The prohibition battle as it is being waged in this county, thus far is all one sided. The prohibitionists are holding meetings, collecting money, making speeches, distributing circulars, and writing articles for the newspapers, while the liquor men have no organization, are raising no money, and are distributing no literature on their side of the question That there is a great deal to be said on both sides cannot be desied, but thus far very few of those who are opposed to the smendment have had the courage to express their views publicly. At this rate, Columbia county will soon be out of the toubtful list.

"Chip o' the Old Block" was put on the stage for the first time in Sacramento at the Ciunie Opera House last night. We have had so much of the light comedies of late that the public has been pretty thoroughly satisted with them, but "c'hip o' the "Old Block" possesses so many pleasing features wholly its own that it rises above the level of the fantastic creations referred to. It brims over with light and sparkling songs, and the music is fresh and jinging. A plot is interwoven in the fabric of the play, and the dramatic dialogues make the comedy parts all the more acceptable. Scott and Milfs, the leading comedians understand their business thoroughly, and possess that quality which takes so well with an audience—a natural way of making everything they do seem comical. Miss Bonstelle, the soubrette, has a good voice, a vivacious manner, and a Jarbeau kick which was not lost by any means up on those present. Taking it all the way through the company is unusually good, and the play is worth going to see, - Sacra menty Bos.

The Base Ball Fever.

The base ball clubs all over the countr are once more making preparations for "the person of Bismarck, and Catilina in the season," which is likely to be a notable one to those who are interested in the national pastime. The tour of the American players around the world and their return to this country will doubtless have the effect of arousing the enthusiasm of the admirers of the sport to fever heat. There are no sign that it is losing the remarkable hold which it has of late years gained among all classes of people. Nor is there any good reason vault in Rosemont Cemetery, making the why it should so long as the players behave bemselves like decent men, and so long a the influence of that bane of all good sports the gambler, is kept down. There is now every indication that in Philadelphia, at least, the professional organizations will provide the lovers of the game with whole some and honest sport during the spring and summer .- Er.

James pryson is minus his right eye. It appened on Thursday last in this way : He was cleaning some brass shells with vinegar and was trying to remove the cap from one that was rerdy to load to clean it without running any risk of damaging the cap. While working at the cap it exploded, and the brass covering entered his right eye, cutting its way across the pupil and landing in the rear of the eye. After examining Dr. J. H. Vastine recommended that he go at once to the Willis Eye Hospital, Phila lelphia, for treatment, as the prospect of saving the sight was but very poor. His advice was acted upon, and James started for the city on the 4:27, p. m., train on the N & W. B. R. R. Early Objection to Coal. T ONE TIME A CAPITAL OFFENSE TO BURN IT rom the Hardware Trace Journal (Eng.). Tue discussion of the probability of there being a deposit of coal in the Thames valley and under the city of London, of which there seems to be considerable evidence, repalls some interesting facts connected with its earliest use in that city. When coal was first introduced into London as a fuel, very serious objection was taken to its use t appears that in the beginning of the Fourteenth Century, brewers and smiths of he city, finding the high price of wood pressing hard upon their returns, resolved make some experiments with coal, but mmediately an outery was raised against them by persons living near the breweries and forges, the king was petitioned, and a aw was passed prohibiting the burning of coal within the city. Those who tried is however, found the new fuel to be so much uperior to wood that they persisted in its ise. But so determined was the Government to suppress what was regarded as an ntolerable nuisance, that a law was passed making the burning of coal in London capital offense, and it is recorded that one man at least was executed under that law It would appear that the ladies were most bitterly opposed to the use of goal for domestic purposes. They considered the smoke to be ruinous to their complexions and would not attend parties at houses in last week : To show their true friendship, many Rev. F. P. Maphart's friends gathered in the lecture room of the Lutheran Church last Thursday evening to hold their las-Social under his pastorate. The harmony and love that existed between pastor and people was clearly ,manifested throughout he whole evening, particularly when they presented to him ten Theological books with which he was greatly pleased,

The next evening an entertainment we iven by the Young People's Christian League, a society which was jorganized last summer by Mr. Manhart, on the 7th anniversary of his connection with this church. They showed very plainly throughout their exercises the esteem in which he was held among them; they feel that the backbone of the society, so to speak, had been broken. They exhibited heir love in another way by giving him s complete set, 12 vols. of Hawthorne's Works. He was so deeply moved by this another token of true friendship, that he could not at once respond. At last he spoke of not knowing he had so many friends and especially such warm ones as these gifts proved them to be. He encouraged them and directed them to Christ as an example worthy of imitation rather than any human being. "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," was sung, and the ers that I have a positive remedy for the exercises closed with the benediction, after which quite a number bid him Goodbye, and others simply Good-night. The next morning he was met at the depot by a concourse of friends who bore up as well as possible until he was carried out of sight.

Not only will the Lutheran church and its League miss him, but also the community at large, for he was connected with so much work outside of his own church, Prayers for his success will ascend from more than one heart for time to come.

Daniel Keller a well-known farmer liv ng near Bear Gap, Northumberland couny, was robbed of $4700 under very peculiar circumstances last week. A week be fore a well-dressed middle-aged man called on Keller and stated that he was desirous of buying a farm. Mr. Keller showed him about the premises, but the deal hung fire and the stranger remained at Keller's house as his guest. On Monday a young man, also well dressed, arrived upon the scene, representng himself as a son of John B. Packer, president of the Sunbury Bank. He want ed to purchase a Durham bull. The two his two daughters. A march played by Miss strangers and Keller went into the parlor of the latter, and while seated there the newly arrived young man produced a pack of cards and proposed to show them a fine Rev. A. Houtz. A beautiful marriage ser. strick. The man selected the ace of spades rice was rendered in an impressive man- and two spot cards and began tossing them whereupon Mr. James L. Hetter and Miss lect the ace. The original stranger tried his hand with varying success, and then "Packer" said he would bet $5000 that neither of his companions could pick out the right card.

With this stranger No. 1 picked up the winning card, gave Keller the wink, and bent the corner, so as to leave a slight

"I'll go you $5000 on that," said [Call

The cards were again thrown, land Mr. Ke ler picked up one of them, turned it over and exclaimed: "There you are. Now pass over the money." He had won. "Well, I owe you $5000," said the young man, "and here's your money. However you can't have it until I have proof that you made the bet in good faith. Show up

"Show up then and I will pass thi over." Mr. Keller began searching about for money., He gathered in a few hundred from one place and a few hundred from another, and when he had run his impro vised banks into insolvency he had $4700 in glittering gold, which he brought in and laid upon the table. Quick as a flash the stranger No. 1 whipped out a revolver and placing the muzzle at Mr. Keller's head threatened to blow his brains out if he uttered a cry or stirred a hand or foot. The other man gathered up the gold, loaded it into his pockets and fled. Then the man with the revolver, still covering his victim with its gleaming barrel, backed to the door, passed out, closed it and scampered away in the direction take by his conpanion. Mr. Keller is about 70 years old, and is the owner of several time farms in the neighborhood of his home. He was in Sunbury next morning in consultation with the authorities. Nothing has been heard or seen of the robbers since they disappeared from his house. Consumption Surely Cured

JUDGE GEO C. WING of Auburn, one of Maine's prominent lawyers, and for several years the Chairman of the Republican State Committee, was troubled with both on the back of his neck in their worst form, resembling carbuncies. Three bottles of Brown's Sarsaparilla completely curred him and now Judge Wing speaks in the highest praise of Brown's Sarsaparilla. The long sought resieds for aprile lassitude has been found. Entirely free from the mostions afromots, it is compounded of these ingredients which excended medical experience has proven to be the most potential in their effect upon the kidneys, liver and blood, and, unlike the common "spring medicines" with which the market is dooded, its effect is not only immediate, but enduring. No stronger evidence to this effect could be offered than the voluntary testimony to its virtues of men of the character and position of those whose names appear with their willing permission through all
