S. LOWENBERG,

Do not expose yourself too much in the hot sun or work too hard while the temperature is so high as at present. If it is possible, stop, at least for a few moments, whatever work you may be engaged at. "A breathing spell" will do any one much good. Cases of sunstroke and prostrations from heat are occurring quite numeronsly in the cities and we even hear of some in the country towns. Persons who are not entirely well are much more liable to such strokes than are people who are in good physical condition. But it behooves ill who can do so to heed our injunction, to take just as good care of themselves passible.-Ex.

Bloomsburg, Pa., July 28, 1887. Andrew Rudroski and Michael Petel are young men employed at the Alden mine at Nanticoke, boarding in the same house and occupying the same room and bed in a house kept by a Polish family near the depot. Last Friday night one of the young men attempted to murder the other. About cleven o'clock Rudroski returned home somewhat under the influence of hquor and found Petel sound asleep in bed. Becoming suddenly possessed of some insane idea he determined to murder the innocensleeper, and procuring a club dealt Petel several deadly blows on the head, face and body, crushing in his skull, disligaring has face, fracturing several ribs, and inflicting other serious injuries. The cries and shouts and Rudroski was bound and held until an

The party of boys that went out camping last week was rather unfortunate. They frantically waved their arms and velled themselves hoarse, but imagine their consternation and despair when it passed on and was lost to their view in the distance, leaving only a long line of smoke behind it to re mind them that it had passed. Drenched to the skin and with sorrowful countenances they wended their way to Orangeville, and there, after much trouble, they succeeded in procuring a team and wagon, which conveyed them to Bloomsburg the same evening, a sadder yet a wiser crowd.

as per adjournment. Col. Freeze stated that at last Convention committee was appointed to revise the rules in reference to delegate elections, and that the committee had acted and were damaged. The whole loss footed up $8000 ready to report. On motion it was ordered that the report be read before considering any other business. The following is the REPORT ON AMENDMENT OF RULES. The undersigned, members of a committee to whom the last annual County Convention referred a proposed change in the rules of nomination, make the following

The resolution referred to them propose to abolish delegate conventions, and adop a plan of plurality nominations based upon being filled no damage was done.

Hay and grain housed before the week of rain, are in excellent condition. A great deal of hay, mowed early last week, lies bleaching in the fields, much of which will not be worth hauling in. return judges (one from each election dis-trict.) shall meet as a return board to cast up the votes, and the candidates highest up the votes, and the candidates highest in vote upon the returns shail become the nominees of the party. The arguments in favor of this plan are, that it is simple in form and gives to the voters a direct voteo in the nominations. But, on the other hand, to those who have well-considered the plan, and have observed its practical working in places where it has been tried, it appears to be open to very serious objections. These objections the committee will now proceed to state:

will now proceed to state:

In the first place, the plan gives minority nominations for party support; onliging the majority to vote for candidates to whom they are opposed, to retrain from whom they are opposed, to relate from voting, or to support other candidates in opposition to the laws of their party. It will very commonly happen, where there are several candidates for nomination to the same office, that the vote will be so much divided that the candidate highest to vote on the returns will have less than in vote on the returns will have less than one-half of the whole vote cast. His vote may be as low as one-third of the whole, or even less, and yet he will become the nominee of the party. But such minority nominations are unreasonable,, and are en-tirely opposed in spirit, form and effect to tirely opposed in spirit, form and effect to Democratic principles, which support and sanction majority rule. Their inevitable effect is, to produce dissatisfaction and to weaken the party that allows them to be made. Such was the case in Northumberland county some years ago. This plan was adopted there, by the Democracy, and nominations made under it for an important election. It turned out that many of the nominations were made by minorities upon the pepular vote. This fact, in connection with the practical working of the plan in other respects, produced general nection with the practical working of the plan in other respects, produced general dissatisfaction; the whole ticket thus nom-inated was beaten at the polls, and the Re-publican minority of the county had a sig-nal triumph. Instructed by this experience, the Demobrats of Northumberland county health at the whole plan and returned to Teachers' examination took place last Thursday. Six applicants were present.

In fact, it is to carry out and secure the principle of majority rules at legal elections, is also a majority vote. In fact, it is to carry out and secure the principle of majority rules at legal elections.

Mr. A. M. F. out them a legal election would become a ling resolution. ing received the highest number of votes were declared elected.

scrub race for office, and majority rule would disappear as the controling princi-ple of elections.

It is therefore accessary, and according to sound principle, that a party majority should nominate to office; either by direct popular vote, or through a delegate con popular voic, or through a delegate convention, or ty both means combined as provided for by the Columbia county rules. Inasmuch then, as the Crawford county plan, in many cases, defeats this principle and gives minority nonmonations, it is to be condemned and rejected.

Again, the plan gives great opportunity for intrigue and management in nominations. A candidate for nomination may know he is in a minority in the county and cannot succeed upon his own strength or merits, but he can succeed by getting our merits, but he con succeed by getting ou another candidate to run and divide up his vote in a section of the county where himself is weak. This can be managed himself is weak. Tois can be managed through a friend, or by incurring some ex-pense, and thus a nomination be obtained for himself upon, perhaps, oue-third of the whole vote. Upon this plan also, by an adroit combination of the popular vote in a few heavy districts, the whole list of nominations may be controlled, and other parts of the county deprived of their due there of nominations.

An additional and insuperable objection to the plan is, its tendency to produce fraudulent and corrupt elections. So strong John Curry, Michael Hughes.

Gerenwood —Wm. P. Robbins, Wm. criminal law as its main support, must be a bad one. The temptation to swell the reurned vote of an election district, in the interest of a favorite candidate, will always be strong under the Crawford county plan, and experience has shown that it will often be resorted to and in most cases with impunity. There are no ready and convenient means for investigating a wrong of this kind, nor time for doing so before returns are counted.

An additional and important considers tion is, that by our present rules of nomi-nation we fairly secure all the advantages of the Crawford county plan without its evils. There is a direct vote by the peo-ple for candidates, and in every case where a majority upon instructions for a candidate is thus secured, the nomination is complete and is announced as a matter of course in convention. And in the case of any office where no candidate has a major y of the whole convention vote by tructions, such majority is procured structions, such majority is procured by delegate voting in convention, but under a stringent rule that no candidate can be deprived of any one of the convention votes to which he is entitled by instructions, so long as his name remains before the convention. We have thus, under our present system, a popular vote plan of nomination, carried out and enforced to the fullest possible extent conventible with majority consible extent compatible with majority con-trol. It is right that large minorities in the several districts should be represented in convention, and they are so represented upon instructions; but it is equally right and proper that the uniority should rule in

It is also evident, that our present plan omination has a great advantage over the Crawford county plan in furnishing a fair and well constituted convention, (instead of mere return judges) for the appointment of Senatorial and Congressional conferees, delegates to State and National conventions of the terror of the terror of the terror of the terror. tions, and for the transaction of other business. For those purposes, the party in this county is tully and properly represent ed under the existing rules.

The present rules hold out no incentive or swelling of district votes, as does to

Its convention vote is fixed by the number of its delegates, and cannot be increased for any immediate pur-pose by swelling the return of its popular In view of the foregoing reasons, it the opinion of the committee that it would be highly nexpedient to adopt the Craw-ford county plan for the making of nom-nations in this county, and they strongly and cornestly advise that the resolution submitted at the last convention shall not

Duties of Constables.

SHAT THEY ARE COMPELLED TO DO UNDER THE

The new license law went into effect so far as the duties of constables are concerned, the moment the governor signed the law. It is well, therefore, to refer to the duties of the constables under the act. The section of the law which applies strictly to them is as follows: It shall be the duty of each constable in the county to visit at least once in each month all places within their respective turisdictions where any liquors are sold or kept, to ascertain if any provisions of this or any act of assembly relating to sale or furnishing of such liquors have been or are being violated, and whenever any such violation, it shall be his duty to forthwith make written returns of the same to the court of quarter sessions with the names of the witnesses, and to do whatsoever shall be in his power to bring the offender to justice; and upon any neglect or refusal of I officer to perform the aforesald duty the said court shall impose the same penalties provided in section 11 of this act. The penalty is severe and imposes a fine of no more than $500 and imprisonment for no more than two years, or both, at the discreion of the court. Constables will be obliged make return as follows: Index boards: gambling houses; roads and bridges; sales of oleomargarine; deer killed out of season; tippling and disorderly houses; persons selling liquor on Sunday: persons furnishing liquor for sale, gift or otherwise, to minors persons of intemperate habits, the insencor hose intoxicated, persons violating the net (high license) of May 24, 1887; persons who sell without license, even if they have not violated the law.

At the same time the constables are en olded to report violators of the sections of the law which provide against wholesaler or rectifiers selling less than a quart, or bottlers allowing liquor to be drank on terr premises or at any place provided by such sellers for that purpose.
