Several tugs coming up to Cape Flattery were struck Saturday night by a tidal wave, which ran so high that the tugs were buried at times. The commotion lasted about half an hour. After the waves had subsided, the sea was found to be covered with dead codfish, halibut and salmon. The inference drawn was that the wave was caused by a submarine eruption.

Candidates are making good use of the last week, in presenting their respective claims to the people. The campaign thus far has been a quiet one, and no bitter feeling has been engendered between candidates by saying unkind things about each other. This is as it should be. Every tub should stand on its own bottom, and every candidate should be selected on his own merits.

A party of twenty-five European monkeys have been detained on their arrival at New York by the Castle Garden authorities with a view to being returned to their native land. We are not suffering for want of either gypsies, bears or monkeys, but it is a little unfortunate that these poor creatures should not have a small chance at the atmosphere and shekels of freedom. It is a little unfortunate, too, that the line should be drawn at gyp sies. Only a few days before 400 Mormons landed.

Great excitement prevails in Missouri over the prohibition question. There is scarcely a school district in which the Prohibitionists are not hard at work, and so far they have swept nearly everything. The acting Secretary of the Treasury has issued the one hundred and thirty-ninth call for the redemption of bonds. The call is for $4,000,000 of the 8 per cent loan of 1882, and notice is given that the principal and accrued interest on the bonds designated will be paid at the Treasury of the United States in the city of Washington on the first day of September, 1886, and cease on that day.

OFFICEHOLDERS AGENTS OF THE PEOPLE AND NOT THEIR MASTERS-THE ELECTIONS DEFINED.

The following executive order has been issued by the President :

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, July 14.—To the Heads of Depart-ments in the Service of the General Government: I deem this a proper time to especially warn all subordinates in the several departments, and all officeholders under the general government against the use of their official positions in the attempt to control political movements in their localities. Officeholders are the agents of the people not their masters. Not only is their time and labor due to the Government, but they should scrupulously avoid in their political action as well as in the discharge of their official duty, offending by a display of obstructive partisanship, their neighbors, who have relations with them, as public officials. They should also constantly remember that their party friends from whom they have received preferment have not invested them with the power of arbitrarily managing their political affairs. They have no right as officeholders to dictate the political action of their party asso-ciates, or to throttle the freedom of action within the party lines by meth-ods and practices which prevent every useful and justifiable purpose of the party organization. The influences of federal officeholders should not be felt in the manipulation of political pri-mary meetings and nominating conventions. The use by these officials of as delegates to political conventions is cal campaigns. Individual interest no means condemned. Officeholder

WASHINGTON LETTER

(From our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 20, 1886. Congress is lingering long this sum-ier. Those who know best fix the date of adjournment as the 10th of there will be no agreement as to a fixed time of adjournment until the actual day the reason of this being that when resolution declaring a certain day for adjournment is agreed to in advance, the last six days of the session are made suspension-of-rule days. At such times some of the worst "jobs" ever known in the history of Congress have been passed. The "jobs" are anxious-ly awaiting this harvest time. Every job that has been knocking at the doors of Congress this session has fastened its hope upon this annual period when the unlocking of the Treasury vaults is leclared.

Messrs. Randall and Morrison are Messrs. Randall and Morrison are credited with this plan to prevent "jobs" getting through in the hurry of the last days of the session. If they succeed, think of the disappointments and blasted hopes that will fall at the heels of the Forty-Ninth Congress. Even should this session be marked in no other way than with a defense of the National Treasury, it would have an honored place in the nation's hisory.
But there are other ways in which the present session is remarkable. If the House itself has not completed all the legislation that was hoped for, the committees have done more work by far than the committees of any previous House. They have considered and reported to the House over 3,100 bills, during this first session. In both sessions of the Forty-Eighth Congress, only 2,696 bills were thus acted on. The flood of bills that has been poured upon the present Congress is unprecedented, over 10,000 having been introduced into the House alone. After repeated attempts and failures the House has succeeded in passing one little private pension bill over the President's veto. Speaking of adjournment, it is probable that the last days of the larger vessels and permitted no selling while the low temperature preof the session will be involved in a fishing while the low temperature preheated political debate at the Senate end of the Capitol. The Senate is expected to pass a resolution for the printing of Presidential veto messages been idle for ten months past and the the present day. They will probably fuel. There is no food; the inhabitants be in the hands of Senators within a are living upon their domestic animals, week. This is the prelude to a fight.

Referring to the prospects for adjournment, Representative Bland, the has been resorted to by the savages, silver man of Missouri, declared that stealing others' children and devouring the Senate was moving even more slowly than the House in furnishing prospective "veto material," for as not know how long they will be able such he characterized the River and to hold out before resorting to such Harbor bill. The length of time the Seuate consumed in pottering over this measure made him think the Senate seemed more anxious for the grab than the House. "Now," continued the country will be depopulated. The he, "if the President sees fit to veto the Ottawa government was promptly nomeasure, no power can prevail upon Congress to pass the bill over his opposition." Representative Hatch, also of Missouri, and one of Oleomargarine's bitterest foes, has said that he strained his conscience in voting for the River and Harbor bill when it first passed the House, and that he will not do it a second time.

Congress has voted to reduce the mileage of army officers from 8 cents their positions to compass their election to 4 cents a mile. That is about twice what it costs them to travel. But indecent and unfair, and proper regard | the allowance of Congressmen is still for the proprieties and requirements of official place will also prevent their stage coach era. The clamor "On what assuming the active conduct of politibasis of right or reason is this?" has failed, so far, in impressing Congress with the necessity of doing something for itself in this respect. For short distances, 20 cents a mile does not Take, for instance, the trip to the Pacific slope. The entire expense both $300, including the best of everything. Yet the Government allows a Congress man $1,200 and upwards, and thus he is allowed to make from $900 to $1,000 on a two weeks run. The New York members are allowed $46 each to come here and go home from Washington, and the Chicago Congressmen get $170 each way, and travel on passes.

The gayest legislator at the Capital, if asked to present a bill for his personal expenses, when not traveling officially, would not dare to run the figures up to the present legal allow-auce. If he should, it would be likely to cost him his seat in Congress as clusive: $1,000, original number 5524 der trial. The defendent is a lad sixto original number 5962, both inclusive; teen years old, who is charged with $600n as the people of his district learned to continue the fact. A fair mileage rate, actual necessary expenses, would prob-ably not be objected to from any the crime or any provocation, and the defense appears to have settled down excusable extravagance. The Land Frauds.

The House of Representatives has The House of Representatives has done well in refusing to accept the Sente amendments to the bill repealing the Pre-emption, Timber-Culture and Desert-Land laws. The repeal was called for by the fact that the laws were framed, whether intentionally or not, so as to permit the extensive frauds that are perpetrated under them The passage of the bill by the House was an announcement to those engaged in profiting by them to get in all the work they could before the repeal should go into effect. It was incumbent on the Senate to put a stop to this as soon as possible by prompt action, so that the measure could receive the Executive signature and be come operative. Instead of doing this it took its time to insert amendments which destroyed the purpose of the repeal. It is of little or no use as it stands, and if the Senate insists on its amendments it should be left with the entire responsibility for doing what it intended, namely, to defeat the needed The conduct of the Senate in this

ATIVES OF LABRADOR EATING THEIR OWN CHILDREN-FOOD WANTED.

St. John, N. F., July 20-From time to time reports have been received here of destitution and suffering among the fishermen of Labrador, and last fall the Government was compelled to send two relief steamers to Sandwich Bay. It was not until Sunday, however, that any idea was had of the terrible state of affairs prevailing in that inhospit-able region. In fact since last Novem-ber Labrador has been a lost land. At that time the dread Arctic winter set in and since then communication has been cut off between Newfoundland and the main land coast. The flow of the Arctic ice this season has been unprecedented, and at present masses of frift ice and bergs mountain high are piled up against the coasts extending some 250 miles out to sea. This mass of frozen water has reduced the temperature far into the country far below freezing, and the snows of winter show no sign of disappearing. Belle Isle itself did not open this year until June 20, and a heavy snow and sleet-storm was experienced on the 22d.
