

Talking With the Dead.

AN OHIO BERTON WHO CLAIMS TO HAVE CONFERRED WITH THE DEPARTED.

Mr. Holmes, the veteran sexton of the Washington Cemetery, has during the past few years had hundreds of bodies in their last resting place...

"I must confess that I have," was his reply, "and although I am by no means a Spiritualist, I believe that the spirits of the dead often visit this world..."

"I can recall an incident that happened a few months ago while I was mowing the grass from the grave of a very intimate friend of mine who has been dead several years..."

"They have every time now to what they had when I was a boy," is the observation that the aged man is wont to repeat on every warrantable occasion...

"Well, I figger that a tramp opened the door and walked in to find a lodging-place. I kept the door unlocked, but never got in by it..."

"I look to see in mortal numbers that the town is full of gloom, for the man's a crank who slumbers in these bartering days of boom. Life is real, life is earnest and the grave is not its goal..."

"We do not hesitate to state that we are in receipt of your kind letter of the 10th inst., and in reply to inform you that we have forwarded you a copy of our book..."

"I look to see in mortal numbers that the town is full of gloom, for the man's a crank who slumbers in these bartering days of boom. Life is real, life is earnest and the grave is not its goal..."

Railroading in a Blizzard.

I talked with the engineer as I came down, and he told that the storm in Dakota was the fiercest ever known. He had seen several of the train hands as they came into St. Paul, and they gave a terrible account of the state of affairs...

"I can recall an incident that happened a few months ago while I was mowing the grass from the grave of a very intimate friend of mine who has been dead several years..."

REMNANTS.

People grumble because the number 1888 is hard to write, but they should console themselves by thinking of what they would have to put down if the Arabic figures had never been invented...

VALENTINE'S DAY A CENTURY AGO. St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 14, 1900. A young lady away back in the seventeenth century, in a letter to a friend, writes: 'Last Friday was Valentine's Day, and the night before I got five bay leaves and pinned four of them to the four corners of my pillow and the fifth to the middle, and then, if I dreamed of my sweetheart, Betty said that we should be married before the year was out...'

Oh, a girl that in unrequited horror outweighs. All the crimes that have blackened history's outraged canvas. Can be charged to the head who first started the craze. Of the red-headed girl and her first white horse.

DEATH OF PETROLIUM V. NABBY. David Ross Locke, 'Petroleum V. Nabby,' died Wednesday morning, Feb. 15th at his home in Toledo, O., after suffering for many months with Bright's Disease. He was editor and proprietor of the Toledo Blade. His estate is valued at $100,000. He was a native of England. Mr. Locke lectured in all the Northern States, generally on political topics. His eloquent and impressive manner on the platform and his rich voice made him a great favorite with audiences.

Prosperity is the only test that a vulgar man can pass through. If a man has anything meek in his disposition a little good luck is sure to bring it out.

RE UP AND DOING. Tell us not in mortal numbers that the town is full of gloom, for the man's a crank who slumbers in these bartering days of boom. Life is real, life is earnest and the grave is not its goal...

How to Treat Children. A word about nervous children. Never scold them for 'make fun' of them. The scolder is a failure. Never see their threats or sarcasm. Pretend not to hear their awkwardness when in company with their grimaces when alone. A case was reported the other day of a boy of ten years who, on being vexed, and often without any apparent provocation, will clench his hands and make the most frightful contortions of the muscles of his face and head till his poor mother fears he is idiotic. By no means. He is the brightest boy in his class at school, fond of reading and of natural history, but he is of a high-temperament to contend with. He was so taught to control the little wires, so to speak, on which he is strung. There is no single case. There are thousands of children who give way to their nerves in similar fashion. Talk to them about these curious little fancies that should be their servants, not their masters. Encourage them to be kind and patient with their nerves. They are the making of our future successful men and women, for they will work hard and whatever they undertake. Brave up your own nerves first and then be indulgent toward the capers of your over-nervous children.

Killed by Bedbugs. A remarkable case of the death of a woman was reported recently from Franklin township, Beaver county, Pa. The death occurred while the woman was suffering with a violent attack of headache, which had been on and off for nearly three years. For the past three years she had been living in an old house which was badly infested with bedbugs. Shortly after moving into it she began to be troubled with a strange type of headache, which seemed to increase in violence with each returning attack until at times she was rendered unconscious by the severe pains which she often described as resembling a heavy weight or pressure on the top of her head. The strange nature of the case and his inability to render relief aroused the attending physician's curiosity, and with the consent of the bereaved husband he opened the skull after the woman's death. He found firmly lodged on the top of the brain in a clotted mass, a large number of bed bugs. How they got there is not known, but it is believed that the doctor who placed his hands on the woman's forehead had been found in alcohol and had sent an account of the case to a medical school in New York.

We have received from the Atholporos Co., 112 Wall St., New York, a copy of their beautiful picture, 'Moorish Maid,' used in advertising the Atholporos remedies. The picture is very handsome and worthy of a place in an artist's gallery. It was obtained direct from the Company by sending six cents in stamps to pay the postage. The picture would readily sell in the art stores for fifty cents, and the company are receiving many thousand orders at this nominal price. It is a pleasure to note that the sale of the Atholporos remedies is constantly and steadily increasing, as must always be the case with every remedy that is the best of its kind, and this is the position occupied by each of the Atholporos remedies. Atholporos conques rheumatism, Atholporos Pills are a necessity in every household, while the new Atholporos Plasters are novel in the fact as expressed by a leading chemist, 'no other house would have thought of making so good a plaster when poor, cheap plasters are so common.'
