The police were accordingly notified to Shortly after the Long & Durant robbery Father Nagel's residence, adjoining St. Nicholas' German Catholic Church, was entered but the thieves were scared off calling out from his bed room: "Who is there?" A few days afterward a man giving his name as Kelly was arrested and Father Nagel positively identified him as the man who was in the room. The priest said Kelly's was the same face he saw under the gas jet in his room on the night of the attempted robbery. On the strength of this testimony Kelly was committed to ail, where he still languishes. Chief of Police Myers recently received telegram from Mayor Brett, of Altoons, stating that a young man giving his name as Charles Whitman had been arrested there while in the act of selling some valuable jewelry which he had in his possession. From papers found on the prisoner it was learned that he was from Wilkesbarre. Chief Myers at once went to Altoons and upon his arrival recognized Whitman as Charles Rittenmyer, a young man who has given the authorities considerable trouble in the past. On his person were found three $20 gold pieces, a lady's gold watch, two gold rings, a watch chain, breast pins, ear-rings and other articles, Chief Myers recognized many of the articles as the property of Professor Charles B. Creman, of Wilkesbarre, whose house was robbed about two mouths ago. The prisoner was taken to Wilkesbarre and at a hearing before Mayor Sutton was committed to the county jail in default of $1,500 ball.

> As important change was recently made at the Red Reck bridge, crossing Fishingcreek at Railroad street. It had been for merly intended to build a stone wall along the bank of the creek, and so widen the road bed that it would be necessary to cut off but a few feet of rock: but it was found that the ground at the foundation of the wall was not solid enough to sustain the weight of heavy trains passing over it, and t was therefore decided, instead of building a wall to cut off eight or ten feet of rock to make room for the curve at that point. Blasting bas therefore been going on for some time there. The blasting is done with dynamite cartridges. Holes are drilled in the ground the cartridges put in these and the wires of a galvanic battery attached to them Then the electric current is turned on and n a few moments the explosion takes place and a huge mass of earth and rock rises into the air. Sometimes the pieces of rock fly i ong distance. Now that the rails are being laid, the railroad will be rapidly put through and before many months have passed we will be able to go by rail from Bloomsburg to the foot of North Mountain.

Buckhorn.

Last Thursday, Mrs. Ella Pursel had a ewing party. Upwards of forty were present. All report a pleasant time. Master Boyd Eyerly, son of Wm. Eyery, broke a lower limb while climbing!a cicket fence one day last week. He is doing well at present. Miss Maggie Dienl has opened a select chool at the Forks. Frank Dent was taken suddenly ill with offsammation of the lungs on Tuesday of ast week. At present he is suffering severely. Sunday was a live day in Buckhorn. M. Le people held quarterly service. Love feast and communion in the forenoon and preaching by Rev. Gance in the afternoon. Quite a number of strangers were present: White and wife, of Lightstreet; F. B. fartman and L. Sharpless, of Bloomsburg t. Kline, of Berwick, and A. R. Henrie, of Lime Ridge.

Trailing Arbutus received a fair share of ttention last Sabbath. J. E. White has just received a fine dis play of glassware. The ladies are very much taken with that kind of ware just John Pooley, Jr., has made improvement by re-roofing his house. Geo, Wilson and Geo. Fulmer were the master workmen. The women and children of a town are plainly visible right after a runaway team passes up the streets. The mouth organ craze is subsiding, be ing pushed saide by the favorite play o croquet.

Fire Near Lightstreet.

Last Friday afternoon, a barn on the farm of Wm. Hagenbuch, a short distance above Lightstreet, took fire and burned to the ground. The cause was unknown. A threshing machine and tread power attach ment were destroyed, and about 300 bush els of corn and 60 bushels of Tye. Almost all the live stock was out of the barn. Mr Sitler, who works the farm, was in the fichas with the horses, and no live stock was burned except a litter of young pigs. The barn was quite a large one, and is a great

What They Say About it.

Dr. Leavitt writes: "I have frequently prescribed Perrine's Pure Barley Malt in my practice and consider it a superior and reliable article and heartily recommend it in fevers, acute inflammations and depressagreeable and suited to all cases requiring alcoholic stimulant," Francis Wyatt, the eminent chemist, says: "It would be difflcult to find a preparation of greater or more absolute purity than Perrine's Pure Barley Malt, and in cases of malaria, indigestion and nervous diseases it can be used with full confidence." Perrine's Pure Barley Malt is recommended to the medical profession as a preparation free from all impurities. It will eradicate all forms of malaria and revive the energies of those worn out with excessive bodily or mental effort Ask your nearest druggist for it and see that the signature of M. & J. S. Perrine is on the label.

The distinguishing feature about the Mason & Hamlin Piano is an important improvement in the method of holding the strings. They are secured by metallic fastenings, instead of by the friction of plus set in wood, as has been the case, and the advantages re sulting are highly important. Wonderful beauty and musical quality of tone; far less liability of getting out of tune: greater re liability in trying climates; and greater solidity of construction and durability are secured.
