

THE GAME OF "HOP."

IT EXCELS POKER AND IS EQUAL TO THE FASCINATING FARO.

A New Short Card Game That Has Taken Paris and London by Storm, and From There to Become Popular in America—How to Play and the Rules for It.

People of Paris who gamble are devoted to their spare time to a new game that has supplanted all of the other games played for money.

The new game is called "hop," and it is described as being the most fascinating game that has ever been played—no even excepting the alluring game of poker.

Paris is so infatuated with "hop" that millions of francs are lost and won at it every night.

The game of "hop" has been introduced into the clubs of London, and it is being played there with a zeal worthy of a better cause.

So far as known the game has not as yet been attempted in the United States, but it is only a matter of time when it will become as popular there as in Paris and London.

The reason that it is so enticing, that it is impossible for card players to withstand its temptations. All that is required to render it a game that is explained in the rules going with the cards.

"Hop" is an extremely simple game. Any person of ordinary mental caliber can play it with ease and success.

Here is a description of the game: Four persons are necessary to make a game. They are seated at a table from which they play out all the cards below the seven.

Each player has a hand of five cards, kings, queens, jacks, tens, nines, eights and sevens to nine.

After the deal those who have been supplied with cards look at their hands and bet or stay out, as their judgment dictates.

The matter of betting having been settled, the dealer turns a card from the top of the deck and proceeds to pay and make, according to the exigencies of the game.

Losers and winners are determined thus: If a player has a pair of cards, he makes a sweep, or, in other words, wins all of the bets that are made, regardless of the cards held by the other players.

If he turns a king or queen, he makes a sweep, or, in other words, wins all of the bets that are made, regardless of the cards held by the other players.

If he turns a king and a queen, he makes a sweep, or, in other words, wins all of the bets that are made, regardless of the cards held by the other players.

THE TURKISH BATH.

AN INSTITUTION THAT IS POPULAR WITH THE LADIES.

Women Who Hate to Increase Their Weight, and Others Who Do the Same to Make Themselves Thinner—Ladies' Day at a St. Louis Bath House.

While St. Louis cannot boast of any Turkish baths marked by Parisian or even Levantine luxury and elegance as to fittings and conveniences, she can claim to have a large contingent of fresh looking, handsome women who give full credit to the beautifying influence of regular Turkish baths.

All the public Turkish baths have "Ladies' Days," and the register of the leading establishments yields on inspection a long list of names of ladies prominent in society, in the schools, in the churches—in all the sets and circles of the city.

On "Ladies' Days" this bath house can hardly accommodate the crowds of maids, matrons, children and school girls that come to regular consumers.

HAVE THEIR BATHS. The visitor as well as the attendant at the bath house soon learn to look for certain classes on the same days of each successive week.

Those who come by order of their physicians, are generally promptly on hand Tuesday; society women who come to recuperate their expended strength and for beauty baths, favor Thursday as the best day of the week.

When the gaities pause for breath and one is less likely to "miss something" on that day. Saturday is the teachers' day, when they spray their faces with the dead skin of their spent forces and relax the tired muscles of discipline on the slab where the spray sooths, for most often, they find a very different complexion.

Some of their recalcitrant pupils come in gay, noisy little shoals and make the corridors ring with their laughter and little screams of exhortation.

One of the many women in the virtues of the Turkish bath is limitless. Those who are too thin believe that they will attain the plumpness of their standard of perfection by continuing the bath.

Those who grow with flesh think the bathing and the rubbing will make the burden roll away; those whose complexion are too pale or too sallow seek these baths and clearness.

An Attack of Cravel.

The "Cravel" is a disease of the skin, which is characterized by the appearance of small, red, itchy spots on the face and neck.

There is nothing I now enjoy that I do not owe to having used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, made at Bloomsburg, N. Y. My trouble began in my throat and from which I never expected to recover.

I had BRIGHT'S DISEASE, which was alarming information. To add to my affliction after I had been ill about two years, I had an attack of Cravel. When this made its appearance my physician gave up on me, and I resigned myself to die.

Now Vigorous and Strong. I was in my prime, I do all my own work, and I am as strong and healthy as ever. I have no more of the Cravel, and I have no more of the other ailments that I had.

OUR SANITARY LAWS.

It is Not That We Are Without Them, They Are Not Enforced.

As population increases in density the need for the enactment, supervision and enforcement of laws pertaining to communicable diseases increases.

The sanitary condition of the United States, in respect to density of population, is very different to-day from what it was one hundred or even fifty years ago.

Far greater alertness on the part of legislators, city governments, courts and officials is consequently required than there ever required before.

Our average national death rate has so been compared with that of the United States, in respect to density of population, is very different to-day from what it was one hundred or even fifty years ago.

It must be the aim of the city, state and national legislators that communities obtain the laws they require for the prevention, restriction and abolition of diseases, wholly unobscured by political, partisan or mercenary considerations.

The control of legislation by corporations, monopolies and money kings should be abolished, and the enforcement of sanitary statutes, greater impartiality is demanded.

The man of wealth and influence should be, in all respects, "equal to the eye of the law" with the poorest, and he should not be allowed to use the power of any of those financial dictators with whom our age and country have been afflicted to push their grasping schemes.

On a weathered bark that is moored to a dock in West Washington to-night there is a little chap with a remarkable history. He is 76 years old, his name is (George) Stoumen, and he is the son of Capt. Stoumen, who has just arrived home in a small boat from a 7,000 mile sail from South America.

He has traveled not less than 375,000 miles, including two voyages around the world, and has touched his foot upon the soil of the three Americas, Africa, Asia, Australia and all the islands of the Pacific, and has been around Australia. His last trip on the Libertad, a boat thirty-five feet long, carrying only four tons, was 7,000 miles in a sea voyage unaccompanied for a vessel of the size. His father, mother and elder brother were his companions. At times they were 2,000 miles from land and the frail little craft met dangerous storms, but came through safely. Garfield is a good sailor and has never shown any fear of the sea.

In fact he does not know anything but the sea, having never lived on land longer than two weeks at a time. This Libertad trip, however, did not strike him very favorably, and the first night in his mother's arms he wept for his mother's knee to say his prayers, he looked around a moment and doubtfully remarked: "Mamma, this boat isn't big enough to pray in."—Washington Co. Wrestling With a Bear. A couple of hunters from the Catskills followed a bear for three days. Near Sandown, a charming little town, entirely shut in by great mountain peaks, the hunters came suddenly upon their prey. There was an old bear and three good cubs. They all ran for their lives at sight of the hunters, but Levi Small rushed headlong in pursuit of one of the cubs that had made a senseless detour, and slipping on a bit of treacherous ice, he went sprawling down the side of the mountain. The cub was tripped up by one of Small's cowhide boots, and the slinky youngster rolled over on his back, and lay motionless. Seeing her offspring in danger, the old bear rushed to the scene, but the companion of Small fired a shot with such good effect that Brain fell in her mouth, and the cub was killed. The other cubs were taken alive.—Philadelphia Times.

Moderate work, alternating with moderate rest, gives a brain which, taking the whole life through, will accomplish the most and the best work with the least expenditure of energy. The brain is to be improved and developed by reasonable exercise and reasonable rest. The one is essential as the other.—Once a Week.

DATE SPENDING, TENN., July 4, 1888. The Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga. During the spring of 1871, while working in my home town of Morgan County, Ga., I pulled off my shoes by my feet's feet. Unfortunately, I walked into a clump of poison oak, and in a few days my feet were in a terrible condition, and could not get up on a shoe because of the soreness and swelling. I was treated as poison oak cases usually are, and even had my feet cut up. About the same time the following spring, 1872, my feet became sore again, as at first, and I was treated in the same manner. I brought back the Swift Specific, and used it only once, only each time it became more distressing, because I began to think it was a hopeless case. Finally, I was induced to try Swift's Specific. I took six bottles, and to-day am entirely well. My improvement was gradual from the first, and no evidence of the disease remains. I shall take pleasure in testifying as to its curative properties. It is a great blessing to the afflicted. Yours truly, J. L. MORGAN.

The foregoing certificate is taken at random from thousands of letters in possession of the Swift Specific Co., and presented simply as a sample of the many statements, giving facts and results of the case. Its accuracy and genuineness are guaranteed by the Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.
