THE DEATH OF JOHN ADAMS.

HE PASSES AWAY JULY 4 LISTENING TO THE SOUNDS OF REJOICING.

After a long and brilliant career John Adams retired to his home in Quincy, Mass, intending to complete a history of his times before his death. He was then nearly 70 years old, and did not hope to live many years. Inbad temper would throw him into a fit of apoplexy from which he expected never to recover, and it is a wonder he did not, for his florid, corpulent frame was little calculated to resist such an attack. Yet he lived nearly another quarter of a century, dying in his 92nd year, on the 4th of July, 1826, the fitteth anniversary of American independence. The animosities of his public life were forgotten, and nothing is more beautiful than the friendship, embittered by many years of political opposition, that was revived between John Adams and Thomas Jefferson in

As the Fourth of July approached the whole nation prepared to celebrate the event, and invitations poured in on the two ex-presidents who had borne so conspicuous a part in the es-tablishment of independence to grace this occasion with their presence. But it became manifest before the day arrived that John Adams would not even be able to attend the celebration in Quincy. He was failing gradually in body, but he was alive to all that passed about him. June 30 a delegation was sent to ask him for a toast to be proposed in his name.

"Independence forever!" he replied.

"Nothing else!" in astonishment from those who remembered his old time florid style of oratory.

"Not another word. Would you gild refined gold?"
The same day he said: "I desire no other inscription over my gravestone than this: 'Here lies John Adams, who took upon himself the responsibility of the peace with France in the year 1800."

The morning of July 4 he lay listening to all the sounds of rejoicing, with his immediate family about him. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon he took leave of them. took leave of them and, saying "Jeff-erson still survives," expired. Jeffer-son had died three hours before at Monticello. The news of John Adams' death reached his fellow townsmen as they were leaving the hall after the celebration. They immediately stopped their rejoicing, and forming a procession, marched with muffled drumbeats past the house where he lay.—

GEN. HIPPOLYTE IS ON THE RUN.

HE RETIRES TO THE NORTH AFTER HARD FIGHT, LEAVING PORT AU PRINCE TO LEGITIME.

The war in Hayti, it is expected, will be abandoned during the Summer season. Gen. Legitime, President, will continue to hold the capital of the Republic, while Gen. Hippolyte, lead er of the Northern party, has been compelled to abandon his fortifications near Port au Prince and has retreated to the north. A decisive and bloody pattle was fought a few days ago not more than three miles from President Legitimes' palace. The loss was heavy on both sides, but, according to

Gen. Hippolyte had succeeded in marching his army toward the southern part of Hayti, capturing little for-tifications at different points along his route, and had goue into camp at La Croix de Bouquet, a village ten mile due north from Port au Prince. He due north from Port au Prince. He had about ten thousand men, fairly well equipped, including a small force of artillery, composed of Gatlings and Howitzers. Camp was pitched about July 20, when Hippolyte and his generals decided to send outposts in the direction of Port au Prince to ascertain if possible the exact extracts of tain, if possible, the exact strength of the Southern army. The outposts, consisting of companies of infantry. reached Drouillard, about three mi from Port au Prince, while the main force, under Gen. Hippolyte, continued to enjoy camp life at La Croix de Bou-

Legitime called out his reserves, it Legitime called out his reserves, including everybody able to carry a gun-Very many of his men were not uni-formed. Companies were pushed to the front rapidly and daily skirmishes between the outposts of the two part-es took place until the rainy season set in.

Hippolyte knew that he could not re main in camp until the end of the sea-son, and decided to attack the capital. On the night of Aug. 6 he formed his army into three divisions, which were to attack Port au Prince from as many sides. Drouillard and Frere, planta-tions to the eastward of the capital, were fortified when the command to advance was given. The Northern troops marched beyond the fortified places, and were about two and one half miles from the city, when they were met by the Southern army. Here a fierce and bloody battle was fought, resulting in the hasty retreat of Hippolyte. Such is the information received at the Haytian Consulate.

Consul General Designess said to a reporter that it was very doubtful whether Hippolyte would attempt another attack on Port au Prince. Mr Deslandes said that Frederick Doug lass, the new Minister from the United states, would start for Port au Prince early next month.

How to Make Checolate.

The secret in making chocolate, says a leading confectioner of New York city, is in mixing the powder with enough boiling water to make a thin paste and then pouring on boiling milk, and last a little more boiling water and scalding one minute. It can be made

A teaspoonful of chocolate to a cup is the rule, and if the liquids are poured on while are boiling and the whole scalded in porcelain—never tin—there will be in porcelain -never tin-there will be no doubt but that it will be a success.-

Best Nourishment for Consumptives

Consumptive persons are said to be greatly benefited by the use of Speer's Port Grape Wine, both Fermented and Unfermonted. It seems to give nourishment when everything else fails. Our Government now unjustily forbids any American citizen to kill seals in Alaska with out a license from this propolistic concern, and Mr. Blaine seeks to make the monopoly complete by forbidding foreigners to kill seals or catch fish in any part of a vast area.

The only aparent purpose of the attempt to close the sea is to promote the interests of this powerful monopoly whose members feed fat upon their unjust exactions. And for that improper purpose Mr. Blains, who on one memorab's occasion declared that he was never a deadhead in any enterprise. risks the embroilment of this country with its neighbors by attempting to close Behring Sea, the claim of right to do so resting upon the connection that with Alaska we bought Russia's exclusive jurisdiction over the whole of that part of the ocean.

But did Russia ever have any such exclusive jurisdiction over the sea! Not only have other nations always denied it, but the United States emphatically resented the claim so long as Russia held Alaska. It was never set up by our Government until a monopolistic corporation saw in it a mean of driving its rivals out of business and consolidating its own exclusive control of the sealskin market. Does that fact suggest the 'true in-wardness' of Mr. Blaine's risky and doubtfully rightful policy! - Wo ld.

HEART FAILURE.

The American Analyst thinks it would be an excellent idea if physicians of the present day would invent some other reason for or about all the deaths which occur nowadays than the heart-failure. It is difficult for any one conversant with the organs of the humac body to understand how any human being can die without heart failure, while the causes of the failure of the heart at death may be very numerous. This might not be of serious moment were it not for the fact that hundredof people are being nearly frightened to death by the constant use of the cause for sudden deaths, and many people who are sick, and necessarily have some heart symptoms, are kept in constant terror by reading or hearing in other ways of death after death by heart failure. It would be well if physicians who are too indolent or too ignorant to search out the disease laying back of the heart failure to consider how much harm they are doing the community. and if they can not correct the habit, newspapers and the public should avoid giving curfency to this unfounded and dangerous phrase. There are probably no more deaths from beart failure in these times than heretofore, but a new "Pat looked rather glum at this on-slaught, but at this point he perked up the nervous and timid are being severely injured by it.

An Attack of Gravel

There is nothing I now snjoy that I do not ows to having used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorlie Remedy, made at Rondout, N. T. My troubles began in my sidneys and from which I naves expected to recover. First there were pains in my back, I was feverall, with the same and could not steep, I was compelled to use a came, and finally got so weak that I sould not stand slone. The distress in my back was service. I was burning up with a fever or constantly abtvecting as if cold. My physicians said. I HAD BRIGHT'S DISEASE,

HAD BRIGHT'S DISEASE, which was alarming information. To add to my sfiction after I had been III about two years, I had a bad attack of Gravel. When this made its appearance my physician gave up my case, and I resigned myself to die. I had four doctors attend me, the best in the country, yet I constantly grew worse. Bit years ago last June, how well I remember the time I now Dr. Lennedy's Pavortie Ramedy advertised in our paper. After using one bottle! I three sway my case and wen't to New York on a visit, and three bottles cured me. I have never had a return of Gravel, nor of the pains or weakness in the back, and though I am over skety years of age I am Now Vigorous and Strong Present Age of the Earth.

The present age of the earth has been placed by Sir William Thomson at 160,000,000 years, while the speculations of others have given much larger figures. There are however, good grounds for regarding 16,000,000 years as a moderate setimate. Scientists concur in thinking that this is but a small part of the earth's existence, and everything leads to the belief that its total evolution through the immensity of space will exceed a million centuries.—Now York Commercial Advertiser.
