of Bloomsburg, Pa.

The Rhode Island Election. Rhode Island has finally thrown her Legislature as well as her popular vote to the Democrats, and the entire Democratic State ticket, including Governor and all State officials, will be elected by the Legislature in accord with the popular vote in their favor. The Democrats have twice carried Rhode Island by the popular vote since the national contest of 1888, and now even the rotton pocket borough system of representation in the Legis-lature has failed the Republicans. They seem to have lost their last grip on the State, and it will henceforth not be merely debatable but naturally

Enlarged suffrage and cruel taxes on industry and the necessaries of life have swang one of the strongest Republican States of New England into the Democratic column; and now interpretations of the Democratic column; and now interpretations of the properties of th New England, Connectiont and Rhode Island are Democratic with New Ham-shire and Massachusetts debatable. Have the party leaders in Washington, who are driven under the crack of monopoly's whip, no ears to hear?—

KNOWLEDGE.

Knowledge, why, what is it? Suppose we inquire. Ask your friend: peruse your books; go to your own brain library, and search it well. For in all these ye think ye have an inexin all these ye think ye have an inexaustable supply of this essential article. Have you done all this. Do you now know; or is it still a mystery! If you do not know, listen I will tell you. Knowledge is that which is known. Our knowledge is that which we know Your knowledge is that which you know. My knowledge is that which I know. And all knowledge is that which ever has been, or is, at the present time known. Knowledge lost is when some one knowing something that uo other person ever knew, dies, and does not leave this something recorded or in any form that man may obtain it. All else form that man may obtain it. All else is mystery, and mystery is not know-

Knowledge is that which we seek after, and mystery is that which we try to avoid and overcome. But does knowledge lesson or increase mystery! Let us think for a moment, journey back to your own mind. Can you not think of some curious thing which you saw for the first time, and do you remember how many wanderments there arose about that curious somehing that you would like to have known about? Perhaps you are old mough to remember the time when hones were not. Do you remem ber the first time you ever heard the name! Do you remember the name! Do you still remember what things you immediately wished to know about it? Now you know it is possible. You know you can talk with your friend. And at a certain distance you can recognize that friend's voice. You can hear him talk, whistle, sing, cough, laugh, or even play on an instrument. But do you know why or how! Has it lessend or increased mystery! Could you tell what makes the voice appear so small when coming through the telephone wire! When the man hung his muddy boots on Morse's telegraph wire and told his friends and neighbors that they became muddy from traveling so fast. Do you believe that man's nessages could be sent. Has this seen the state of any other person? been the state of any other person;
Is there another person like the little boy who poled beans one year and hops the next? Some of the bean vines
had grown long, and when the poles were set the little fellow good natured. ly, helped those overgrown vines up the poles. Time went on and the vines were content to grow in the way. But, the next spring, this same little fellow poled the hops. They, too, had become overgrown and must need some help to go up the poles. The little boy wondered how he should wind the vines. He went and got a bean pole with an old vine on it stuck it in the ground and from this as a patern, he wound the hop vines the ame way the beans had wound themselves the former year. He tied the wines loosly with cloth and went away. The next morning he again went to the hop vines to see how much they had grown and how they were getting along. Tell me what you suppose he found. Why to his astonishment those contrary hop vines had unwound themselves and gone up the poles the other way Singular, is it not? What made them do so? Why, bless you that little fellow has always been wonder-ing about it. He don't know to this day. Did it lesson or increase his mystery? Again, young people must grow to the knowledge that all mankind is like the hop vine. Let them go in the way they wish to and they are all right. But twine them up the other way and they are worse than a mule. From these and many more which you have had in mind while humblest at natures throne.

reading this, you may cause your own minds to decide whether or not knowledge lessens or increases mystery And further if it is not true that the more we know, the less we know. Or we have of a thing: the more mystery

we find about the same. The most learned persons are those who are the

WHAT IS SCROFULA

It is that impurity in the blood, which, ac-cumulating in the glands of the neck, pro-duces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, can-cerous growths, or the many other manifesta-tions usually ascribed to "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from serofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. "My daughter Mary was afflicted with serofulous sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. Carlille, Nauright, N. J.

This Remedy is the perscription of one of the leading physicians of Paris, France, and was used by him with unparalleled success for over thirty years, it was first given to the public as a proprietary medicine in 1878: Since which time it has found its way into almost every county on the face of the globs, and become a favorite remediated with thousands of the leading physicians. Medical societies have discussed its marvelous success their annual conventions, and after their official chemists have analyzed it and found that it contained no opiates, bromides or other harmful ingredients placed it among their standard remedies.
