SELECT POETRY. YESTERDAY.

Yesterday, darling—only yesterday.

The heavens were bright and all the earth was fair.

Love's golden radiance fell upon our way.

Love's dreamy music filled the air around us.

Love's sweetest voice was heard above our feet.

Love's tender smile was seen above our heads.

Love's gentle touch was felt upon our hands.

Love's sweetest kiss was given upon our lips.

Love's tenderest gaze was cast upon our eyes.

Love's gentlest breath was blown upon our hair.

Love's sweetest song was sung upon our hearts.

Love's tenderest prayer was said upon our knees.

Love's gentlest sigh was given upon our lips.

Love's sweetest tear was shed upon our cheeks.

Love's tenderest smile was seen upon our faces.

Love's gentlest touch was felt upon our hands.

SELECT POETRY. LOVE ON A TOBAGGAN.

"I tell you, young man, you shall not marry my niece."

"And I tell you, madam, I will, if I can."

"She is engaged to my son Tom."

"She is engaged to me, and I don't care a snap of my finger for your son Tom."

"Sir, your language is ungentlemanly."

"Madam, so is yours."

"I rushed into the outer office, and there sat Susan, a pretty girl, whom I had often seen flitting desperately about the office."

"I looked at Susan and Susan looked at me, and then I burst into the other office and borrowed $5, with which, in addition to her capital, the maiden departed smiling."

"We were in the height of the much-talked-of 'carnival,' so next day I appeared in the uniform of the club to which I belonged, painfully conscious that my legs, particularly the lower half of them, clad in red stockings, were not in the best of health."

"I drew my toboggan on one side and, leaning myself prettily well screened from view, watched the various parties as they came slowly up the hill, laughing and talking, and occasionally pausing to enjoy the sight."

Sketch of his Life.

Samuel J. Tilden was born at New Lebanon, in the county of Columbia, and State of New York, February 9, 1814—the year which ruined the fortunes of the great Napoleon.

One of his ancestors, Nathaniel Tilden, was Mayor of the city of Tenterden, Kent, England, in 1628.

He was succeeded in that office by his cousin John, as he had been preceded by his uncle John in 1585 and 1609.

He removed with his family to Scituate, in the colony of Massachusetts in 1631.

His brother Joseph was one of the merchant adventurers of London who fitted out the Mayflower.

This Scituate Tilden married Hannah Bourne, one of whose sisters married a brother of Governor Winslow, and another a son of Governor Bradford.

Governor Tilden's grandfather, John Tilden, of Columbia county, was Mayor of New York, February 9, 1814—the year which ruined the fortunes of the great Napoleon.
