M. Leon Esquire, a Mexican, it is stated, has perfected a marvelous invention in electricity and photography. By speaking in a photophone transmitter, which consists of a highly polished diaphragm reflecting a ray of light, this ray of light is set into vibrations, and a photograph is made of it in a traveling band of sensitized paper.

These strange phenomena recall, and also explain," comments M. Bine, "the bleeding stigma which have been repeatedly observed in the subjects of religious ecstasy who have pictured to themselves the passion of Christ."

In the case, sometimes a roaring buzzing sound is caused by catarrh, last exceedingly disagreeable and very common disease. Loss of smell or hearing also result from catarrh.

The manufacture of "leatherboard" as a substitute for real leather for shoe stiffenings is an important industry in Maine. While the product has the color and quite the appearance of leather, yet these qualities have no leather in their composition, but are composed instead of hemp, flax and other similar materials ground up and pressed into sheets by a somewhat similar process to that of the manufacture of paper.
