Miss Annie Miller has rented the third floor of the post office building, where she is giving vocal lessons in music. Hon. and Mrs. Wm. Elwell have been visiting at E. W. Elwell's Towanda, the past week.

J. Weiss Horter, journalist and politician of New York City, is a visitor in town this week. Miss Annie and Miss Jennie Lockard left Tuesday morning for Boston, where they will attend the Conservatory of Music.

H. B. Clark of Clark & Son is now in the city laying in a full line of goods for the fall trade. Look out for a full line in all departments. C. M. Drinker and R. W. Oswald went out hunting on Tuesday morning.

The result was a Mallard duck, three rail birds, and a snipe. J. H. Mercer's present pleased expression of contentment is all caused by the arrival at his house of a young son, which his wife presented him last week.

James Henderson, clerk at the Exchange Hotel, has been spending the past week at home on a visit to Jerome P. Woodring has filled his place. Miss Lizzie B. Jacoby started last Saturday for Columbus, Ohio, to visit her brother Dr. E. M. Jacoby and attend the centennial of the settlement of the Ohio valley.

Col. W. W. Stott of Westchester, who has been in town the past week selling some patent rights, was one of the youngest officers in war. He was a Captain at 17, and Col. of the 43rd Penna. regiment at 18.

Among former residents of Bloomsburg who were in town on Grand Army Day we noticed Randolph Hayman of Turbottville, H. Clay Hartman of Lock Haven, Joseph Shannon of Danville, Elmer A. Tate of Williamsport, John Chamberlain of Dunmore, Dr. Robert Ramsey of Tanamua, W. P. Ramsay Esq. of Mahanoy City.

The Muncy Valley Fair will be held at Hughesville October 30, 4th, 5th and 6th. A German Democratic Club has been formed at Sunbury. Orders taken for school books and school supplies at Mercer's Drug and Book Store.

Saturday was a bad day for the Milton fair. It rained all day. Only one month more until the fair gives Bloomsburg another big time. A large number of people from this place attended the Milton fair last week.

Berwick fair this week, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Before purchasing your school supplies examine the stock at W. H. Brooke & Co's. Begin to get your exhibits ready for the Bloom Fair.

Students are beginning to leave home for their various schools and colleges. Sullivan county is still expecting an oil boom. Mrs. M. A. Smith is ready to organize her music classes for the fall term. For terms and testimonials send for circular.

Ex-Sheriff Ent's little daughter was given a ride on a cannon in the G. A. R. parade by the Williamsport Post. The republican of Montour county on Monday nominated H. M. Hinckley as a candidate for President Judge of this judicial district.

All town taxes unpaid after Tuesday the 18th inst will be collected with the additional five per cent. Get your watches, clocks and jewelry repaired and guaranteed at C. E. Savage's, Main St. 4 doors above Market street.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. desire to express their thanks to all who in any way contributed to the success of their lunch room on Grand Army Day. G. W. Bertsch moved into his new house near corner of Fourth and Catharine streets on Wednesday, and C. G. Trench moved into the house vacated by Mr. Bertsch.

After a long sickness Mrs. H. C. Hower died on Wednesday night of last week, aged 81 years. The funeral took place at her residence on Sunday, the services being conducted by Rev. D. J. Walker. Her husband and seven children survive her.

The clerk of the weather was very considerate in allowing the rain which threatened to fall all day Wednesday to remain over until Friday and give a clear day to the Grand Army. The day was a beautiful one in every respect. Phillip A. Huber, the express agent was convicted Thursday of last week, at Sunbury and sentenced to three years at hard labor in the county jail. He was charged with stealing $50.00 from the Adams Express Company in August 1888.

M'Killip took a number of photographs on Grand Army Day, one of them being from Market Square showing the men in line. Views of the Exchange Hotel, Court House and other buildings were taken to show the elaborate decorations. Gray or fox squirrels may be shot between September 1st and December 31st. The partridge and quail season opens October 15th and ends December 15th. Pheasants may be killed from October 1st to December 31st. The rabbit season opens November 1st and ends December 31st.

Superintendent Lender displayed his ability as a railroad superintendent in handling the crowd of people who came over the Bloomsburg & Sullivan railroad to Grand Army Day. Woodman was in town the past week. Four trains were required to carry the passengers on their return. These were all sent out from the stations before twelve o'clock and not a single accident.

List of letters remaining in the P. O., at Benton from month ending Aug. 31, '88. Harry Eaton Esq., Mr. Sterling W. Dickson, J. J. Conway (3), Mr. Adam Hummel, Mrs. Retty Phony (3), Mr. W. M. Aorny, Mrs. A. B. Carnett. Persons calling for these letters will please say "advertised."

Elegant flannel shirts at Lowenberg's. Mr. Cyrus McHenry of Orangeville, died on Thursday morning of last week, from cancer in the throat. He had been seriously ill since March, with no possibility of recovery. He was 62 years of age, was the son of Edward McHenry. His elder brother Samuel and younger brother Thomas yet survive him. Cyrus was an industrious man, and accumulated a moderate fortune. He was buried Saturday morning at McHenry's graveyard on the farm he owned. One son and two daughters grown to man and woman are left to mourn the loss of a kind father.

No definite conclusion has yet been reached in regard to the future of the School Furnishing Co. Whether the factory will be rebuilt or not, as yet remains uncertain and depends largely upon what the citizens of Bloomsburg are willing to do. Our people have been very liberal in offering inducements to strangers to come here and establish factories, furnishing money for buildings, giving sites and paying taxes. The School Furnishing Company's factory is one that has not been afforded the same prospects of the company when disaster overtook it, was very bright, and the fact that it would prove to be a paying investment had been demonstrated beyond a doubt. Large orders were on their books, and they were running day and night. Tempting offers had already been made to induce the company to locate elsewhere. Let Bloomsburg do as well for this enterprise as it has done for strangers, and prevent the possibility of the removal of this important industry.

All the latest fall styles of hats just received at Lowenberg's. Lesser Alexander, of the enterprising firm of Alexander, Bro. & Co., returned from his European trip last week Tuesday. He left home on July 7th and sailed July 11th on the steamer Allen of the Bremen line landing at Bremen on the 19th. He spent a few days at Berlin and then went to Nakeletze in Prussia to visit his father, brother and sister, where he spent most of his time. One of the most interesting places visited by him was the fort at Thorn, on the border of Prussia and Russia. It is an immense affair, garrisoned by 100,000 troops. The town is surrounded by a stone wall, and the fort surrounds the town outside of the wall, nearly 8 miles around. Mr. Alexander came to this country fifteen years ago and is now a citizen of this city. He is a very successful business man. A very pretty arch was put up at Main and Centre streets by the business firms attending to the parade. The arch was a masterpiece of carpentry and was covered with a mass of flags, streamers and shields, and was one of the finest looking buildings. The Exchange office also looked very handsome and a large flag was hung across the street between the two buildings; a semi-circle of gas jets above the Exchange verandah threw a brilliant light over that part of the street at night. Gilmore's saloon was handsomely trimmed, and a line of jets in front threw a bright light over the large picture of scenes from the late war, which decorated the upper part of the building. The remainder of the hotels and other buildings were in preparation. G. A. R. Hall looked very pretty and a line of flags extended from the top of the flag-staff on the building, to the Exchange and Knox and Winter's building. Portraits of generals in the late war and other prominent men were to be seen on the front of some of the buildings and on several of the arches, and there was nothing lacking and no expense spared to make the town look to its best.

GRAND ARMY DAY. Promptly at 3 o'clock the procession began to form at Market Square. It was in three divisions, C. P. Sloan having command of the first, G. S. Furman of the second, and U. H. Ent of the third, the assistant marshals, the whole being under the direction of Gen. J. P. S. Gobin of Lebanon, ex-department commander of the G. A. R. Chief Marshal Gobin and Assistant Sloan led the parade mounted. They followed a carriage driven by E. Ducklow containing the Department officers as follows: Department Commander Magee, Thos. J. Stewart, Assistant Quartermaster General, Thos. Kay of Philadelphia, Col. A. D. Seely of Berwick. Then came the Posts, there being nearly 2000 in line as follows:

First Division. Post 22, Danville, drum corps and small brass cannon. Post 43, Ashland, band, Sons of Veterans. Post 63, Lewisburg, with band. Post 64, Reno Post, Williamsport, Flak band. Post 93, M. Representatives of the Women's Relief Corps were present from Mahanoy City and Northumberland. Their headquarters were in the rooms of Ent Post. The line of march was up Main to East, to Fifth, to Market, to Third, to Leonard, to Main, to Normal School, counter march to Market and break ranks. The Marshals took a stand near the arch at Main and Market, and as each Post passed, the officers saluted Commander Magee, who recognized it by taking off his hat. The color-bearers dipped the flags as they passed the Commander. About an hour and a half was required to complete the march.

A Camp Fire was held in the evening at the Opera House. Every seat was occupied, and many were turned away who could not get in. Conrad John V. Miller of Lewisburg presided. Addresses were made by Mr. Miller, Department Commander Magee, Gen. Gobin, Col. Thos. J. Stewart, Mr. Woodruff, Thos. Kay. The speeches were all listened to very attentively, and some of them were very humorous. The speakers complimented the citizens of Bloomsburg highly on the beautiful decorations, and the warm hospitality extended to the visitors.

At 4 o'clock a business meeting was held in the Opera House, sixty-two delegates being present, Captain Jones presiding, and G. W. Luck acting as secretary. The fixing of a stand near the arch at Main and Market, and as each Post passed, the officers saluted Commander Magee, who recognized it by taking off his hat. THE PARADE. Several of the bands serenaded at different places about town in the evening and made excellent music. The Milton and Williamsport bands were especially highly spoken of and they certainly deserved the praises that were bestowed upon them.

There was, of course, a large quantity of beer drunk, but it is quite remarkable that there was not a fight during the day or night. The prompt and commendable action of Chief of Police Freas and his corps of policemen in locking up four cases of drunk and disorderly conduct, and the pugilistic propensities of quarrelsome men.

The Williamsport Daily Item says: The Grand Army boys report having had a splendid good time, and that they were royally entertained by the Bloomsburg people. Take it all in all, it was unanimously voted by the soldiers boys to have been one of the most successful entertainments ever held in the Middle District.

We clip the following extract from the Danville Record's report of Grand Army Day: The old heroes of the war could not speak too highly of the noble and patriotic citizens of Bloomsburg, who so amply compensated them for their money, labor and hospitality toward making the old soldiers feel as welcome as could be seen in the city of the town. It was a most joyous occasion, not only for the old soldiers, but for the Sons of Veterans and the ten or fifteen thousand people who lined the sidewalks and business houses of the place. The committee of arrangements and good hospitable people of Bloomsburg have the thanks of Goodrich Post No. 22 of Danville.

School books, slates, tablets, everything needed in school work, at W. H. Brooke & Co's. W. B. Foust, for many years agent of the D. L. & W. Post at this place, was among the visitors here on Grand Army Day. He says he got on the cars at Shickling, and told the conductor he wanted to go to Bloomsburg, but when he got here and looked around he found that he had been put off at a flag station.

That excursion and picnic of the Reformed Sunday School, announced for last Saturday, did not take place. You know the reason. However, if the weather is favorable, it will take place next Saturday, Sept. 15; and you still have the opportunity of joining the last Sunday school excursion of this season over the B. & E. R. R. to the Hess Grove near Central, at the low rate of 40 cents for the round trip; children from 7 to 12 years 25 cents.

Levi Alkman died at his home on his farm in Centre township last Monday morning after a long illness, at the age of about seventy-three years. He was born in this county and has always made his home here, having moved but once. Mr. Alkman leaves a wife and four children, a son and three daughters, to mourn his loss. Mrs. H. V. White, of this place, being one of the daughters. He was a member of the Presbyterian church and funeral services were held at Hildy's church at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. Rev. D. J. Walker officiating. Interment took place in a plot in the graveyard adjoining the church.
