Only a Country Maiden. HOW AN AUSTRALIAN GIRL SAT ON AN ENGLISH DUDE.

It was on a Gippsland train. In a second-class carriage sat a pretty country damsel with a milk-and-rose complexion and a set of teeth as pure as the whitewashed tombstone in a country churchyard, and along with her was her weather-beaten and stalwart ma. A lean, consumptive dude, newly out from "home," occupied the opposite seat and worried her with remarks. He said that—how—he was surprised at the English aspect of things—the girls, don't you know—almost as beautiful as anything in the old country—really, now—how aw doneyerknow—so English, yersee; but for a long time there was no reply. He offered the same remark six times before he succeeded in attracting the young lady's attention, and then he was just beginning his observation for the seventh and last time: "The girls, doneyersee—when she spoke, "Ma," she said in a plaintive voice, "why don't they put it in the cattle-truck along with its mother?" That was all. It left at the next station.—New Zealand Gazette.

A SEVERE TEST.

When a manufacturer, from years of observation, has so completely established himself of the universal satisfaction given by his products, that he feels fully warranted in selling them under a certificate of guarantee, it is very natural to believe that such a producer has implicit confidence in the merits of his goods, and that, not without good reason. Such confidence is possessed by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y., in Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines, and hence his "Favorite Prescription," is sold by druggists, as no other medicine for similar purposes ever was, under a positive guarantee, that it will in every case give satisfaction, or money paid for it will be refunded. It cures all those distressing and delicate ailments and weaknesses peculiar to women. It is not necessary to enumerate the long catalogue of derangements, both functional and organic, of the female system which this marvelous remedy overcomes. They are, alas! but too well-known to most females who need more than a hint to make them plain to their understanding.

The Ocean's Greatest Depth.

The greatest known depth of the sea is in the South Atlantic Ocean, midway between the Island of Tristan d'Acunha and the mouth of the Rio de la Plata. The bottom was there reached at the depth of 40,256 feet or 8 1/2 miles exceeding by more than 16,000 feet the highest peak of Mount Everest, the loftiest mountain in the world. In the North Atlantic Ocean, south of Newfoundland, soundings have been made to a depth of 4,580 fathoms, or 27,480 feet, while depths equaling 34,000 feet or 6 1/2 miles, are reported south of the Bermuda Islands. The average depth of the Pacific Ocean between Japan, and California is a little over 2,000 fathoms; between Chili and the Sandwich Islands, 2,500 fathoms, and between Chili and New Zealand, 1,500 fathoms. The average depth of all the oceans is from 2,000 to 2,500 fathoms.

John C. Fremont, the first candidate of the Republican party for President is about 65 years old. His hair is snow white and he seems to have paid great attention to the care of his locks and whiskers.

GORMANDIZING, or overeating, or the partaking of too rich and indigestible food, is a common cause of discomfort and suffering. To immediately relieve the stomach and bowels from such overloading, a full dose of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best remedy. They operate quickly, yet thoroughly and without exciting nausea, or other unpleasant effects. If the too free indulgence in such intemperate eating has deranged digestion, causing dyspepsia and biliousness, attended with a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, control tongue, bitter or bad taste in mouth in the morning, on arising, drowsiness after meals, indigestible feeling of food, or of impending calamity and dyspepsia—then you need to follow up the use of the "Favorite" with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, to complete the cure, by loosening the bowels, and set all the processes of digestion at work. Blood-cleansing, by purging the blood, clearing the system from all humors and blood-poisons—no matter of what name or nature, or from what cause arising. There is nothing similar to it in composition or application in this country. It is a safe, reliable, and powerful medicine, and its use may make a large profit.

The Musk of Commerce.

HOW THE POWERFUL PERFUME IS OBTAINED AND ADULTERATED. Most people take it for granted that because musk is sold in what is called a pod, therefore it is a vegetable product. But the truth is that it is entirely an animal product, being a substance found in a two or three-inch sac in the body of the little musk deer of Asia. The sac, when tied up and dried, goes by the name of a pod among the hunters who bring it into market. Probably there are few things subject to such adulteration, as one part of pure musk will scent thousands of parts of some other powder mingled with it, and as the pods sell from $15 to $20 apiece the adulteration has its profit.

It is indeed so pungent that when just fresh it has been known to produce violent bleeding at the nose, and many people are so susceptible to it as to have sad headaches brought about by contact with the pure article, and while a suspicion of it is very agreeable to many persons, one so much too much becomes offensive, as the case is with patchouli and many other odorous substances. It was formerly largely used in therapeutics, especially in the Orient, having become disused as a result of the difficulty of obtaining it in a pure state as from any thing else, and it is now seldom given except in hysteria and hiccough.—Brooklyn Standard Union.

Destitution in Dakota.

ONE HUNDRED FAMILIES ON THE VERGE OF STARVATION. Owing to the extreme drought there was a failure of crops in Ramsey county, Dakota, and in consequence over one hundred families reported to be without any means of subsistence during the coming winter. There have been three successive failures of the crops and over a hundred families are not only on the verge of starvation but without sufficient clothing to protect them from the weather even at this season.

Duzens of men, women and children are without shoes or stockings, and many of the little ones have no covering but an ordinary gunny sack, with holes for head and arms. For weeks the people have been subsisting upon roots or herbs until their supplies are wholly exhausted. Some flour has been sent in from the outside, but not enough to give each of the families a supply for even one batch of bread. Unless relief is received very soon many must die of hunger.

As one result of the falling of part of all the attic rock at Quebec, killing fifty men, women and children, it is said that it will take a month to make a roadway through the debris which now blocks Champlain street, the one avenue of communication east and west below the heights.

CATARRH, Catarrhal Deafness and Hay Fever.

A NEW HOME TREATMENT. Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact and the result is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks. N. B.—For catarrhal discharges peculiar to females (whites) this remedy is a specific. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent on receipt of ten cents by A. H. Dixon & Son, 304 West King St., Toronto, Canada.—Scientific American.

An Attack of Gravel.

There is nothing I now enjoy that I do not owe to Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, made at Roseton, N. Y. My troubles began in my kidneys and from which I never expected to recover. First there were pains in my back, I was feverish, with no appetite and could not sleep, I was compelled to use a cane, and finally got so weak that I could not stand alone. The distress in my back was terrible. I was burning up with a fever or constipation and could not sleep. My rheumatism, which was alarming in character. To add to my affliction after I had been ill about two years, I had a bad attack of gravel. When this made its appearance my physician gave me my case, and I realized myself to die. I had four doctors attend me, the best in the country, yet I constantly grew worse, six years ago last June, how well I remember the time I saw Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy advertised in our paper. After using one bottle I threw away my cane and went to New York on a visit, and three bottles cured me. I have never had a return of gravel, nor of the pains or weakness in the back, and though I am over sixty years of age I am

I can never love thee! "She said it with great emphasis, and the handsome hotel clerk rose from his seat, took up his hat and overcoat, and saying in a loud voice: "Well, that settles it," retraced his steps up the aisle, while the audience burst into a roar of laughter and applause."

"That Settles It."

From the Pittsburg Dispatch. Tuesday night just as the curtain went up on the second scene of "Hamlet," a gentleman in evening dress, whose fierce mustache and goatee suggested fire-eating proclivities, marched down the right aisle of the Opera House parquet to a front seat, sat down and then, with a very fierce expression upon his face, strode up the aisle again into the foyer and out of the theatre. A gentleman who saw this singular performance said to me: "That reminds me of an incident which took place in this very theatre about a dozen years ago. It was while Fanny Davenport was playing an engagement here. A young man, who was a clerk at the Union Depot Hotel, after a rather lively dip with the boys went to the Opera House. He was a good-looking fellow with a black mustache, and the figure he cut that night was given color by his new light overcoat and high silk hat. By the time he reached the theatre it was pretty full; so he was. But he bought a ticket for the parquet seat right down front and with tolerably steady steps he made his way to it. It was in the middle of a scene. He reached his seat from his seat, and overcoat, and saying in a loud voice: "Well, that settles it," retraced his steps up the aisle, while the audience burst into a roar of laughter and applause."

"We Point with Pride"

To the "Good name at home," won by Hood's Sarsaparilla. In Lowell, Mass., where it is prepared, there is more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold than of all other medicines, and it has given the best of satisfaction since its introduction ten years ago. This could not be if the medicine did not possess merit. If you suffer from impure blood, try Hood's Sarsaparilla and realize its peculiar curative power.
