The Coming State Fair. Preparations for the State Fair, which opens in Philadelphia on September 21, are now being made. The Executive Committee of the State Agricultural Society held a meeting at the office of the Philadelphia Kennel Club on Saturday, and had a brief talk about the premium list, and discussed the proposition to raise a fund of $25,000 the city for the purpose of providing additional features for the show. The improvements in progress upon the Fair Grounds were also the subject of discussion, and some additional work was determined upon. The grounds will be macadamized, and shrubbery and ornamental plants will e distributed in an attractive manner. A building to be used as a floral hall and for the exhibition of agricultural products, will be erected, in which each department will have a space of 15,000 square feet. Annexes, covering a space of 40,000 square feet, will be added to the agricultural and poultry halls, and extensive improvements made in the other buildings.

There's a still greater wonder but how is that broad stone pavement hung from the wall?

You will not solve the puzzle by looking. It is a miracle to look at. Fishingcreek Sabbath School Convention.

The Fishingcreek Sabbath School Asse ciation held its second meeting at Asbury on Saturday, August 29th. The weather was favorable and the attendance good, came the enrollment of delegates, followed by subscription from the business men of by the appointment of committees. Next in order was the discussion of the following topics by Rev. Houtz, J. C. Robbins,

Amos Hartman, J. M. Fritz, E. M. Laubach

and J. Emory.

First topic .- "What is the Object of the Sunday School ?" One object of the Sunday school is give religious training to the young. reaches out and gathers in many who would otherwise receive no religious training. Another object is to make a proper use of the Sabbath, such as attending church and working in the Lord's vine yard; also to teach the young to worship God in song and prayer and the hearing of God's word. Another object of the Sabbath school is to give the people a knowledge of the Bible, in order that they may have some ground for their belief. Finally, the grand object of the Sabbath chool is the salvation of souls. This discussion was followed by music and adjournment, to meet at 2 p. m. The afternoon session was opened at the time specified by music, followed by the Secure the Attendance of Parents and Children?" First the Sabbath school should be made attractive by having good music, good libraries and intelligent, carnest teachers. Parents should be shown that it is their duty not only to send their children, but to go with them. This may be done by the officers and teachers, and also by the paster speaking on the subject occasionally from the pulpit. This was followed by the discussion of the subject, "How Shall we Raise Money to Support the Sabbath School?" The first step is to convince the people that money is necessary, and that it is their duty to support the Sabbath school. The Sunday school bears the same relation to the church that the child does to the parent, and it is as much the duty of the church to support the Sabbath school, as it is for parents to supply the temporal wants of their chiliren. In order to meet the demand for money for the support of the Sunday school a collection might be lifted every Sabbath, or the money raised by subscription; and if not successful, then resort finally to festivals, but if we must do this, let us have nothing objectionable, such as lotteries, grab-bags, or gamblag in any Fourth discussion,-"How can Sabbath School Teachers be Improved?" The only way to do this is to raise the standard o intelligence among our people. The teacher should carefully prepare the lesson, using all the helps available; always be regular, take their places with their classes, be sincere and carnest, yet simple, in teaching. Using such illustrations as the pupils are familiar with. Following this came the discussion of the subject, "Memorizing the Scriptures." Pupils should be taught to memoriz Scripture, not for reward, but for the influence it will have in moulding their future, and in making them better men and women. What we learn of the word of God in youth, will be of great benefit to us when we grow older. It will also be a safe guard against temptation, for with the temptation comes thronging to to our memory the words of Holy Writ, and we are enabled to resist, where otherwise we might have yielded. The next subject for discussion was "Sabbath School

Good music is inspiring. By it out soul's are wafted heavenward. We should be very careful in the selection of music for the Sunday school. It should all be in harmony with the teaching of God's word. It should also be universal, all should sing, as this is one form of worship. The last subject for discussion was, "Re wards in Sabbath School." On this sub fect it was said that if an institution cannot stand on its own merits, it had better fall. Children should be taught that the reward will consist in a knowledge of duty performed, and in the influence for good, the instruction there received will have on terspersed with appropriate music, Miss singing of the doxology and repeating the Lord's prayer in concert, the Convention adjourned to meet at the Christian church at Stillwater, the time to be appointed by the Executive Committee.

Asbury and vicinity will please accept thanks for kindness and hospitality shown. The only thing to be regretted was the non attendance of the ministers residing is Columbia county, none of whom (except ing Rev. Houtz, who is a model of punc tuality,) were present. The District Attorneyship. The resignation of District attorney suckingham created a vacancy in that of ce that has been filled by the appointment of the court. The appointce will hold on ly until the next general election in November, when the people will elect an officer who will hold for three years. This throws the election of Sheriff and District Attorney on the same years hereafter, and cure the most desirable results, and meet it is a favorable change. Heretofore these officers have each been obliged to bear alone the expense of the conventions that nominated them, and this has been a heavy burden to be borne by one man.
