BLOOMSBURG, PA. FRIDAY, MAY 6, 1887.

The new Inter-State Commerce law does not seem to work smoothly as yet, and the Inter-State Railroad Commissioners have their hands full. It appears to press unduly on certain branches of commerce, but the difficul-ties may well be left to the Commissioners to settle. The best of human legislation is capable of modification.

The editors and proprietors of Sun-day Grit, Williamsport, have been sued for libel by a Bellefonte gentleman. The article was a sensational one refleeting on the character of certain citisecting on the character of certain citizens of that place. They were held in $1,000 bail each. Their cases came up before Judge Furst at Bellefonte on Tuesday of last week. They pleat guilty, and on Wednesday morning, Mr. Rianhard was sentenced to six months in the county jail and pay a fine of $1,000 and costs. Mr. Lamade, the business manager, was placed under $5,000 bail for his appearance at the June term of court in Bellefonte.

Democratic State Chairman Dallas Sanders has issued the following call: A meeting of the State committee, pursuant to adjournment, will be held at Harrisburg on Wednesday, May 11, at 12 o'clock, noon, at the Bolton House, to fix the time of meeting of the next State Convention, to act on the report of the committee recommend-ing a uniform plan for making Senatreceive the reports of the county or-ganizations and to transact such other business as may be brought before the committee. If you cannot possibly come please ask the chairman of your county committee to attend.

Nebraska has furnished an illustration of the practical value of Arbor day. In that State of great prairies on the first of its Arbor days, fifteen years ago 12,000,000 shoots were planted; now the United States Forestry Commission reports that there are fine groves growing 300 miles west of the Mississippi, and that 605,000,000 trees are thriving where a few years ago none could be seen save along the streams. The ob-servance of tree planting is a sort of education to many children, who thus learn the names and characteristics of trees; and above all, it has an economic importance in clothing waste places with valuable timber. There's no doubt about it, Arbor day is a good

The sensationaist who started the story that President Cleveland had de-cided to decline a renomination part to decline a renomination next year, has done a good service for both the President and the country. He precipitated a general discussion of the question of Cleveland's re-election in source is not to be apprehended. There question of Cleveland's re-election in source is not to be apprehended. ## Superintendent Grimes.

The reelection of J. S. Grimes to the office of county superintendent on Tuesday afternoon by the school directors of Columbia county gives general sat-isfaction to the public. It was a well deserved mark of confidence and esteem in and for the character and qualifications of a faithful and hard working official. Mr. Grimes has raised the standard of teachers and schools during the past six years and he is better qualified to carry on the good work now than ever before. We congratulate him upon his success, and we commend his wisdom in not allowing himself to be drawn into a personal newspaper campaign during the progress of the

An Elastic Law-

If for no other reason than to assure some uniformity in the construction of the law, the bill to regulate the granting of licenses now pending in the legislature, or some similar measure, should have a place on the statute books. The law now in force has always been open to many constructions, but never before this spring have the courts tak-en so many different views of what it

In Huntingdon county, for instance, the associate judges construed the law to give them the authority to refuse every application for license if they chose, no matter what the desires of the community might be in the matter and they consequently overruled Judge Furst, the president judge's opinion that certain licenses must be granted under the law and threw all license applications out of court, creating practically a prohibition county. Judge White, of the Indiana district, also construes the law according to the dictates of his conscience, as he puts it, and will grant no licenses this spring.

In many other districts the judges use the law on the local option principle and grant license if a majority of the people seem to desire licenses by signing applications. If a majority remonstrate against license then none are granted. In Lycoming county Judge Cammin inquires simply whether the applicant has complied with the law and if he has his license is granted, irrespective of signers for or against it. A majority of the judges recognize the names of women on remonstrances as of legal force, while others will pay no attention to the signatures of women, declaring that if they are recognized it is practically a recognition of female suffrage, which has no existence under the laws of this state. In the Luzerne district Judge Woodward grants every license that is ap-plied for, against which no remon-strance is made, holding that the law gives him no option in the matter. That is the view taken of it by Judge Bucher, of the Mifflin district, and he

A Defender of the Homestead

President Cleveland, in his recen letter of instruction to the Secretary of the Interior, serves notice on the land grant corporations that although they may want the earth and the fatness thereof, they shall have in future no more of it than they are legally entitled to. In other words, land enough for five or six Commonwealths the size of Pennsylvania will not be longer withdrawn from settlement because two or three railway corporations think they may in future be entitled to a small fraction of it under the terms of their original grants.

The case which called out this significant letter was one of peculiar hardship.

A settler named Guilford Miller took up a homestead and proceeded to improve it, the land being fifty miles from the line of the Northern Pacific Road. The grant to the road extended only forty miles on either side and Miller very naturally supposed he was outside of the limits of any possible rail-way claims. But the Northern Pacific officials induced the government to might, when they got good and ready, select land enough to make up any de-ficiency caused by set lements in the forty mile grant prior to the act of belt and the railway company demand-ed that his homestead entry should be canceled. Commissioner Sparks de-cided in favor of Miller. An appeal was taken and Attorney General Garland sustained the claim of the railway. President Cleveland at this point thrusts in his oar and not only orders Secretary Lamar to sustain Miller in the possession of his homestead, but gives notice that the practice of with-holding millions of acres of these socalled indemnity lands from settlement must be abandoned.

In plain English this means that in future homestead settlers are to have some rights which land grant railroads must respect. This is President Cleve-land's position, and as he has a good deal of influence with this administration it may be taken for granted that his views will be carried out during the nearly two years he will remain in office. It was high time a reform in the Land Office was inaugurated. Nearly two years ago so notable a Republican as Elihu B. Washburne declared that it had been for the last fifteen or twenty years the most corrupt depart-ment that ever existed in any government on the face of the earth. lands are needed for actual settlers and there is no sense in holding them in-definately away from the public just to allow the railways, at their leisure, to select the choicest of them .- Times.

The Approach of Cholera.

The report that cholera had broken out at Guaymas and Mazatlan, on the eastern shore of the Gulf of California, is ostentatiously denied by Mexican officials, and if the denial is not denied advance of its appearance in Central America. America.

mas are plague spots and especially liable to an outbreak of this fatal epidemic. Guaymas is about three hundred miles south of the northern line of Mexico and is connected with Nogales, Arizona, by the Sonora Railroad. It is a small city with a harbor nearly land-locked, is very hot and without any drainage. It communicates by steamers and other vessels with the Pacific ports of Central and South America. Mazatlan hes four hundred and fifty miles farther to the south than Guaymas. It is hardly ever free from yellow fever and other epedemic diseases and seems to have no sanitary regulations at all. If sholera were brought to either of these ports it would be almost certain of distribution by rail and otherwise to California, Arizona, Utah and New Mexico. In view of these possibilities it will be the part of wisdom to take the denials of the existence of the disease at these cities by interested Mexican officials with some margin of allowance and establish a rigid quarantine against them until the truth or falsity of the report be established beyond dispute And while they are about it the Juited States health officials, as well as the municipal quarantine authorities at all our Atlantic and Gulf ports, should be very vigilant during the reregulations. It is not worth while to get in a panic because cholera is raging in South America, but it is worth while to guard against any occasion for a panie by leaving no stone unturn-

States .- Times. WASHINGTON LETTER

(Prom our Regular Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., May 2nd, 1887.

The beautiful Capital of the United States is beginning to bloom now and in one week more it will be in all its glory of vernal attire. It is well that it does, for a good representation of the Nation will be here during the next few weeks, and the city wants to look its loveliest. The streets are being swept, the lawns trimmed, the fount-ains sparkle in the sunshine, and the parterres begin to blaze with nature's brightest hues. Washington will be nothing if not lively during the month of May. The Grand Encampment of the Salvation Army opened the din on the 1st. Then Patti took up the strain with admission fee to the Grand Stand ranging from ten dollars upward. Almost simultan cously the flyers of the Jockey Club and Forepaugh's Circus will make no end to home runs at the race track and athletic park respectively, and about the time these rackets weary an enter-tainment will be in order, which, fortunately for pockets, is free to all. does not permit himself to be influenced by remonstrances or the moral phase of the liquor question. He grants the license of every applicant who complies with the law.

With so much difference of opinion as to the meaning of the old license law great confusion has crept into the law great confusion has crept into the only, for a period not to exceed twenty various judicial districts in applying minutes. Then there will be side the excise measure. There surely shows in abundance, League championshould be an improvement somewhere ship games, conventions, reunions, a then will come the crowning event of the season, the long expected National Drill, lasting for more than a week and culminating in a grand final pageant on Decoration day.

The work of feneing in the Drill field is going on and everything will be in readiness in due time. The enclosure is 1,050 feet in diameter, and the grand stand will be so arranged as to enable spectators to see the entire field enable spectators to see the entire field and all the performances. For the camp, 750 tents have been engaged and some of the visiting companies will bring their own tents. At one extremity of the Drill ground a panorama of the famous battle between the Merritage of the property of the Porton the Merritage of the famous battle between the Merritage of the famous fa mae and Monitor in Hampton Roads will be erected, which will be a very realistic exhibition of this encounter. It will be in full view of the grand stand, and will form one of the attracions each night.

General Augur has been appointed to the command of the National Drill camp. He is a fine, soldierly looking officer, who lives quietly with his family in Georgetown. It was expected that a man of national reputation would withdraw from settlement another belt twenty miles in width, from which they reason that it is a national affair, crowds of American citizens are comselect land enough to make up any deficiency caused by settlements in the forty mile grant prior to the set of Congress ceding it to the company. Miller's farm was in this twenty mile matter to find just such a commandant belt and the railway company demand. who had sufficient leisure to give the matter the necessary attention at this time. Gen. Auger being on the re-tired list, can devote himself exclusively to his duties, and it is thought, will prove satisfactory in other ways. He was very much gratified by the honor conferred upon him. At present it seems as if all that will be necessary to make the event successful in every particular is that those who furnish the weather for us will suppress everything akin to the beastly article that was inflicted here at the same time last year

The Garfield statue which is to be unveiled with imposing ceremonies cost $65,000, of which $30,000 was appropriated by Congress for the pedestal, and the other $35,000 was raised by his comrades of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland. It stands in a circle at the foot of Capitol Hill. southwesterly from the Capitol, and is a pedestrian figure of heroic size. It represents Garfield in a graceful attitude, with one hand holding a manuscript, as if he were addressing the people, and the other resting on a book supported by a column, while his top coat is thrown back, giving the fig-ure a lifelike appearance. The figure is of course concealed from public view by a winding sheet of black cambric, but it was undraped for a few minutes to be photographed, and again redrap-ed, so to remain until the formal unveiling on the twelfth inst.

The inscription on the pedestal has been criticised because it refers to Gar-field as "Senator" and also "Member of Congress." He was never in fact a Senator but only a Senator-elect, and strictly speaking there is no such

THE LAST TWO OF THE FAMOUS CONVICT GRANTED THEIR PARDONS.

The Pardon Board has approved the Spring and Christopher Donnelly. familiarly known as "the last of the Mollie Maguires." Twenty one were hanged, many served various terms of imprisonment and a large number fled the country when the murderous conspiracy was exposed. O'Brien and Donnelly were sentenced in 1876 to fourteen years each in the Schuylkill County Prison for complicity in the murder of Gomer James. at Shenadoah and the attempted murder of the Major brothers and William Thomas, at Maha noy City. Commutation deducted, their sentences would have expired in June next, unless it should have been neld that the two sentences impose upon each did not merge, in which case they rould have some two years long-er to serve. Their liberation will com-plete the dark chapter of Mollie Maguire crime and expiation.

Car Heating.

It is gratifying to notice that some progress is made every week in the work of substituting steam for stoves in railroad cars. For ten days a train heated by steam was run between St. Albans and White River Junction, Vt. the round trip covering two hundred and forty-two miles. The working of the system in use on this train has been inspected by the Vermont Railroad Commissioners and many practical railroad men, and all of these, as well mainder of the present season. Cholera has crossed the Atlantic, and it is much that the problem has been solved. In more easily distributed by land and short water routes than across the main coean. It can only be kept at bay by the most rigid and effective quarantine cured on the road over which this train runs, and many lives would have been saved if the train wrecked last winte had been heated in the same way Accidents will happen, but some of the worst horrors attendant upon our rail ed to prevent its importation into the road casualties will be things of seaport and inland cities of the United past when the stoves are no more. road casualties will be things of the

Our Wealthy Men.

Much has been said in newspaper of men who have made large fortunes in comparatively a few years in various business industries. Many of these articles are written by correspondents of prominent newspapers, and copied into others of lesser note. Correspondents generally are seldom men of busi ness qualifications and wrongfully picture these men and their business as thing of accident : this is not the case with those we have met. We find that where men have made large fortunes by their own business talent and industry they chose with sagacity and forethought such businesses as would lead to success when handled with business judgment. No man has been brought before the public as an example of success, both in wealth and magni tude of his business (outside of stock and railroad men) more prominently Third Street.

Poll Tax Abolished

No more poll tax need be paid in Pennsylvania for the exercise of the privilege of suffrage. The bill abolishing the tax was passed at Harrisburg last week. Pennsylvania now stands in line with the most progressive American States in refusing to put a money price on a privilege which in a republic should be the free and equal right of every citizen of good character and intelligence. Manhood suffrage is not peculiar to the United States. Even in a kingdom like Italy, and in Even in a kingdom like Italy, and in an empire like Germany, the right to vote is less restricted than it is in some American States. Justice and freedom call for the free exercise of voting, and the abolition of the poli tax in Penn sylvania will give the citizens of the State the equal privileges which could be the rule everywhere.
