from Mrs. Joseph Lake, of Brockway Centre, Mich.; —
"Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving rethe most deficate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an improvement in my condition. My appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions. I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life."

The Farmer's Lack of Protection The Farmer's Lack of Protection.

One of the gravest causes for the present agricultural depression, in the opinion of the secretary, is lack of protection for the farmer. Few people, he says, realize that our imports of agricultural products, estimated at prices paid by the consumer, are about equal to our agricultural exports, estimated at prices paid to the farmer, yet such is the case. Our imports of products sold in competition with those actually produced on our own soil amount to nearly produced on our own soil amount to nearly $115,000,000 annually, and as much more could be produced on our own soil under favorable conditions. Our imports of agri-cultural products for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1889, aggregated $305,000,000, the far greater part of which—perhaps $250,000,000—could, the secretary thinks, with proper encouragement be produced on our

Our system of taxation demands in provement in certain directions. The cosof supporting the government needs to be more equitably adjusted among the differ-ent classes of our people. At present in many states the burden of local taxation presses heavily upon farm property, its yery nature rendering it easily accessable. Every corporation created by the state, and to whom special privileges are granted, to whom special privileges are granted, either by state, county or incorporated village or city, should be taxed in proportion to its earnings, and in all ways the principle of taxation should be to place the burden of maintaining the government, whether state, municipal or national, upon the luxuries and comforts which the maintaining the government, whether state, municipal or national, upon the luxuries and comforts which the wealthy enjoy, and to reduce it to a mini-mum in its application to the hard earned property of the poor man.

the Sott. WASHINGTON, April 23.—Secretary Rusk in reply to hundreds of communications from different sections of the country appealing to him for an expression of opinion respecting the present condition of agricultural depression, its causes and reme dies, has issued a long address to the farmers of the country. The present agricultural depression, universally admitted and of which there can be no doubt, the secretary says, can be traced to a combination of causes-so many that probably no one man can enumerate them all.

In the first class of causes indicated, he attributes depreciation of the productive

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

Condensed Report of Proceedings in the Senate and House. WASHINGTON, April 21.—In the senate the Sifted and Condensed. called up by Mr. Hawley. The only amendment reported by the senate committee was a new section providing for a naval review in New York harbor in April, 1893, and for the unveiling of a statue of Christopher Columbus at Washington. Mr. Vest opened the debate in opposition to the bill. At the outset he protested Week's Thrashing. against the assumption that the judgment of the house in the matter of location for the fair was coercive on the senate. The fact that the city of St. Louis had been an aspirant as a site for the World's fair was aspirant as a site for the world's fair was a post-mortern proceeding, and he did not intend to introduce ghosts to disturb the tranquillity of the city of Chleago. He had always opposed all legislation looking to an exposition in 1822, and the law should not be passed which called it into exist-ence. He did not believe that the people of the United States favored any such ex-position. The agricultural people of the position. The agricultural people of the country had neither time nor money to give to a national circus such as was proposed. It had been said of him in a Chicago newspaper that he had declared that in a contest between hades and Chicago for the fair he would support hades. As Chicago news-papers never lied, it was unnecessary for him to say in a mild and not too emphatic him to say in a mild and not too emphatic way that he made no such statement. What he did say was that in a popular election among the people of Missouri for the loca-tion of the fair it would be a very close poll between hades and Chicago.

As between these two localities in such a contest he would be strictly neutral. The population of Chicago was active, energetic, aggressive, not troubled by those moral and conscientious considerations which a late interview had characterized as a late interview had characterized as "iridescent dreams." He had been told that the population of hades was composed of similar material. Chicago, besides, was full of trusts and combines, and the the latest authentic information from hades was that they were forming there a trust on sulphur in order to bear the market. He questioned whether there had been anything in the whole contest for the fair that elevated or dignified the American rair that elevated or dignified the American character at home or abroad. If the idea was to illustrate the national life or the four hundredth anniversary of America, why, he asked, was it not done in the name of the people of the United States without contests and squabbles over localities? Why had the location been put up at auc-tion? If it was to be a national affair, why did not the nation itself with an overwhy did not the nation itself, with an over flowing treasury, take upon itself the ex-pense? The whole matter, he declared, from the beginning had been simply an advertising scheme on a basis of municipa rivalry between the great cities of th Section 3.—That the president is hereby empowered and directed to hold a naval review in New York harbor in April, 1895, and to extend to foreign nations an invitation to send ships of war to join the United States navy in rendezvous at Hampton Roads and proceed thence to said re-

The vote resulted—yeas, 27; nays, 25; so the provision remains in the bill. The bill was then passed-yeas, 43; nays, 13. Chandler (Mass.) moved that the house World's fair bill, which, being agreed to, the bill goes to the president for his action. The house went into committee of the whole on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill.

Mr. Dockery (Mo.) criticised the increase in the number of government employes, which in many instances should not have been made at this time. He believed that if there was new blood in the department 1,500 clerks could be discharged, at a saving of $1,500,000. Instead of carrying on an unprofitable investigation let the commit-tee take into consideration the inefficiency of the clerical force of the departments. Mr. Bland (Mo.) discussed the monetary question and spoke in favor of the unlim-ited coinage of silver and characterized the Windom bill as a demonetization measured to raise the question from degradation of a party caucus and bring it before the house. If this was not done, let the responsibility rest on the secretary of the treasury, who assumed to frame a bill and to tell the country that if that bill were not passed there should be no silver legislation.

Mr. Grosvenor (O.) said that at the proper time the Republican side of the house would see to it that the country understood the character of the present administration and would bring in a silver bill which would be satisfactory to the people. Speakwould be satisfactory to the people. Speak-ing of the civil service system, he said that he did not believe that the law and its administration was approved by one-fifth of the members of either house of congress. He believed that if each member of the house would vote his deliberate opinion he would declare that the whole system was founded on a mistake and its administra-tion was on a false principle. It was detrimental to the very purpose it was aimed to Mr. Lodge (Mass.) defended the civil serv ice law, and resented it being characterized as a humbug and a fraud. It was not un-American and un-Republican. Subsequently in the debate. Mr. Lodge read from The New York Evening Post a list of The occupations of the members of the Tammany executive committee. In retalia tion for this, Mr. Spinola read from the same paper an article reflecting upon the character of Senator Quay. He was called to order by Mr. Grosvenor, who claimed that it was not in order for a representathat it was not in order for a representa that it was not in order for a representa-tive to read a scurrilous attack on a sen-stor. The chairman ruled the point well takes and Mr. Spinola continued in order, attacking the administration as being "English, you know." It had abolished the green stamp, the color of old Erin, and substituted a red stamp. Mr. Kers said substituted a red stamp. Mr. Kerr said that President Harrison's administration was standing fairly up to the civil service law.

THEIR LIVES IN PERIL The People of Bayon Sara Appeal for Bosts and National Aid. New Ohleans, April 23.—At 3 p. m. Gov-ernor Nichols received from Bayou Sara an appeal for a boat to save the people. The dispatch said that unless help arrived there might be great loss of life. A steamer and barges were at once sent from Baton Rouge. The wind and rain storm proved too much for the Bayou Sara levees. There are numerous crevasses and the upper (old)

Morgan sea lever is broken.

Governor Nichols has telegraphed Senator Gibson that the breaking of the Morgan sea levee is so great a disaster that he feels justified in appealing for prompt national aid. A break has occurred in the left bank near Gardere, ten miles below Baton Rouge. Two crevnsses also occurred in the Atcha-falaya levees, one above and one below West Meiville. The water is running over west Meiville. The water is running over the levees all along that section. The pro-tection levee in front of Vidalia has bro-ken and many houses are submerged. This is the first break in the Natchez dis-trict. The Lake Concordia levee gave way during the day. The lower portion of Con-cordia parish will be flooded, and great damage must ease. damage must ensue damage must ensue.

The lake water which had encroached on the outskirts of New Orleans is gradually receding. The washouts along the Louisville and Nashville railroad have been repaired and trains are passing as usual. Coupse is terrible. It is reported that people are resorting to trees for safety. Skiff foads of people are passing through the streets seeking safety on the hills. They make a sad and gloomy procession—men, women and bables. The situation is frightful. Not a house in town is above the Amended and Adopted at Albany.

"compromise" ballot reform bill came up and provoked a very warm debate. The supposition that both parties had united on

Mr. Saxton proposed to amend the bill by striking out the "paster" clause. He was then accused of bad faith by the Democrats.

Mr. Saxton's proposition was then formally put before the senate. It was carried by a strict party vote. Mr. Saxton immediately offered another amendment, permitting a physically disabled voter to take a friend into the booth with him, and an illiterate voter to be accompanied by an lliterate voter to be accompanied by an election officer. This makes the section read precisely as it read in the vetoed bill excepting that now a voter who swears falsely as to his disabilities is to be deemed guilty of perjury.

The amendment was adopted; also an other, providing that "no name written or pasted on the ballot shall be deemed the choice of the voter, notwithstanding the

shall be covered by such writing or paster.

Mr. Cantor moved to recommit the bill to the committee on general laws, with in-structions to report forthwith the un-amended bill. This obliging proposition was voted down. The bill was formally passed by a party vote of 18 to 8.

wenty Men Imprisoned in a Wyoming

CHEYENNE, Wy. T. April 23.—Thirty men are now imprisoned in the Rock Spring real mine, No. 4, which is on fire, and it is almost certain that all are dead. The mine was discovered to be on fire at 1 o'clock, and at 9, when the flames began to spread rapidly, the men were ordered to the sur-fuce. They had hardly began to issue from the shaft when an explosion occurred.

A searching party to go to the rescue of the men below had just appeared when an-other explosion occurred, followed by three others in rapid succession. Seven of the searchers were injured, one past recovery. A dozen more volunteers descended and brought up six insensible Chinamen, who died in a few minutes.

They saw ten other Chinamen lying pros-rate. Smoke began to issue in a large clume from all the entrances and further
