good, or the most job-like patience could endure without a murmur. Mr. Phillips delivered a very long, rather eloquent and somewhat excellent sermon from the text, "Behold your house is left unto you desolate."

The Temperance House enjoys a fair patronage, and is deserved, too. Mine host, Frank Wolf, is a genial man, and the hostess is an amiable cultured lady, who understands well how to provide for the patrons of the house. If you wish to be treated well and fare in a first-class manner, give the Stillwater Temperance House a call.

Advertisement prompts us to invite visitors to our city to visit our store; and, to make the invitation more effective we afford them all the conveniences that we have facilities for.

We are making here such a mart as we believe to be good for our city, good for our country and good for ourselves; and we want as many people to know about it as we can get.

There is nothing mysterious about it. It is only a place where many sorts of merchandise are gathered together, many grades of a sort, everything called by its true name, and everything sold for about as little as we can afford; a place where a great many wants are supplied, and no cheating done; a place where all the skill you need in buying is to know what you want, or to be able to recognize it when you see it.

We are making such a mart, we said. Eight years ago, when we began this general trade, some thought we made it in a twinkling. We covered a part of the ground and begun—only begun. Every year since has brought increase of room and of use for it, to say nothing of the increase of knowledge, by which we buy better, sell better, and walk with firmer foot. We have not done by any means. Our building and trade are growing together. One is temporary; the other appears to be as secure of permanence as the wants which give it life. One is local; the other appears to have no necessary limits. One is easy to see and understand; the other strikes most persons as vast, various, complex, intricate.

We invite you to enter; leave your luggage under check; wander at will over every part of the store, with a guide if you prefer; carry away with you as much knowledge of our undertaking as you can; tell your neighbors what you have seen and when you get ready, write us for some trifle; and see how faithfully, how fully we serve a stranger.

"I have Advised my Daughter to try it, and she is going to do so. He further says that it cured her about six weeks ago sick with bilious disease. You gave me a bottle of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and it set me all right. I want more of it. This remedy which I live in Lubec, Me., to the proprietor. We are sure of hearing favorably from the lady, for his preparation is exactly suited to the troubles from which women so often suffer. Also for little children.

Bad drainage causes much sickness. Bad blood and impure action of the liver and kidneys is bad drainage to the human system, which Burdock Blood Purifier will remedy.

Alcohol was not invented and minerals were never used medicinally in the days of old. Invigorating and alterative herbs were the only remedies for biliousness, such as male, with unerring instinct invariably seek strange herbs for their ailments. Vinegar Bitters is the greatest herb antidote and tonic ever known.

Persons who are past fifty will find Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy just about the medicine they need when they need a medicine at all. The ten years which follow that age are full of dangers which do not threaten younger men and women. This preparation gives tone to the system, gently expels impurities and prevents the outcropping of diseases the seeds of which may have been sown in earlier life. Why not live out all your days in health and strength
