The Mayor was Oross.

I was in the "Two Orphans" saloon at Eagle Pass City, Wy, oue day, en-gaged in the fatiguing business of ranged in the fatiguing busiless of leading against the wall and watching the barkeeper polish the glasses, when a strikingly large man with a ferocious black moustache and a hand the size of a St. Paul man's snowshoe came in and directly to where I stood. 1 tried to look as if I wasn't doing anything and got one corner of my eye on the side door. The man regarded me scornfully for a moment, then sudden-ly jumped up and cracked his heels together twice, brought his fist down on the edge of a card table so that it tipped over and rolled away, and with a whoop that jarred the shandelier yelled:

"Stranger, I eat snakes!"

* As I remember it, I replied that I had no doubt of it, also that I fully believed he was the only man in the country who did eat snakes, and that I presumed he rather preferred rattle-snakes and yellow headed moccasins; when he made a lesp at me and again whooped:

"Stranger, I'm & wolf ! Hear me how!!' I was backing towards the door and trying to look as sociable and agree-able as possible, when he added, with astonishing emphasis: "I'm a wildcat! I want blood!

want it to drink!"

I was now moving on the door so rapidly as to resemble a dark-colored strenk several yards long, when he started for me, howling: "I'm a man-cater! I'm from Bitter Coach Cimer Creek! Gimme some raw snakes! Lemme at him!" All the time kicking the chairs through the air and making the building tremble.

I managed to get through the door and fell across an alley and two vacant lots! Fifteen minutes later when I ventured out on another street, I happened to meet the barkeeper and said: "What was the matter with that man who tried to kill me at your place ?" "Mayor Everts, you mean, I reckon.

Deaf Mutes and their Children.

The superintendent at Bellevue home, Toronto, states in his report that 661 children and young people have attended the institution, and not one of them had deaf-mute parents, and of the pupils who had from time to time intermarried not one, to his knowledge, had a deaf-mute child. "All this is had a deaf-mute child. "All this is sery satisfactory," he says, "and should take away the fear that many parents have of deal-mote marriages, for much as a mixing up of these with other classes in marriage might be con-eidered desirable, it is not likely to be the case, and a deaf mate girl, trained and intelligent, often makes a happy rettlement in life with a well instructed deaf-mute partner.
