

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. L. FRIZZ, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, OFFICE—Front Room, Over Postoffice, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

J. H. MAIZE, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, OFFICE—Room No. 2, COLUMBIAN BUILDING, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

N. U. FUNK, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, OFFICE in Rat's Building, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

JOHN M. CLARK, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND JUSTICE OF THE PEACE, OFFICE over Meyer Bros. Drug Store, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

C. W. MILLER, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, OFFICE in Brewer's Building, Second Floor, Room No. 1, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

B. FRANK ZARR, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, OFFICE corner of Centre and Main Streets, Clara's Building, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

RO. E. ELWELL, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, OFFICE on second floor, third room of COLUMBIAN BUILDING, Main Street, below Exchange Hotel, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

PAUL E. WIRT, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, OFFICE in COLUMBIAN BUILDING, Third Floor, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

H. V. WHITE, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, OFFICE in "Lawers' Building", 2nd floor, may 1st, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

KNOOR & WINTERSTEIN, ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, OFFICE in National Building, second floor, first door to the left, Corner of Main and Market Streets, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

F. P. BILLMEYER, (DISTRICT ATTORNEY), ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, OFFICE over Dentler's shoe store, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

W. H. RHAWN, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, OFFICE corner of Third and Main Streets, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

MICHAEL F. EYERLY, Conveyancer, Collector of Claims, LEGAL ADVICE IN THE SETTLEMENT OF ESTATES, OFFICE in Dentler's Building with F. P. Billmeyer, attorney-at-law, front room, second floor, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

D. H. HONORA A. ROBBINS, OFFICE and residence, West First Street, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

J. B. MCKELVY, M. D., Surgeon and Physician, Office, North Market Street, below Market Street, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

DR. J. C. RUTTER, PHYSICIAN and SURGEON, OFFICE, North Market Street, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

DR. WM. M. REBER, Surgeon and Physician, OFFICE corner of Rock and Market Streets, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

J. J. BROWN, PHYSICIAN and SURGEON, OFFICE and residence on Third Street near Methodist Church, Diseases of the eye a specialty, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

W. R. TUBBS, PROPRIETOR, EXCHANGE HOTEL, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FALL SPECIALTIES AT LOWENBERG'S HANDSOME FALL OVERCOATS FOR $5.00. Call and see the FALL STYLES Just Received AT LOWENBERG'S POPULAR CLOTHING STORE, Bloomsburg, Pa.

While thus engaged on work so fine, Where skill and patience must combine, How oft the thought must pain the heart, That after all your care and art, The handiwork that charms the eye Ere long must soid and ruined lie.

A WORD OF WARNING. There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory'" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

THE BEST BURNING OIL THAT CAN BE MADE FROM PETROLEUM. It gives a brilliant light. It will not smoke the chimney. It will not char the wick. It is a high test fuel. It is not explosive. It is pre-eminently a family safety oil.

WE CHALLENGE COMPARISON. With any other illuminating oil made. We Stake Our Reputation. As referees, upon the statement that it is THE BEST OIL IN THE WORLD.

ACME OIL COMPANY. DANVILLE PA. Trade for Bloomsburg and vicinity supplied by MOYER BROS., Bloomsburg, Pa.

LAXADOR. Cures Liver Complaint, Bilious Affections, Stomach, Sick Headache, Sick Stomach, Giddiness, Constipation, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Kidney trouble, and all delicate Female Complaints. Sold everywhere, Price 25 cents.

DREXEL'S COLOGNE. Fragrant! Lasting! The Leading Perfume for the Toilet and Handkerchief. Sold by all dealers. Price 25 cents.

DI'BULL'S COUGH SYRUP. CURES COUGHS & COLDS FOR 25 CENTS. Price only 25 cents. Sold by all druggists.

SALVATION OIL. Price only 25 cents. Sold by all druggists. Will relieve Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Swellings, Bruises, Lumbago, Sprains, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Wounds, Cuts, Scalds, Backache, Frostbites, Chapped Hands and Face, Gout, or any bodily pain or ailment.

M. C. SLOAN & BRO. Manufacturers of CARRIAGE BUGGIES, PHAETONS, SLEIGHS, PLATFORM WAGONS & C. First-class work always on hand. REPAIRING NEATLY DONE. Prices reduced to suit the times.

SUFFERING WOMEN. Use Dr. DUCHESNE'S Celebrated FEMALE REGULATING PILLS. This is the only medicine for all Female Disorders. Dr. Martor Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Interest to Ladies. GET YOUR JOB PRINTING DONE AT THE COLUMBIAN OFFICE.

PAINTLESS CHILD BIRTH. The undersigned has leased this well-known house, and is prepared to accommodate the public with all the conveniences of a first-class hotel.

Exchange Hotel, HENTON, PA. The undersigned has leased this well-known house, and is prepared to accommodate the public with all the conveniences of a first-class hotel.

The Columbian.

BLOOMSBURG, PA., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1888.

THE COLUMBIAN, VOL. XXII, NO. 45. COLUMBIA DEMOCRAT, VOl. LII, No. 45.

Governor Hill of New York.

HE MAKES A BINGING DEMOCRATIC SPEECH.

Governor Hill was serenaded on Thursday night of last week at Albany, N. Y., by an immense gathering of democrats, to whom he spoke as follows: "FELLOW CITIZENS—Words are inadequate to express my appreciation of your courtesy in tendering me this magnificent serenade. For your kind congratulations upon this occasion you will please accept my heartfelt thanks. I am grateful to the people of the state upon the renewed expression of their confidence in summoning me for the second time to accept the high and honorable position of chief executive of the Empire state. Especially is my profound acknowledgment due to the citizens of Albany, who, without distinction of party, gave me such a flattering and enthusiastic support. Permit me to observe, in passing, that I shall ever remember with pleasant associations connected with my official residence among the hospitable people of this ancient capital city.

"Enough! The new government and perhaps the majorities of the two houses, are pledged not only to the present high tariff, but an augmentation of it according to the republican senate bill, which will prove a pyramid of taxation that the world has never seen before. How far such a policy will prevail can only be solved when it is put in force. All prospects must in this strange country be futile. When forty years ago the stubborn and short-sighted slavery oligarchy insisted on not only repealing the Missouri compromise but trying to plant slavery in the territories, they doomed their cause as much as did Nero do the cause of the temples of Jupiter and Venus when he lighted his golden palaces with the Christian martyrs of whom he made torches. It is the insolence of pride and oppression that goes before destruction.

"History repeats itself. The monopoly of oligarchy is simply repeating the folly of the slavery oligarchy of forty years ago. Thank God, a republican revolution is not subject to bloodshed. But that there will be an economic revolution of such intensity that will deluge this land with bank ruptures and ruin for years is as clear as the sun in the noonday sky. "I do not affect to conceal my gratification over the result of the gubernatorial contest in this state. Our opponents unwisely entered upon a campaign of personal detraction, and they now discover their mistake. The time they waste in business and one of political warfare can accomplish much among the intelligent and discerning people of a great state like ours. The people are opposed to vilification, to hypocrisy and sham, and prefer fair play in frankness in politics as they care in business. I have no unkind words or personal views to express upon this occasion concerning the violent opposition which I encountered in some quarters, except to say that I was unquestionably fortunate in my enemies. My personal recollections of my personal and official duties and of my loyalty and devotion to the democratic party and to its candidates and principles, I awaited the verdict of the people with an unflinching and an unshaken confidence in the result.

THE NATIONAL DEFEAT. "Our success in the gubernatorial contest is marred, however, by the shadow of national disaster. In common with every true patriot, I deeply regret the defeat of President Cleveland in the state and in the union. He deserved better at the hands of the people of this country. Honest, brave and courageous, he gallantly led his party in the great contest for the presidency. I have only to regret the false clamor, unjust prejudices, unfair representations and the gigantic and combined efforts of all the monopolists of the country. He did his duty as he understood it, regardless of personal or political considerations, and he should have been sustained by the taxpayers, consumers and masses of the people, whose true interests he desired to subserve and whose rights he unselfishly endeavored to maintain.

TARIFF REFORM. "It is not necessary or profitable to inquire whether the issue which he so boldly made might not more wisely have been carried in business or postponed to a later period. It is sufficient to say that as the trusted leader of the democratic party, after a full and careful consideration of the whole subject he deemed that the best and truest interests of the country required that the issue should be made at this crisis, and with that patriotic and deliberate conclusion, when once reached, there should have been prompt acquiescence. "The principle of tariff reform has only met with temporary defeat. Sooner or later it will ultimately triumph in this country. President Cleveland and the democratic party were right and deserved to succeed. The argument was with us, and two weeks' longer discussion would have given us the victory. Permit me to suggest that there must be no back track taken upon this question. The issue

SO COURAGEOUSLY PRESENTED by President Cleveland in the interest of the whole people must not be abandoned. Our flag has been nailed to the mast, and there it must remain. Temporary disaster must not be permitted to discourage us in our unselfish efforts to relieve the people from unjust and unnecessary taxation. Temporary expediency will only endanger or postpone our final triumph. Let us steadfastly adhere to the principle of tariff reform and the clouds that now obscure our pathway will soon pass away. "President Lincoln once said: 'You may deceive part of the people all the time and all the people part of the time, but no party can deceive all the people all the time. Our opponents will soon discover the truth of this statement. They will be obliged to abandon their own national platform because it was too radical. Their own temporary tariff bill was a partial abandonment of their further departures are inevitable. The democratic party did not favor free trade, and will not hereafter favor it. The people must not be permitted to misunderstand our position, but from this time forward let us continue the discussion of this question till it is fully

A Hawk Attacks a Man.

ROCKLAND, Pa., Nov. 10.—James P. Schaeffer of this place had a remarkable experience with a chicken hawk a few days ago. He was driving along the road, and had seen the hawk sailing about high in the air for some time. Finally he noticed that the bird was rapidly descending, and supposing that it was dropping down on prey of some kind, stopped his team to watch the result of the attack.

Whether the hawk concluded that Schaeffer was there to antagonize it in its effort to get a dinner, and determined to resent interference, Schaeffer is not able to explain, but he was not long in discovering that he himself was the object of the big bird's attack. It swooped down upon him with terrible force, struck at him savagely with both legs and talons, and then alighted on the ground at the roadside, where it put itself in unmistakable fighting position.

Schaeffer was greatly surprised at this attack, but supposing that it wouldn't be much of a trick to whip a hawk, he got out of his wagon. He had scarcely placed his feet on the ground when the hawk rushed at him, half flying and half running. Schaeffer met the bird with a vigorous kick in the breast, but that only had the effect of adding to its rage. The man quickly made up his mind that he had met an antagonist a little tougher than he had counted on, and, grabbing a stick from the roadside, went into the fight in earnest.

Before Schaeffer could effectively see his club on the fierce and active hawk it had ripped his clothes with its talons as if the man had been made with a sharp knife, and laid the flesh open in great gashes on his face, legs and shoulders. At last a lucky blow with the club stunned the bird, and before it could recover Schaeffer despatched it.

He was so badly hurt that he had to return home and get medical attention. He is still housed up. The hawk measured nearly six feet from tip to tip of its wings, and Schaeffer says that he believes it would have got the best of him if he had not been lucky enough to find the club within his reach. Such a wild attack on a man by a hawk, a bird naturally shy of the human presence, is undoubtedly without a precedent.

A Baggage Master Rebuked.

M. QUAD TAKES A TRIP ON THE RAILROAD AND HAS A LITTLE FUN.

In going down to the Jersey coast by way of New York City, rather by Jersey City, I reached that point trunkless. I went over the river and consulted the baggage agent, and after telegraphing to various points it was found that they had been left in the station at Buffalo. The baggage man there had called three hours in which to get them aboard, but he had singled me out as a victim. Everybody else's trunks had come along, but mine had been held over for a rest. I couldn't kick on a man 300 miles away, but I lay for him. All the while I was fishing and sailing I nursed my wrath to keep it warm, and six weeks later I walked in the baggage office at Buffalo. I had the documents to back me up, and I said: "On July 22 I passed through here. I was ticketed to Jersey City station, and I called before my trunk left Detroit I saw that my checks were alright."

"Well?" "Well you left my trunks right here for twenty-four hours." "Quite right, you must pay for your carelessness." "What?" "Here is a bill of expense made by your neglect of duty. There's $6 for three of us at a hotel over night. I said an expressman twenty-five cents, I paid another the same. I had to take a hack to carry me about in Jersey City, and that is twelve shillings more. The total expense is $9, to say nothing of my time and worry and a day lost."

"And you expect me to pay?" "Well, either pay or I'll bring suit and send for thy general baggage agent as a witness." "Well, you are a crank!" "No I am not. I simply kick when imposed upon. The road guaranteed to carry my baggage in Jersey City at a certain hour all right and accident prevented. There was no accident."

He stormed around for a while and then said me, and I divided the money between two crippled at the door. He said I was most merciful that he saw, but it was a lesson he will never forget.

Another Woman Murdered.

THE WHITECHAPEL FIEND ADDS ONE MORE TO HIS LIST.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The murder fiend has added another to his list of victims. At 11 o'clock this morning the body of a woman cut into pieces was discovered in a house on Dorset Street, Spitalfields. The police are endeavoring to track the murderer with the aid of bloodhounds. The remains were mutilated in the same horrible manner as were those of the other women murdered in Whitechapel.

Ladies on Silent Steeds.

SOME OF PHILADELPHIA'S PROMINENT BELLES WHO RIDE TRI-CYCLES.

An encouraging sign from a physical standpoint is the largely increasing number of women who are taking up those out-door sports in which health and pleasure go hand in hand. Perhaps the most beneficial sport is that of tricycling, and these crisp autumnal days are better than any other time of the year to enjoy a ride between the wheels. The women of America do not ride as much as their transatlantic sisters, but they are fast finding out that if they wish to compete with the English women in constitutional vigor they must lead a life into which open air athletic creation more largely enter. The advantages of the tricycle have only been realized in this country a few years, but in that time it has become wonderfully popular and every month finds a great increase in the number of lady tricycle riders.

In England, Queen Victoria, the Princess Louise, the Princess of Wales, two of his daughters, and hundreds of noble birth use the tricycle. In this country, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, Rev. Geo. F. Penicost, and Senator William M. Everts were enthusiastic on the subject. President Cleveland rode in Buffalo when he used a friend's tricycle, and when he removed to Washington he was presented with one for his own use.

At the capital, many of the leading physicians now ride tricycles in making calls on their patients. Dr. Robert Hayward, who was one of the first of the surgical attendants; Dr. John Walter, of the Georgetown University, and Dr. J. Tiber Johnson, who was Charles Sumner's physician, all use them.

How to Live to a Good Old Age.

The first lesson to be taught and learned is—that all disease is the result of broken law; that much of it might easily be avoided by the observance of the laws of health on the part of the individual; that much more, which is beyond the reach of individuals might be prevented by the combined efforts of communities and the state; and that those diseases which are entailed upon this generation by the law of heredity, might by obedience to law be gradually stamped out of existence, and future ages be freed from their curse.

The next thing to be taught is the laws themselves—and with the laws, and of even greater importance, the habit of obeying them. We know a great deal more than we put in practice. This is the fault of the common modes of health teaching. Our newspapers and periodical literature contains a vast deal of popular instruction in these matters. They are treated of in an abundance of well-written books which are within easy reach of all who care to read them. Our schools are taking both of the good works, and attention in hygiene is fast coming to be recognized as an essential of even an elementary education. But all these do not reach the evil, or if they do, they only touch it on the surface.

Our schools are full of good grammarians who do not use respectable English in common conversation. So, too, they may be full of gibberish of the laws of health, who do not observe a single one of the laws they have learned. The main point is to secure obedience. The greatest criminals are usually well versed in the laws of the land; but their knowledge does not avail to keep them out of the penitentiary when they have broken these laws. Neither will a knowledge of the laws of health keep a man from being sick, so long as he does not live up to his knowledge. We are creatures of imitation. Example counts for more than precept. The parent knows the law, and the child knows it too. When the parent keeps it also, then the children will keep it also. It does little good for a child to learn at school that the food should be properly prepared, when three times every day at home he sees a hungry group crowd about the table like pigs around a trough, and bolt their food as nearly whole as it can be made to go down. The child whose mother gives him a little of something to eat every time it comes out, will not be in a condition to profit from an understanding of the law that food should not be taken between meals, until it is too late for the knowledge to be of much ventilation. The law of pure air and proper ventilation may be taught over so plainly in total abstinence, but to the boy who is brought up to sit and sleep in a close, unventilated room, foul with the breath of living beings, and shut fresh air as he would a plague, the knowledge will be of little avail. While his father's star is filled with decay, his mother's table and all manner of filth, and the cess-pool smells to heaven from beneath the kitchen window, all the teachings of the schools will not prevent his having typhoid fever, or diphtheria, or some form of filth disease, when the summer sun calls into activity the germs of disease which are latent there. If liquors are kept upon the sideboard and wine are served upon the table in his home, not all the teachings of all the temperance text-books in the land can be relied upon to produce in him habits of sobriety in total abstinence.

It is the practice of the principles of hygiene in our homes, and this alone, which will lessen the rate of disease and death to-day, and develop a stronger race to-morrow. The child who had learned the laws of health from his father and mother by seeing them constantly and persistently applied, will come to follow them in his own case, as he will conduct himself properly in good society, if good society has been his birthright, and gentlemanly conduct has become habitual.—(Good House-keeping.)

The New Lien Law Set Aside.

The decision of the Supreme Court of the States given by Justice Williams in Pittsburgh has nullified the entire new lien law passed by the last Legislature on the broad ground that it is unconstitutional. The Legislature strangely omitted to recite the lien laws of 1836 and 1845 which it intended to amend, and that is so clearly in disregard of a positive mandate of the Constitution that the Supreme Court could do no less than declare the act null and void.

The effect of the decision of the Supreme Court will be to destroy all liens entered against properties by individuals or mechanics or material men dealing with sub-contractors. Many such liens were entered during the last year, instead of claiming and entering them only on the basis of a contract, expressed or implied, with the owner and on the credit of the building, as the Supreme Court deems the right; and all such liens will be useless, except in their claim.—Times.

The Electoral Vote.

The following is the estimate of the electoral vote:

Table with 2 columns: For Harrison and For Cleveland. Lists states and their electoral votes.

The Vote by States.

Table with 2 columns: State and Estimated Vote. Lists states and their estimated electoral votes.

How to Live to a Good Old Age.

The first lesson to be taught and learned is—that all disease is the result of broken law; that much of it might easily be avoided by the observance of the laws of health on the part of the individual; that much more, which is beyond the reach of individuals might be prevented by the combined efforts of communities and the state; and that those diseases which are entailed upon this generation by the law of heredity, might by obedience to law be gradually stamped out of existence, and future ages be freed from their curse.

The next thing to be taught is the laws themselves—and with the laws, and of even greater importance, the habit of obeying them. We know a great deal more than we put in practice. This is the fault of the common modes of health teaching. Our newspapers and periodical literature contains a vast deal of popular instruction in these matters. They are treated of in an abundance of well-written books which are within easy reach of all who care to read them. Our schools are taking both of the good works, and attention in hygiene is fast coming to be recognized as an essential of even an elementary education. But all these do not reach the evil, or if they do, they only touch it on the surface.

Our schools are full of good grammarians who do not use respectable English in common conversation. So, too, they may be full of gibberish of the laws of health, who do not observe a single one of the laws they have learned. The main point is to secure obedience. The greatest criminals are usually well versed in the laws of the land; but their knowledge does not avail to keep them out of the penitentiary when they have broken these laws. Neither will a knowledge of the laws of health keep a man from being sick, so long as he does not live up to his knowledge. We are creatures of imitation. Example counts for more than precept. The parent knows the law, and the child knows it too. When the parent keeps it also, then the children will keep it also. It does little good for a child to learn at school that the food should be properly prepared, when three times every day at home he sees a hungry group crowd about the table like pigs around a trough, and bolt their food as nearly whole as it can be made to go down. The child whose mother gives him a little of something to eat every time it comes out, will not be in a condition to profit from an understanding of the law that food should not be taken between meals, until it is too late for the knowledge to be of much ventilation. The law of pure air and proper ventilation may be taught over so plainly in total abstinence, but to the boy who is brought up to sit and sleep in a close, unventilated room, foul with the breath of living beings, and shut fresh air as he would a plague, the knowledge will be of little avail. While his father's star is filled with decay, his mother's table and all manner of filth, and the cess-pool smells to heaven from beneath the kitchen window, all the teachings of the schools will not prevent his having typhoid fever, or diphtheria, or some form of filth disease, when the summer sun calls into activity the germs of disease which are latent there. If liquors are kept upon the sideboard and wine are served upon the table in his home, not all the teachings of all the temperance text-books in the land can be relied upon to produce in him habits of sobriety in total abstinence.

It is the practice of the principles of hygiene in our homes, and this alone, which will lessen the rate of disease and death to-day, and develop a stronger race to-morrow. The child who had learned the laws of health from his father and mother by seeing them constantly and persistently applied, will come to follow them in his own case, as he will conduct himself properly in good society, if good society has been his birthright, and gentlemanly conduct has become habitual.—(Good House-keeping.)

The decision of the Supreme Court of the States given by Justice Williams in Pittsburgh has nullified the entire new lien law passed by the last Legislature on the broad ground that it is unconstitutional. The Legislature strangely omitted to recite the lien laws of 1836 and 1845 which it intended to amend, and that is so clearly in disregard of a positive mandate of the Constitution that the Supreme Court could do no less than declare the act null and void.

The effect of the decision of the Supreme Court will be to destroy all liens entered against properties by individuals or mechanics or material men dealing with sub-contractors. Many such liens were entered during the last year, instead of claiming and entering them only on the basis of a contract, expressed or implied, with the owner and on the credit of the building, as the Supreme Court deems the right; and all such liens will be useless, except in their claim.—Times.

The art of phubing is said to have been known to the Chinese thousands of years ago.