Governor Beaver has vetoed several apers are not making much noise about it. They howl vociferously however, when a democratic president does the same thing.

The revenue bill which failed to become a law because of the neglect of president of the senate to sign it, repealed the tax on furniture, carriages, watches etc. As another bill was pass-ed in May, and has become a law, repealing the tax on these articles, the faiture of the general revenue bill does not affect this class of property.

John Stewart of Chambersburg who was candidate for Governor on the Independent ticket in 1883, is reported as saving that if Governor Beaver refuses to call an extra session to correct the error in the failure of the revenue bill, that Franklin county, which has always given a republican majority will undoubtedly go democratic.

The Times has undertaken to force Governor Beaver to call an extra session of the legislature to pass the revenue bill that failed through carelessner or worse. It has telegraphed to every senator and member asking if they are willing to serve without pay. Many have replied that they will not receive pay, and if all agree to that, the Goverpor will have to change his mind, as he has announced his determination not to recall the legislature. Whether the bill failed through mistake or fraud the republican party is responsible, as they have control of every branch of the state government. What are they going to do about it?

CHIEF JUSTICE MERCUR

DEATH OF THE EMINENT JURIST MONDAY MORNING.

Chief Justice Mercur of the state Supreme Court, died at the residence of his son at Wallingford near Phila-delphia, on Monday, after an illness of ten days. He was born at Towanda May 28, 1818, and always resided there. He graduated from the Jefferson col lege, Canonsburg, at the age of 24. He read law in the office of Judge William McKennon, of Pittsburg, He was a delegate to the convention that nominated John C. Fremont for president, and was a Lincoln presidential elector in 1860. He was appointed judge of the common pleas court of Bradford county in 1862, and was subsequently elected to fill the same position for a term of ten years.

In 1864 he resigned and was elected to Congress by the republicans, from the district composed of Bradford, Columbia, Wyoming, Sullivan and In 1868 and 1870 he was reelected, the last time defeating Captain Brockway by only 124. In 1872 he was elected a justice of the Supreme Court, and be on January 1, 1888, and the probabilities are that he would have been re nominated for the Supreme bench.

His ancestors went to Bradford county from Lancaster county, and his early professional career was spent in that locality, where he had eminent success at the bar, and was conspicuous in politics. He was formerly a demo crat, and as such took an active interest in politics, and was elected to the Thirtieth congress. He was a frequent delegate to state conventions and a leading counsellor in the party. The defection of David Wilmot, and that region and he became a republican.

While in Congress Judge Mercur vation to the bench his career has been solely judicial, and he has been but little known in politics, though his ad vice was often sought and highly valued by the leaders of his party. He strictest integrity and purity.

His wife, a sister of Gen. W. H. H. Davis of Doylestown, survives him and he leaves a daughter and four sons, the oldest of whom, Rodney A. is a prominent young attorney at Towarda.

Thirty years ago the bar of Bradford county embraced a number of attorneys who were the peers of any in the state. David Wilmot was on the bench, and among those who practiced before him were William Watkins, Edward Oveston Sr., John C. Adams, Ulysses Mercur, William Elwell, E. W. Baird, James Macfarlane, George Sanderson who afterwards removed to Scranton. C. L. Ward, David Cash and many others. Most of these finished their earthly labors years ago, and for some time Chief Justice Mercur and Judge Elwell were all that remained of this brilliant circle of distinguished lawyers. The death of the former leaves Judge Elwell the sole survivor of all those who were prominent in practice when he was at the bar.

Judge Mercur's legal ability was not his only distinguishing characteristic. In his home life he displayed many traits of character that made him a popular and useful citizen. He was an indulgent and affectionate father and husband, and an active supporter of the Episcopal church. He has fallen with his armor on, and his memory will long be cherished by all whose privilege it law was that about $350,000,000 of money at interest held by trust companies and other corporations escaped taxation under the interpretations of the revenue law of 1885 by the Su-preme Court, which at three mills would realize a tax of $1,050,000. Last year the tax on personal property con-tributed to the State Treasury nearly $1,200,000, which the new act would have increased to over $2,200,000. Half of this amount would have been diverted to the County Treasuries and the State would accordingly have received about $100,000 less than it got under the old law. There was another provision in the bill which repealed the tax on furniture, pleasure carriages and and the racing season inaugurated by watches, which amounts to about $100,- the "Derby" will form a procession of 000 a year, but a separate act has received the approval of the Governor covering the same subject of taxation, and beyond the illuminations, which and the revenues of the Commonwealth will consequently be a little more the

Washington, D.C., June 5th, 1887. Laborers are at work in one of the Court yards of the Treasury building excavating for the new vault, for which Congress appropriated $27,840. This will be the largest single money vault known. It is to be large enough to hold one hundred million silver dollars and its full capacity will doubtless be tested by the constant accumulation from an annual production of not less han twenty four millions of dollars.

The structure is to be entirely underground; nothing is to appear on the surface to indicate the depository of so much wealth. The vault will be lined with an iron case, and will be divided into sixteen compartments separated by iron lattice partitions. There are to be no dark corners in this building; the open lattice work is adapted so that the eye can range through all the compartments at one glance. The en trance will be through the sub-basement of the Treasury building, which is at all times thoroughly guarded, and a dozen different men will be required to Montour counties, his opponent being open the vault, several series of unlock-ing being necessary, and one person Victor E. The silver dollars in their new habitation will be piled up in canvas bags holding $1,000 each, one on top of the other, as is now done in the existing vaults.

The recent deaths, so close together, of two prominent journalists, reminds one of the deep swathe that has so lately been cut into the profession of journalism. It is but a brief period since Adams of the Washington Star, and Billy Copeland of the New York Journal of Commerce were taken al-most with pencil in hand, so suddenly other circumstances before the war the summons came; and all these menchanged the political complexion of tioned were not only connected by the bonds of fellowship incident to a com mon brotherhood, but were more inti-

They are also now engaged in an endeavor to suppress the exhibition of questionable pictures used in advertising, which while they attract the eye and thus serve their purpose, also exert a more baleful influence in leading the imagination of our youth into evil channels. A Probation Agency, for the benefit of first offenders, has been recently established, whereby unfortunate youth who have been brought before the Police Court may be afforded an opportunity of bettering themselves, thus witholding from them the stigma of conviction of crime, and sentence to association of old criminals, and endeavoring to procure honest employment for those in need. A Women's Refuge is in successful operation, also, where any may find a welcoming, smiling and helpful hand. OUR LONDO I LETTER.

LONDON, May, 28th, 1887 The American invasion of London has begun in real earnest, and even more than is usual at this time of the year. The Strand resembles Broadway from Fourteenth Street to Thirty-fourth Street, every other person you meet seems to be an American; and the long black winter, that is hardly pass-ed yet, for the weather is still anything but spring like, seems a dream, as the familiar faces reappear who greeted me a year ago in the same place.

The Princess, accompanied by the Princess Mand attended by one Lady only and Colonel Gardiner, paid a secend visit to the American Exhibition after the drawing room. She arrived at about eight o'clock, paid for her admission like anyone else and went in with the crowd. She was discovered, however, by Major Burke and Townsend Percy, who carried out the wishes that she should be screened from observation as much as possible, and be allowed to remain incog.; to that end she was shown into a private box some distance from the Royal Box, where she remained until the end of the "Wild West" programme without being recognized. After the performance, she visited Col. Cody in his tent, and drank tes with him, and inspected the whole of the camp, and after wandering around the Exhibition and making a few trifling purchases, she left as quiet-one of the pleasantest evenings of her life. Among the other visitors this week, were the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Saxe Meiningen, the oldest Royal Blood in Europe, with the exception of the Cologna family in Italy. On Thursday the Hon. E. V. Phelps, United States Minister, plenipotentiary to the Court of St. James, paid a visit to the Exhibition. He was visited in his box by Mr. John R. Whitley, Di rector-General of the American Exhibition, who presented him to M. Bartholdi, the celebrated sculptor of the "Statue of Liberty" in New York Harbour, and who is here putting the final touches to his diorama of New York Bay, the building for which has just been completed in the centre of the

The machinery is in place now, and the huge engine which moves it is an object of great interest. The flowers are springing up in the gardens, and the whole Exhibition presents a gala aspect. The visitors average over 30, 000 per diem, and the complete success both artistic and financial, of the Exhibition is now conceded on every hand. As an example of how great the American craze is in London, at a fancy fair held at Earl Spencer's House, in St. James', and which was attended by the Princess of Wales, the Princes Louise, the Dowager Duchess of Marl satin fan, containing a sketch of Shirt" in black and white by his Cowboy, artist "Freuzeuy" surrounded by the autographs of Buffalo Bill and the Members of his Company, was sold by auction by Townsend Percy, who act ed as auctioneer at the request of Lady Granville on the occasion, for nearly fifty guineas. Miss Marie Corelli, Mrs. Stannard, Miss M'Carthy, Miss Hepworth Dixon, Mrs. Alexander, and numerous others, were all attired in this sombre hue. It is true that Lady Colin Campbell relieved the prevailing dullness by bows of yellow ribbon and an exalted hat to match. Mrs. Campbell Praed was charmingly attired in soft grey; Lady Wilde was resplendent in dove-colored silk. Mrs. Cashel Hoey, Miss Ethel Coxom, Miss Nellie Fortescue and other ladies were also present. Mr. Rider Haggard who has lately return-of the hour. There is a good story about Professor Huxley and his opinion of the Bishops which is worth repeating. Some time ago the Professor was lecturing before his class at South Kensington on the structure and function of the heart, when he said that for a long time after he commenced his biological studies he was perplexed as to the mitral valve of the heart, and could not remember with perfect certainty on which side it was. At length a happy thought oc curred to him. "Mitral" was an adjec tive formed from "mitre," the capital adornment of a bishop. Hence the mitral valve of the heart became associated in his mind with the occupant of an episcopal see. "And remembering," said he, "that the bishops are al-ways on the vorong side, I have from that day to this had no difficulty in re-
