J. M. Long was Chief of Police on the Benton Fair grounds, and he was the right man in the right place. He was here, here and everywhere just when he was needed, and by his attention to the duties of his position kept everything in good order. There were but few drunken men on the grounds, and not a single loud wrangle was heard. The chief was ably assisted by an efficient corps of police.

A large pheasant flew through the plate glass in the front door of the postoffice on Monday morning. The glass was a quarter inch in thickness, and the bird came with such force that a large hole was made in the glass, and some pieces were found thirty feet from the door. There is a gang of sharps taking in all the fairs this year, against whom the pubic should be cautioned. They have several different games of chance, socalled probably because the chances are that those who try them will lose their money. In order to what the appetites of the unwary, a number of confederates take part in the game, and by some trick in the trade are permitted to win, and this induces others to go in. In the dial game the pointer can be stopped at the pleasure of the operator, either by a secret spring, or by tilting the table imperceptibly to the players who are anxiously watching the pointer. The second annual fair of the Benton Agricultural Society was held last week, beginning Wednesday, and its success was such that its future existence is now fully established. The officers of the society are all intelligent gentlemen, and to their efficient management is due the credit of the successful exhibition. These officers are John R. Keeler, President, J. B. Laubach, Vice President, H. O. McHenry, Secretary, John J. Karns, Treasurer, Jacob Welliver, F. S. Smith, George Keeler, Frank Dildine, Edward Albertson, direcors. Last year, it will be remembered, the Society met with a reverse because of the bad weat er that prevailed during the entire week, and by reason of which the attendance was small, leaving the Society in pleasant, and was devoted to the entry of so threatening, rain falling part of the day, that but few people ventured out. On Friday, however, the sun shope after ten o'clock, and by noon there were over 3000 plays in a general way. In the first building was a great variety of preserved fruits, jellies, butter, pies, cakes, and many other articles of domestic manufacture .hat fairly made one's mouth all who heard them. It was not expected water to look upon, so inviting were they rated china, and a great variety of fancy work, all of which spoke well for the taste and skill of the ladies of that section. Further on were rag carpets, homespun cloth, and other things intended for use rather than ornament.

Filley & Williams of Pittston exhibited he Chase organs, and drew crowds by the excellent music made by Mr. Charles Mc-Henry and a good orchestra.

SALTZER'S BOOTH. But the great centre of attraction seemed o be the booth of J. Saltzer, the wellknown Organ and Sewing machine dealer. He had on exhibition the celebrated Estey organs, and the Davis and White Sewing Machines. Mr. Young of Albany did some ine work on the Davis, and Miss Caffrey of Cleveland ran the White. Beautiful padges were made on the spot, and most everybody on the grounds was presented with a sample of their handiwork. The booth was decorated with beautiful sam ples of tine work done on these machines Mr. Richard Metherell and Mr. Spotts furrished fine music on the violin and organ and the booth was constantly surrounded by an attentive throng. Mr. John Eves of Millville exhibited spring wagon and two farm wagons. He has been in the business for twenty years and has never had any fault found with his work by any of his customers. He en oys a wide reputation for the excellence f his wagons, both as to finish and durasility, and from a personal inspection o his exhibit we judge that he is fully entitied to such a reputation. The Millville wagons are known all through this section, "Mary." and need no better recommendation than teemed and leaves a husband and four the satisfaction which they always give to those who use them.

William Appleman & Bro, made a large spring-board wagon, spring wagon, farm wagons, two seated sleigh, and bob-sleds, all made at their large factory in Benton. This firm is comparatively young yet, but their work is all first-class, and they have built up a big trade and a high reputation Their factory is a large three story build ng, all of which is occupied by their business. Good material is always used, and ently with good work.

STOVES. G. N. Smith of Orangeville had a fine display of stoves, ranges and tinware, and is assistant Byron Keller was kept busy explaining the merits of the different as ticles shown by him.

DeLong & Bro, of Orangeville, also made a good show of stoves and ranges. MACHINERY, &c.

Owing to the distance from a railroad ti lisplay of machinery was small. B. Albertson entered his steam threshing machine and J. M. Long his Osborne reaper and hinder, and there were some horse rakes, mowers, grain drills, straw cutters &c. C. Mears had his patent washing machine on the grounds.

The McHeury House at Benton.

As one drives into the village of Bente his attention is attracted by the imposing appearance of a large new building on the Main street. Upon the front and end of this building is neatly painted in large letdebt. This year the first day was very ters, "McHenry House" and it is a new hotel recently completed by the McHenry articles by exhibitors, no gate money being | Bros. It is a frame structure, four stories taken in. Thursday morning came with in height. At the front is a wide veranda lowering skies, and the weather continued extending up to the third story. On the first floor, on the left of the main hall which runs through the centre of the house, is the office, back of that the barroom, or what will be a bar-room when people on the ground- Saturday, also was the house is licensed. The furniture throughout is new and nest. The house was begun last April and was first thrown open to the public on Sep. 24th when a large party was given. Boyd Mc-Henry is the proprietor and with the assistance of his wife, the McHenry House will soon gain a reputation as an excellent hotel. Its resources were well tested during the Fair last week and were found equal to the occasion.

He reached Benton on Tuesday of last week, without any money, and on Saturday he had $75 in his pocket, all taken from innocent "suckers" by the three card monte game, or some other equally sharp trick. One young man from Berwick dropped five dollars into Bobby's exchequer; another one from Fishingereek contributed ten dollars in the same way and a third one whose residence we could not learn, parted with a like amount. It was the same old trick that has been played these many years, two cards with black spots and one with red, in the hands of a sharper who bets any amount from one dollar up that no on can pick up the red card. He manipulates them in such a way as to show the red card occasionally, and even marks the card as if by accident by turning the corner up a little.
