A Lesson With A Moral-

WHEN WILL OUR EYES BE OPENED TO THIS GREAT NATIONAL CALAMITY.

The year 1886 played sad havoc with many prominent men of our Many of them died without warning. passing away apparently in the full flush of life.

Others were sick but a comparative ly short time. We turn to our files and are astonished to find that most of them died of apoplexy, of paralysis, of nervous prostration, of malignaut blood numor, of Bright's disease, of heart disease, of kidney disease, of rheumatism or of pneumonia.

It is singular that most of our prom inent men die of these disorders. Any journalist who watches the telegraph reports, will be astonished at the num-ber of prominent victims of these dis orders.

Many statements have appeared in our paper with others to the effect that the disease that carried off so many prominent men in 1886, are really one isease, taking different names accord ing to the location of the fatal effects.

When a valuable horse perishes, it becomes the nine days' talk of the sporting world, and yet thousands of ordinary horses are dying every day, their aggregate loss is enormous, and yet their death creates no comment. So it is with individuals. The cause of death of prominent men creates comment, especially when it can be shown that one unsuspected disease carries off most of them, and yet "vast numbers of ordinary men and women die before their time every year from It is said if the blood is kept free in weary ways where heavy shadows be, from uric acid, that heart disease, paralysis, nervous prostration, pneumo nia, rheumatism, and many cases of toft would faint with sorrow and affright, consumption, would never be known. Only for this-I know He holds my hand! This uric acid, we are told, is the waste of the system, and it is the duty of the I trust, although I may not understand. kidneys to remove this waste. We are told that if the kidneys are maintained in perfect health, the uric, kidney, acid is kept out of the blood, and these sudden and universal dis eases caused by uric acid will, in a large measure disappear.

But how shall this be done? It is foliy to treat effects. If there is any known way of getting at the cause, that way should be known to the pub-We believe that Warner's safe sure, of which so much has been written, and so much talked of by the pubic generally, is now recognized by im-partial physicians and the public as the one specific for such diseases.

Because public attention has been directed to this great remedy by means of advertising, some persons have not believed in the remedy. We cannot see how Mr. Warner could immediately benefit the public in any other way, and his valuable specific should not be condemned because some nostrums have come before the public in the same way, any more than that all doc-tors should be condemned because so many of them are incompetent.

It is astonishing what good opinions you hear on every side, of that great remedy, and public opinion thus based upon an actual experience, has all the weight and importance of absolute

At this time of the year, the uric acid in the blood invites pneumonia and rheumatism, and there is not a man who does not dread these monsters of disease; but he need have no fear of them we are told, if he rid the blood of the uric acid cause.

These words are strong, and may ound like an advertisement, and be re ected as such by unthinking people but we believe they are the truth, and as such should be spoken by every truth-loving newspaper.

Dress Reform.

Perhaps the most prominent of all the leaders in the movement for reform in the matter of woman's dress, says the Philadelphia Times, is Mrs. Jenness Miller, of Washington, who a few years ago attracted considerable attention as a lecturer on various subjects. Believing that nearly if not quite all of the evils which women nowadays suffer are due to the tasmon-of habit now in vogue, Mrs. Miller has undertaken the work of bringing such then received a divine communication to the effect that at 2 P. M., on Februplatform of the capital, and being well received there, afterward invaded New York and Boston. It is a favorite theory of hers that all women can be well and beautiful, and she presents in support of her theory the fact that the ancients, who paid daily attention to bathirg, systematic exercise and healthful clothing, were a race magnificently developed, and she cites further that their power was lost, not through any affliction which they were unable to avert, but through the acceptance of luxurious and enervating customs such as have obtained among us in many

Mrs. Miller is a Boston woman by birth, and prior to her marriage had won considerable fame in Massachusetts and the Eastern States as a woman of letters. Her maiden name was Alice Jenness, and she craces her ancestry back to that illustrious stock actly on the stroke of 2 she arose from which gave us Wendell Philips and the chair with her crutches in her Oliver Wendell Holmes. Her arguments against the standard fashions, about the room, to the overwhelming while not novel, are originally treated, and she practices in her own life what ankle had been pronounced incurable, many reformers do not, the doctrines she insists others shall accept. Her gowns are loose and flowing, without either sash or belt, baving more the ap-pearance of morning robes than of dresses for afternoon or evening wear, and she spurns the use of corset, bustle ulation turned out to witness the re and stays of every kind.

As a speaker Mrs. Miller is said to be very entertaining. She has a strong but not unwomanly presence, and every movement of her well-developed limbs, whether in posture or repose, is the movement of grace itself. Since she saw the cure Miss B adding said: adopted the style of dress which she now asks other women to wear she is said never to have been ill an hour. say nothing more. SPINNING. Like a blind spinner in the sun I tread my days, I know that all the threads will run Appointed ways.
I know each day will bring its task, I do not know the use or name, Of that I spin; I only know that some one came,

And laid within My hand the thread and said : "Since you Are blind but one thing you can do. Sometimes the threads so rough and fast, And tangled ny: I know wild storms are sweeping past

And fear that I Shall fall, but dare not try to find. A safer place, since I am blind. I know not why, but I am sure

So young I heard

But whether this be seal or sign, Within, without It matters not, the bond divine I never doubt ;
I know he set me here, and still And glad and blind, I wait his will.

But listen, listen, day by day, To hear their trend, Who bear the finished web away And cut the thread:
And bring God's message in the sun
"Theu poor blind spinner, work is done.

HE LEADETH ME. In pastures green? Not always; sometimes He Who knoweth best, in kindness leadeth me Out of the sunshine, warm and soft and bright. So, whether in the green or desert land, And by still waters? No, not always so; Oftimes the heavy tempests round me blow. And o'er my soul the waves and billows go. But when the storm beats loudest, and I cry Aloud for help, the Master standeth by, And whispers to my soul, "Lo, it is L" Above the tempest wild I hear him say, "Beyond this darkness lies the perfect day; In every path of thine I lead the way." So, whether on the hill-tops high and fair I dwell, or in the sunless valleys where The shadows lie--what matter! He is there. And more than this: where'er the pathway lead, He gives to me no helpless, broken reed, But his own hand, sufficient for my need. So where He leads me I can safely go;

A Marvelous Instance of Faith Cure

HOW A YOUNG GIRL WHO WAS SAID TO BE LAMED FOR LIFE PROPHESIED THE HOUR OF HER CURE, AND

A miraculous cure, unaccountable except by supernatuaal agency or the wonderful power exercised over the body by a strong mental delusion, was wrought on the 17th at Banksville, about one and one-half miles Southwest of Pittsburg on the person of Miss Maggie Beadling, the young daughter of a coal miner of that place. In a invalid bed on which she had lain for years and be allowed to walk. That morning the young girl was patiently awaiting the happy hour when she would be able to rise, and friends and neighbors who knew of the preparations to receive the healing power of the Almighty gathered at the humble home of Miss Beadling's father.

All were admitted to the room about noon and the utmost solemnity prevailed while the assembled throng awaited the manifestation of the spirit of God. As the hour of 2 o'clock approached a strange, unnatural feeling overcame those present and they seem-ed overwhelmed by some undefinable presence. All sat amid the most deathv silence and appeared full of fear, but the afflicted girl's face wore an expression of joy and her face seemed to grow in beauty until 2 o'clock. Exhands and flinging them aside, walked astonishment of those present. Her but she now jumped about the room like a small girl. Her parents almost wept for joy and the greatest excitement prevailed.

The news was noised about in Banksville, and almost the whole popmarkable case. Religious exercises were held by Rev. Archibald, who was

Changing the Jury System. WHAT A PROMINENT LAWYER SAYS IN OF

POSITION TO THE PROPOSED NEW LAW.

The bill reported from the Judiciary General Committee to the Lower House of the State Legislature, making a twothirds vote in a jury competent for a verdict in Court trials, has attracted universal attention among the lawyers of the State. Concerning the meas-ure the prevailing opinion is that our laws are for two purposes-to protect the innocent and punish the guilty Protection of the innocent takes pre cedence. It is more important that nineteen criminals should escape than that one innocent man should suffer When I speak of 'law' I mean the mode of administering our laws adopted by the friends of human liberty and progress has arrived at such perfection as to require twelve of a man's peers to agree as to his guilt. It seems to me to be unwise to interfere with or change that positive requirement of the jury agreeing upon a defendant's guilt before he can be convicted and punished. A change might lead to the conviction of guilty men who now es cape. It might more readily lead to the conviction of innocent men, and we shall always be opposed to the removal of any barrier the wisdom of our ancestors erected against the op-pression of innocence. In civil cases we think it would be a safe change to rest the verdict upon two-thirds of the jury. In such cases the Court always takes the responsibility of setting aside such yerdicts as it disapproves. The Constitution would certainly have to be amended before such a law as the one proposed could be enacted.

ANOTHER SUDDEN DEATH. ANOTHER SUDDEN DEATH.

Hardly a week passes without the mention by the newspapers of sudden deaths, and of late the alarming frequency of the statement that death was caused by rheumatism or neuralgia of the heart cannot fail to have been noticed. In all probability many deaths attributed to heart disease are caused by these terrible diseases, which are far more dangerous than is generally considered. Is there any positive cure? The best answer to such a question is given by those who have been cared by the use of Athlophoros.

Gentlemen:—Nearly all winter I was confined to my room with inflammatory rheumatism. I commenced using Dr. Pardee's Rheumatic Remedy, but after taking it for a time the pain became more intense, and I was alarmed and feared the remedy was making me worse, but continued its use and soon the pain left me, and I gradually improved, the sore-ness leaving my arms and shoulders and seeming to pass out at my toes. It has completely cured me. At the time I commenced using the remedy I had a throat difficulty and the catarrh, which I found to be better after taking it, and it occurred to me to use it as a gargle, which I did, and to my great satisfaction I improved rapidly, and to-day am free from both rheumatism and catarrh. I consider it indispensable as a family medicine. I take one teaspoonful after breakfast and find it a splendid tonic. I would advise you to recommend it as a gargle for throat troubles and catarrh, for I know it will cure. I have seen some remarkable cures from the use of this remedy, and it is one I can recommend to all.

British Agriculture.

It seems now to be settled that under existing conditions it does not pay to grow grain or raise cattle in the best part of the Continent and the British Isles. For this curious and alarming state of things the world is indebted to the extension of steam navigation to all parts of the earth. Wheat, barley, oats, etc., can be grown on almost any arable land. It follows that whatever the factors are most favorable that region gets the benefit of this cheap access to the consuming market. A few years ago India contributed but 90,000 bushels of wheat to countries outside of the peninsula. Its export supply is now about 50,000,-000 bushels, and with the extension of the railway system it will have fully 100,000,000 for outside consumption. The secret of India's ability to sell in distant markets is the extraordinary cheapness of labor, which does no command more than 10 cents a day of | our money. The United States, Australia, New Zealand can produce wheat tralia, New Zealand can produce wheat and lay it down in Liverpool at a price which is simply ruinous to the English and European wheat grower. This is because of cheaper and more fertile lands and the use of machinery on the broad prairies and plains, which dispenses with costly labor. Recent statistics show that tenant farmers in the British Islands who confine themselves to cereals and cattle-raising cannot the distress among the agricultural classes in the Old World, and more especially for the abject misery of the Irish people, who have no diversified industries, because the island is withindustries, because the island is without coal or iron, and British laws discourage manufactures of any kind in that unhappy country.

This inability to raise grain is effecting a social revolution. It has struck a fatal blow at the authority and prestige of the Peers, who are the great land owners, and it will end in a ricul tural land being transferred to the peasants in England and Scotland as well as Ireland. These agricultural workers, having no rents to pay, will be able to make a living out of the soil, for they can raise perishable vegetables, poultry, eggs, and dairy pro-ducts, as these are safe from foreign competition. In the meantime the cities of Europe are growing rapidly, and are yearly consuming more and more, not only of the grain and cattle raised in distant regions, but also of the veg-etables, poultry, fruit, and dairy pro-ducts of near-by production. This ex-planation of the agricultural situation throws a good deal of light upon the political and social changes now taking place in the Old World.—Demorest's
