BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1888.

Chairman Barnum, of the Democratic National Committee, has been very sick and his life was at one time despaired of but he is at present improving.

The latest news from West Virginia, give the state to Cleveland by 1000 majority. The democrats have elected three out of the four Congressmen. In Virginia, the official vote gives the state to Cleveland by nearly 4000, and elects eight democrats and four republicans to Congress. This narrows the election of Harrison down to New York state, which was carried by about 10,000 plurality. The fifty-first Congress will have a small democratic majority while the senate may be a tie.

Congressional Returns.

The return judges of the 17th district met at Sunbury on Tuesday. The following is the result:

	Buckalew.	Robison.
Columbia	4713	2505
Montour	1879	1329
Northumberland	6136	6491
Sullivan	1985	1031
	14613	11356
Buckalew's majority		2656

Kaseman received 139 votes in Columbia, and 197 in Northumberland.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Nov. 12, 1888.

Senator Gorman came from New York direct to Washington a day or two ago, and had a long conference with Mr. Cleveland, during which it is thought they went over the various rersons assigned for the democratic defeat. Mr. Cleveland takes the matter philosophically, and loses no opportunity to state his belief in the honest support given him by Govenor Hill and his friends in New York.

Said a prominent official yesterday:

During the next four years the cause of the disaster of last Tuesday will be stated as a thousand and one different things. I believe that it was caused by the position taken on the tariff question during the last two months of the campaign by the stump speakers of the party under orders from the National Committee. During the long discussion of the Mills bill in the house, its friends constantly denounced the protective tariff as legalized robery, and yet those same men were compelled to go on the stump and state that the Mills bill was a protective measure, because somebody had become panic-stricken at the cry of free trade. This action undoubtedly disgusted thousnds of voters who are believers in free and unrestricted trade with the world at large, and at the same time it did not attact any of the high protection voters. I am finally of the opinion that had the democratic speakers and newspapers accepted the challenge of the republicans and proclaimed themselves in favor of free trade as soon as it could be brought about without detriment to the required income of the Government, that Mr. Cleveland would have been triumphantly re-elected.

Many thousand men throughout the country who are pronounced free traders voted the republican ticket. Why? Simply because they believe that the higher the tariff is made, the sooner the people will demand that it be removed altogether. There is food for thought in this view of the question.

Mr. Lamont, Mr. Cleveland's secretary, will go into the insurance business in New York city after the 4th of March. He is one of the most popular men that ever filled a similar position, and will carry with him the good wishes of everyone who has had business at the White House during this administration.

Mr. Dalton, postmaster of the House of Representatives, and an Indiana democrat for many years, says of the newly elected President: In six months there will be more complaining of Mr. Harrison by republicans than by democrats. Everything about it will be hightoned and honorable. Democrats and the people generally will have nothing to complain of. It will be a conservative administration, much more liberal than extremists would desire, and no man or clique of men can run Mr. Harrison. He will be the President. This will cause some heart burnings in his party. He is a civil service reformer, and is as firm as Cleveland. In this he will antagonize those of his party who will demand a clean sweep. Some of his party will wish a vigorous and oppressive policy in the South. They will be disappointed. He will adopt the most liberal southern policy any republican has ever thought of. He will treat the southern people well. I know the man. He is a republican, but he is not lacking in wisdom. His appointments in the South will all go to republicans.

He will not appoint a democrat to any office. He is too much of a partisan for that. But he will appoint no carpet-baggers; none of the rapscallions that have been placed over the Southern states before. Some of the border States are now very close. He will try to draw them into his party ranks. I think he will be with his party on the educational question, on the pension question, on the tariff, and all those issues. The picture that Mr Dalton has drawn is a brighter one than most democrats can see just at present, but we shall see later.

Already, before it is officially settled that the republicans will control the House of representatives, they are fighting among themselves about the House offices.

The country at large is to be complimented on the campaign just passed; it was entirely free from the disgusting personalities of '84, and the result has consequently left no bad blood. The democrats were beaten, but their leaders have no apologies to make; on the contrary, they insist that tariff reform shall continue as the motto of the party, and they express a confidence that long before 1892 a majority of the voters of the country will endorse the position taken by the democratic party in 1888.

There is a rumor floating around here to the effect that Harrison will call an extra session of the Fifty-first Congress early in March, for the ostensible purpose of passing a tariff bill, but in reality to admit all of the republican territories, in order to get the benefit of the additional Senators and Representatives.

What Next?

The burden of government will after March 4 next be transferred from the shoulders of the Democracy, which have born it so creditably for the last four years, to their Republican opponents; what will the latter do with it?

The Democracy, in reviewing the history of their first attempt at government upon their restoration to power have this to remember: The affairs of this nation have never been better administered nor has the government been so respected at home and abroad for a generation than under the care of Democracy and its honored President. Can Republicanism do better? Is there a reasonable hope that they will do so well? Let us see.

The Republican nominee for President is a man who has much to recommend him, as this paper pointed out at the time of his nomination. He was a soldier in the war for the Union and did good service for his country in the dark days of the slave-holder's rebellion. His private character and domestic relations are such that the public was saved a parade of unsavory scandals during the campaign; but who will deem him capable for instance of the moral courage which dictated the veto of the vicious and wholly indefensible dependent pension bill? Who would attribute to him even a fair share of the iron will and determination of Grover Cleveland?

Another and much more serious question confronts the American people, however. It is not so much the temporary postponement of the reform of our tariff, not the fact that the distinguished and honorable services of Grover Cleveland to the Republic have been dispensed with, nor yet the fact that the Democratic party has had to give way to its opponents. None of these are so vital as the question, "What are we to expect from General Harrison with James G. Blaine in virtual control and Mathew S. Quay and W. W. Dudley as his lieutenants? Has not the last campaign been a Blaine campaign, and were not the infamies of the Republican National Chairman and Treasurer well known and almost openly practiced?"

Very few men in history have improved the full measure of opportunities suddenly thrust upon them; Grover Cleveland, suddenly confronted with the great responsibility of the Presidency, sized up to the emergency in a way such as few men ever did; will General Harrison do as well? Will he resist Blaineism, Dudleyism, Mathew Stanley Quayism? Let us sincerely hope, for the sake of our native land, of public decency and national honor that he may.

The Evening Herald is a Democratic paper; it does not assume to be anything else; it does not ask for any popular approval which it cannot win by an earnest and conscientious support of what it believed to be real Democracy. It opposed General Harrison upon these broad grounds; yet this paper has no wish that he may not have an administration which shall at least throw no discredit upon his country. But it is as sure as fate that if the gang which ran the campaign for General Harrison get the reward which they as politicians expect, profligacy, shamelessness will be in the ascendant and falsehood and trickery be the ruling spirits of the national administration.—Phila. Evening Herald.

Give the Spook a Rest.

Now that the British bugaboo has played successfully its parts in the election, in exciting the fears of the ignorant and the animosities of the prejudiced, the country is entitled to a four year's rest from it.

To pretend, as the Protectionist organs do, that "British manufacturers are disappointed in the result," is to work the jack o'-lantern spook after the silly scare has been accomplished. As Mr. Gladstone has said, so long as the United States continue to tax the raw materials and machinery of their manufacturers, the English have no occasion to fear their competition. The foreign woolen manufacturers will continue to supply our boasted "home market" to the tune of $50,000,000 a year, because "the sheep voted" here against letting our manufacturers obtain the wool that is essential to compete with them.

England does not export wool, nor flax, nor lumber, nor the crude materials of manufacturers in general. She imports vast quantities of them, without enhancing their cost to her manufacturers by stupid and needless taxes. And she is thus enabled to beat the United States, not only in their own market, but in the other markets of the world.

A great many of the more ignorant farmers and workingmen have been deluded into voting straight for "British interests" by maintaining the handicap of the war tariff. They will see their folly in "four years more."—World.

Catarrh

May affect any portion of the body where the mucous membrane is found. But catarrh of the head is by far the most common, and the most liable to be neglected. It cannot be cured by local applications. Being a constitutional disease it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, working through the blood, eradicates the impurity which causes and promotes the catarrh, and soon effects a permanent cure. At the same time Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the whole system, and makes one feel renewed in strength and health. If you suffer from catarrh, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Ringing Noises Impure Blood

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house as I think it is worth its weight in gold." MRS. G. B. GINN, 1029 Eighth St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

REPORTS OF GOVERNMENT CHEMISTS

As to Purity and Wholesomeness of the Royal Baking Powder.

"I have tested a package of Royal Baking Powder, which I purchased in the open market, and find it composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder of a high degree of merit, and does not contain either alum or phosphates, or other injurious substances. E. G. LOVE, Ph.D."

"It is a scientific fact that the Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure. "H. A. MOTT, Ph.D."

"I have examined a package of Royal Baking Powder, purchased by myself in the market. I find it entirely free from alum, terra alba, or any other injurious substance. HENRY MORTON, Ph.D., President of Stevens Institute of Technology."

"I have analyzed a package of Royal Baking Powder. The materials of which it is composed are pure and wholesome. S. DANA HAYES, State Assayer, Mass."

The Royal Baking Powder received the highest award over all competitors at the Vienna World's Exposition, 1873; at the Centennial, Philadelphia, 1876; at the American Institute, New York, and at State Fairs throughout the country.

No other article of human food has ever received such high, emphatic, and universal endorsement from eminent chemists, physicians, scientists, and Boards of Health all over the world.

NOTE—The above DIAGRAM illustrates the comparative worth of various Baking Powders, as shown by Chemical Analysis and experiments made by Prof. Schedler. A pound can of each powder was taken, the total leavening power or volume in each can calculated, the result being as indicated. This practical test for worth by Prof. Schedler only proves what every observant consumer of the Royal Baking Powder knows by practical experience, that, while it costs a few cents per pound more than ordinary kinds, it is far more economical, and, besides, affords the advantage of better work. A single trial of the Royal Baking Powder will convince any fair minded person of these facts.

* While the diagram shows some of the alum powders to be of a higher degree of strength than other powders ranked below them, it is not to be taken as indicating that they have any value. All alum powders, no matter how high their strength, are to be avoided as dangerous.
